WANT SIXTY MEN FOR NORTHFIELD

List of Delegates from Other Colleges for Student Conference Expected Daily.

LOOK FOR MANY ATHLETES.

Excellent prospects have been obtained by the Northfield College Institute in the way of securing delegates to go to the Conference, June 26-28. Already a campaign has been started so that over one hundred men will make up these delegations at the Conference. This number includes several baseball, football, and track men who will be witnessed when they play the respective games.

Students who desire to go to Northfield, but have not yet made arrangements to carry them through, will be aided by John Lovitt, chairman of the committee who desires to contribute a sum of money towards sending a Northfield connection it might be well to state that the Northfield News is expected each day of the week with the latest news from the college.

Student body is expected to be well represented by the members of the Cornell, Princeton, and Harvard teams.

The committee now has as its slogan to make Bloty delegates the best from other colleges. An Intensive drive will be made to encourage the different universities will have on their many 'Varsity representatives the difference. Yale is making an especial j ball stars, and some keen competition (tured.

John Lovitt, chairman of the committee, who, after attending a Conference, returned to Northfield, with the assurance that he has made arrangements with other international as well. He is the Rev. Dr. Mott, while an undergraduate at Cornell, was one of the first students of major and minor sports at the University. The Gazette has been in the forefront of athletics, and his duties will be strictly a girls' camp, and will be wholly on the job of the Y. W. C. A. The training will take place during the same period, the last period, August 16-25.

The major contest will be the Varsity NiKE,
BANK OF THE NEW ATHLETIC ERA.

Appointment of Dr. Charles M. Wharton to Assistant Director of the Department of Physical Education and Field Director of Athletics came as a complete surprise to many students and alumnae interested in the University of Pennsylvania. It is a concrete answer to whether Pennsylvania would follow the lead of other large universities by having one man as the real director of athletics. Very recently took a similar step when Dr. Sharps was secured for this purpose.

The coming of Dr. Wharton to fill such a position of much benefit to our great athletic policy in many ways. In football it means that Pennsylvania will again have the services of the man whose many critics have declared to be the best line coach in America. The Patzelli—Wharton combination should be unbreakable.

But the greatest benefit which should accrue from this fortunate appointment is in the line of mass-activities. One of the effects produced is that the strong sentiment created in favor of women's physical education is now finding its way into all the various sports this spring. The grand total is one thousand two hundred and twenty-one, or about fifty percent of the undergraduate student body. This number does not include the students who participated in the various interscholastic and similar sports.

With a man such as Dr. Wharton to actually supervise these mass-sports activities, they are bound to prosper. The desire to provide progressive instruction in all major sports and to retain all candidates all season is certain to give added incentive to those who have never considered the possibility of participation before because the stress was laid on the individual rather than the masses.

Dr. Wharton is a graduate of the medical school. As a captain in the United States Army, he had charge of the physical education work in charge of various rotation training camps. His whole experience since graduation has been such as to justify and warrant his selection for this new and responsible position.

We are with great interest the article in yesterday's paper about the tank capacity of three of our medicol students. It was shamefully their names were not printed, so that we might extend our congratulations. But must the news be gotten back home, and then there would have been much horror over the wicked practical jokes allowed at that wayward institution.

A Course in Current Topies.

One of the noticeable points in connection with the life of the present-day college undergraduate is the fact that he leaves college with the outside world for four years. He is so absorbed with his curriculum work, his athletics or his extra-curriculum activities that the current of political and social thought which is shaping the destiny of the nation pass by, sometimes unnoticed, sometimes unheeded, but still a superficial ripple of interest. This is due in some cases to the fact that the student has not the time to devote to a study of current problems. In other cases he does not appreciate the real value to be gained from such an undertaking. It is unfortunate, too, because when the student graduates and goes out to take his part in the life of the nation, he is hampered by a lack of knowledge of the very tendencies and factors which constitute the life of the day. He has grown from a narrow into a broad world, and it takes time and time he can not afford to waste, if he wants to interpret the new atmosphere.

The obvious way to remedy this condition is in a continuous reading of the daily newspapers and some of the better weeklies and monthly reviews. In order to track the undergraduate the value of this policy and to help him form the habit, we feel that a course of general reading quite fitting to the college undergraduate should be instituted now.
