DEAN MCCLELLAN RESIGNS OFFICE

Prevost Unanimously Accepts Resignation of Wharton Head, Tendered Three Months Ago.

RETURNS TO PRIVATE BUSINESS.

Announcement was made yesterday to President Edgar F. Smith that he had accepted the resignation of Dean William McClellan, of the Wharton School, which had been tendered by him last week.

Dean McClellan will return to his home in La Plata, Md., on Sunday, where he will reside with Mr. and Mrs. McClellan for the next three months, when he will make a final decision as to the future of his business enterprise with an income of approximately $2,500,000.

Dean McClellan's resignation is understood to be a natural result of the growth of the Wharton School of Business, which he has directed since its organization, and of the growth of the University.

In a brief statement, President Smith said: "The resignation of Dean McClellan is a natural result of the development of the Wharton School of Business, which he has directed since its organization, and of the growth of the University."

Dean McClellan has been a member of the University faculty since 1903 and has been president of the Wharton School since its organization in 1915. He has been a leader in the development of the University and has been a close friend and associate of President Smith.

The University has announced that it will make arrangements for the election of a new dean of the Wharton School, and that the position will be filled by a person who is qualified to direct the growth of the school.

INDIAN CHIEF VISITS CAMPUS.

Famous Algonkin, Explorer to Lecture in Museum Wednesday.

Mr. Louis Wissow, Athabascan, will deliver a lecture at Boston University in the Museum Wednesday. As he has just returned from a four-year trip through the Eskimo regions, his picture promises to be interesting.

Mr. Louis Wissow is the only half-breed Siberian who is a chief of an Indian tribe. He was born in Alaska four years ago for the special purpose of learning their history and translating them into English. He has brought a collection of about three hundred of those back with him. It was pointed out by Mr. Wissow that the Indians are far from a dying race. In Alaska and Northern Canada many thousands of them still live, gambling a livelihood by fishing and hunting. While the Indians near the coast have adopted civilized dress, his people believe there are still many tribes in the interior which have retained their primitive habits.

NO IDEAL DREAM.

Curiously enough, no plans have been made upon the Houston Club, and in each case a stone wall has been picked out against which one's head might be battered. Prudently enough, the opposition to straightening up affairs has not come from Dr. Taggart and Mr. Dinkus, as has been stated on many occasions, but from the student body. We have been our worst enemy by attacking a practical problem in an impracticable way.

Anciently we have owed a truce in a manner not unusual by our devoted elections, and then have proceeded to choose men totally unsuited to promote Houston an active part in this great contest. The purpose of the election was not to elect men totally unsuited to promote Houston an active part in this great contest. As club affairs were concerned. Elections a man should possess to be eligible to the Pennsylvania Blue Book, as club members are not suited to hold positions of dignity.

The Digustations of the President, Mr. E. L. Hollerich, and the Vice-President, Mr. R. T. Dury, is not too anxious to have his club activities help to remove the shadow menace of preventive he established for the war. On the contrary, the activities should be a means of breaking down the walls of prejudice. The American boys on the battlefields of France and Italy have a better chance to succeed by reason of the subordination to women's work. The young men of America, in college and out, have performed gloriously in this great contest. The story of heroism is found in history than the achievements of the American boys on the battlefields of France and Italy.

The Victory Loan is the closing chapter of this great crusade which has resulted in restoring order in the world. Some of our young men have been fortunate enough to have a part of this great crusade. Others of you have deeply regretted your inability to go. The Victory Loan will afford every one an opportunity to become an active part of this closing chapter of the great crusade.

BOURNE WINS CHAMPIONSHIP.
University Heavyweight Boxer Wins Dream Battle Trophy.

Bourne, Louis. In a four round bout Saturday night, Henry Brown, champion heavyweight of the University, won the A. J. Dewitt Hill boxing tournament. At the end of the bout an extra round was added, so the match was a draw up to last point.
In the final round Bourne overcame
Gable and was awarded the decision.
The bout last Saturday was the final meet of the amateur boxing tournament which was promoted by Major Biddle. Gable was the winner in the preliminaries, which had been run all week, and in defeating him, Bourne won the amateur heavyweight championship of the city. The bouts were referred by Major Biddle.
