FOR YOUR HEALTH'S SAKE.

Some of us will never grow up. Liberal Art students, social etiquette teachers, approved efficiency instructors—all seem to be destined to value us when we begin to supply our "book knowledge" to good and honest cause. A greater part of the few thousand students now comprising our University personal only, until very recently, been in service. As governors of the house, they the College of Medicine, and as such are believed to be the best thing for the University, the trustees and the maritatives. In many ways depends just as much upon the attitude of the trustee as the trustee. The Greek better society which violates any part of the agreement, regardless of the powers or position, it may seem, is breaking it and should be looked upon with suspicion by the first year man. The agreement could not be more binding in its nature. Rules may be broken and the guilty fraternity or persons involved may not be charged. Such infringements are part of the agreement, however, and being discreet' not only upon the fraternity, but also on the student who willfully breaks the rules. If the Freshmen are cognizant of the special rules and accept the agreement as any loyal Pennsylvania should, the consequences for infractions should be minor indeed.

Now that we are getting back into the old swing of things, with quizzes all 'round, we find, to our dismay, at a portion of our faculty have entirely adopted General Pratitude motto: "They shall not pass!"

Having heard that Anna Brechovskas, the "Grandmother of the Revolution," will arrive in Philadelphia next week, the success of our handlin' Season seems assured. So far as it is known she has made no engagements to speak of at smokers.

The University reserve coal pile having been regularly installed, thus adding greatly to the beauty of our campus, the weather conditions fair and the campus as well as the questionlessly of service wanted street elevators erected in front of the Library, should be brought to the attention of our Pennsylvania press before another year rolls round.
