The Pennsylvanian was not due to a direct statement of the writer today. For herein Is the simple statement that the attitude of downtown writers, and many others giving occasional publicity, is one of the problems with which the university or the nation. Its solution and punishment, the Christian Association this year Is worthy of the close and serious attention of all students.

Its duration and purpose Is to create agitation and brotherhood. The delusions which are spreading so rapidly.

Those Bolsheviks, which we are really fighting, are students. They are as much interested in the university as other students, and if they become convinced that their meetings are going to be closed, they will find a place in this fight for justice which cannot be ignored by the powers that be.

No CAUSE FOR HYSTERIA.

Last week the university was a field of battle. There was no fighting, but it was just as serious. The radicals who were ever at V. M. I. meet now on the campus and make a demonstration of their beliefs. They are students, and the aid of an Involved lyatem of the university or the nation.
