The ticket sale.

A regulation of the president of the Athletic Association, should be more prevalent after Monday exploration, published yesterday. The announcements and criticisms regarding the ticket sales were in their majority.

Students must remember that Penndivists does not possess a huge stock of averaged seating capacity.
Next week, the organization of the department is planned to the admittance to the seating areas for those eight sections should be reserved. Under the presuplan, the prefix amount about twelve votes a game.

With this hope allotment of seats added to the number reserved for the admission of members who stock ticket-holders and memers of the team, the choice seats are endowed with a transcendent privilege on his twenty-five-cent, which thinks him doleful as to its presence on the forty-five-cent line. The offers of the Athletic Association appre-for the organization of the class and who has the first choice of tickets. They get It. And, if their seats are not the best, it is because the outer sections have been exhausted in a perfect beginning.

But the unprecedented student demand for tickets may be partially offset by the arrangement of the undergraduates. In spite of all new bags, in spite of all propositions, con-and the Athletics Association continues to supply the seating capacity. All the evidence establishes are knowing which students have actually sold their Athletic Association tickets, as those of the agents of downtown ticket speculators.

It is the duty of the great under-ate to show the students the true itself of affairs. If such cases are they should be reported to the students.

The abolition of this condition is the only way the undergraduates of the association ever really get the first choice of seats which they care. The best way by which we possible to give the students the better seats is to start the student sale in the course of the season, and thus the by-passers and undergraduate on any event.

One of the conditions of the life insurance business is that the mutual must start in dealing with the State Committee, which will be among committees who will strive to be instrumental in bringing the greatest number of new business to the various life insurance companies in the State. The officers of the organization will act as a Steering Committee and will pass on all proposals to be used by the State committees.

The general procedure will be to send the Class Record to all eligible high schools in the state, together with other University publications throughout the year. Each chairman will endeavour to get in touch with Pennsylvania's oldest residing in the state to represent and have them act as scouts for good material. The names of prospective students will be used as soon as passed upon by the Steering Committee.

As the territory covered by the various states is too vast to mention all the semi-states, it is the plan that this movement can be made for reaching in its effect and benefit to the University. The states comprising the semi-states, Arizona, California, and Hawaii, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming.
