ANNOUNCE INDOOR TRACK SCHEDULE

By careful consideration of all the invitations received to participate, the Mutual Athletic Club of Philadelphia, which has the direction of the Intercollegiate Track Committee, for the indoor track season, has decided to limit its entries to those which, considered as a whole, made the best impression. Consequently, the most prominent track teams in the nation have been invited to compete, and the Agricultural College of Illinois is to participate in the team championship meet on March 6. The teams will be separated into three categories: (1) Teams having registered in the NCAA, (2) teams not registered in the NCAA but having entered the Intercollegiate Conference, and (3) teams not registered in the Intercollegiate Conference. The invitational meets will be held on January 10 at New York Athletic Club, January 16 at Chicago Athletic Association, and February 16 at Empire State Building. The meets will consist of 100 meters, 220 yards, 440 yards, the mile, the hurdles, and the mile relay. The program will also include relay races, the 200 yards, and the 400 yards. The meets will be held at 2 p.m. at New York Athletic Club, at 3 p.m. at Chicago Athletic Association, and at 3:30 p.m. at Empire State Building. The meets will be open to the public, and admission will be 50 cents for each meet. The program will also include relay races, the 200 yards, and the 400 yards. the athletic program. It isn't just about what is being done at present in athletics. Football and basketball are the two major events which make up the bulk of the credit balances. These two sports attract the bulk of the athletes in practically all other lines. The present system of allowing unorganized and unsupervised activity through any school-sponsored activity should also be accepted. No reason why any student can't be given a group of school-sponsored activities to work with and even the entire profit of the school can be used to support the program. One woman's management of athletics has developed an interest in the largest number of students because it has brought about a balance to the public eye and everyone has some part in a housekeeping scheme.

A new director will come when the time is right. A student who is going to be interested in student life is not going to work in student life. There are enough people who want to work in student life, and enough people who want to work in student life to have their activities. The appointment of a paid staff member or graduate assistant would be the next step.

The administration believes that athletics is built in its long-term plans rather than in the short-term plans. There are enough people who want to work in student life, and enough people who want to work in student life to have their activities. The appointment of a paid staff member or graduate assistant would be the next step.

Seek Extensive Vote on Treaty

Great interest is about centered in the debate in the highest to be held at the Chicago convention of the University League of Nations. In order that the University may participate in this country-wide campaign, it is desired that every student cast his whole vote for or against the treaty.

G. G. Johnston will continue his series of debates on the subject. The services will be heard in the main hall, and a vote on the question will be held on 11th St., and the University School auditorium.

At an informal discussion of the issue the present was held last night at the Philadelphia Society. Much spiritual discussion resulted, and, although neither side achieved victory, the great event of educational importance and debate will be held at 11th St., and the University School auditorium.

From the few days in the League debate at Washington have given reason to expect considerable interest in this battle. President Wilson, by his "no reservation," an "aggressive" speech, has assumed a role for the American cause that is unprecedented. The arguments of the League, in an article appearing in this seeing, are not accepted by the League as necessary to the United States may have some idea of the matter.

Regular Rowing Starts Monday

Freshman Crew Shows Good Progress—New Rowing Machines Are Expected Soon.

More candidates signed up for crew in the meeting room yesterday, and those who came to enroll in the ranks of candidates were given an insight into the method of training on these machines to almost constant use. The managers announced that gym credit and regular attendance will start on Monday. All those most rust to Monday to be sure of obtaining proper credit for their work. There is still a chance for freshmen to sign up.

Due to the fact that the machines are handled by four machines not having been delivered, certain temporary crews have been selected, such as three varsity, one freshman, and one intermediate crew. The men who are not assigned to regular crews will report from 9:30 to crew rooms, and entrants will be given a chance to practice on the machines, which have long ago been on order, to be used by the men and regular permanent crews will be picked.

"No freshman ever practices—good prospects this year, as do the other scholastic years. Those freshmen from St. Paul's School, in addition to the varsity crew, are prospects for the varsity. This school does more now for the men than in the past and while the sound coal and coal others much good material, several prospects from Central High School and West Philadelphia High also promise good results. On the whole, the freshmen who report are more in line than we expected. It is expected that the fair result will be obtained, and a number of candidates are expected. Electricity—The Master Force in Manufacturing

The marvels of electricity have revolutionized our manufacturing industries. With belts and pulleys replaced by electric motors operating automatic—almost human—machines, many a slow and tedious process has been eliminated. The factory worker's task of yesterday is made easier and safer by his companion today.

The Crane Company's plant at Chicago—electrical through-and-through—a model of industrial efficiency. Its 10,000 horses—power of driving energy is brought by three small wires through a distant power plant. Then electricity drives the machinery which handles the coal for heating, cuts the steel, lifts the sand and sorts the material—in fact does everything from washing the floor to winding the clock.

Such an institution is marvelous-speed-up-machine-made thus by the man-multiplying force of electricity. The General Electric Company has been instrumental in effecting this evolution. First, by developing successful electric generating and transmission apparatus to furnish economically this modern form of power. Secondly, through many years of active cooperation with hundreds of manufacturers it has mastered the art of applying the use of electrical energy to a multitude of needs. And finally, through branch offices and offices manufacturing channels, its products are made accessible to all.
