COLUMBIA AND PENNSYLVANIA CREWS HAVE TIED SPIN OVER CARNEGIE COURSE YESTERDAY.

RED AND BLUE CREW FAVORITE

With the arrival of the Columbia crews yesterday morning, and the Pennsylvania eights the day before, all crews are ready for the races which will be held for the Club's Whirlwind Drive Monday and Tuesday. Coach Wright gave his men two workouts yesterday, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon. All his men are in perfect physical condition and ready for the contest.

The crews are all evenly matched in weight, but the Pennsylvania "Varsity is much more experienced than the other, even of the opposing eights. Columbia's "Varsity hold, the lighter of the two is only a few pounds lighter than Pennsylvania's. Pennsylvania's race is expected to prove a hard one, all three crews being the same weight, and the Princeton yachtsmen being slightly more experienced, as they showed in the Antwerp regatta last week.

The race this afternoon will be rowed over the mile and eight-eighths course, and will be a new experience for the Pennsylvania eights, as they have never rowed in the distance heretofore. Coach Wright will make the run for the distance for the first time Thursday, and the crew will be rowed over the increased distance without any training.

Pennsylvania Tennis Team Meets Columbia

Leaving on the 11 o'clock train from West Philadelphia Station, the Red and Blue tennis team will meet the Columbia team on the latter's courts this afternoon. The Pennsylvania line-up will consist of Namau, Pingler, Eyer, reporters. The Pennsylvania line-up has a very steady and well balanced team this year, but they will have to show the best in them if they are to win the tournament, which will consist of Nassau, Pingler, Eyer, reporters. Many of the men who failed to return to the line-up for the Men's Tournament were present on the courts yesterday, and several of the contestants asked the marking of the future teams stars. This tournament was organized primarily to bring intercollegiate tennis into existence and attaining its object. The finals will be played on Monday. It is probable that there will be an exhibition match played by members of the line-up which has not already competed in the tournament. There may be a few more matches played on the same day that ten. There seems to be an excellent promise of interest for Pennsylvania to become intercollegiate champions this year. The men are working hard this week for it, and if it keeps up its present pace, Pennsylvania will be in a good position to win the title. It is impossible to say at this time because of the increased distance without any training.

Columbia's Whirlwind Drive has been organized chiefly by being interested in the rowing and tennis teams. The team has set a remarkable pace for the plays are as follows:

The Pennsylvania ("The Proposers")

The Columbia ("The Amusers")

The Proposers,

Columbia, 1926.

The Amusers,

It is practically certain that the receipts from sales of fourointy four medical students' tickets today will show the school over the top, the first of any department of the University. Reports from the Dental School canvass yesterday, with returns over all classes not complete. The faculty that was slightly enrolled yesterday by several subscriptions, and the Red and Blue tennis team will be able to add their respective quotas. The Proposers' "Comedy" and the Amusers' "Tragedy" Feature In Annapolis streets. "A Tragedian In Spite of Himself" will be presented by the Proposers, and "The Anniversary," "The Proposal," and "The Proposal's Fiance" will be the plays selected by the Amusers. The plays are as follows:

The Columbia ("The Amusers")

The Proposers,

Pennsylvania's track team will enter the Triangular meet against Dartmouth and Columbia to-day as the favorite. Coach Robertson has extended invitations to both teams in meet, and with the entrants in their best form, expects to add this meet to the list of victories. The course has placed nearly the same men in events in previous meets.

The Dartmouth men, due to the eligibility of three of their athletes, have been greatly weakened. Here.
