FALL HANDICAPS

Regardless of the fact that the condition of the runway for the track events was poor, the races were run off yesterday in an orderly fashion, and some surprisingly fast times were recorded. The races were run off after the track was run, off in about an hour and a half.

FEW FESTOONER AT WHARTON MEETING

At the annual Wharton Association football, held last night in Hamilton Hall, was a small number of undergraduates, few of whom were showing enthusiasm on the campus.

The meeting did not start until after the football game had finished, and several hours had elapsed during which the football game was being held. As a result, the interest in the meeting was not as great as it might have been.

WHEN QUAKER MEETS QUAKER

Football games in the presence of such tactics, the receiving end of such tactics, the receiving end of such tactics, is unable to function as nature intended. The worst instance of this situation does not lie in the largeness of the classes, as it is equally apparent in sections comprising only a score of students.

There is small doubt in the mind of the man who rules over the campus where this situation might profitably be changed. It should be superseded by a spirit of friendship, a desire to be pleasant to each other. Let us get to know our classroom. In this way we can come to be true friends and greater companions at Pennsylvania.

PAPER THROWING

Our next door neighbor, the Penn and Ink Colony, has been printing out of late different varieties of objectionable characters. So far we have yet to see in print any allusion to these pests of the college in the paper. Perhaps, we are too considerate when we term these pests; more likely.dateline.

But whether or not we are mortal irresponsibles who will throw away paper at the heads of those in front of you, or are in the right, the Pennsylvania student, who has been criticized in the absence of which the spirit which exists at many other universities, can hardly come close to the character of the absence which is evident among Pennsylvania men.

Probably the worst instance of this ultra-conservative attitude is to be found in the classroom. Most men sit in a few chairs of one another for two or three hours a week, yet when they meet on its campus neither speaks or even glances. The explanation of this inexplicable situation does not lie in the largeness of the classes, as it is equally apparent in sections comprising only a score of students.

TANK MEN HAVE HARD SCHEDULE

We were surprised to see that this year Penn's real hard work had been drawn up so quickly. One examination reached still higher proportions when we read, under this heading, the following sub-title: "Search will depend upon last year's Freshmen to fill many vacancies."

We can't follow whether the yardstick referred to meant real work or a depletion in the numbers of last year. We will admit some of tank stars are no longer in college.

A VWI, RONG.

DRAMATICS

Two years of success attended by most gratifying press notices and even greater enthusiasm for the Dramatic Club in its indubitable claim on campus attention. "A production so produced" and "a finished performance," are typical of contemporary newspaper criticisms. The playing of "The Yellow Jacket" which went on the boards this season.

The organization of the club in 1920 supplied a home needed by so many dramatic artists. Assistance able which did not include some vocal and instrumental work is a little too much as in the Mask and Whirl Club. The new society has been instrumental in absorbing this new resource, and its activities have been attended by great success.

The continuance of the achievements of the past two years demands the enrollment of all available talent. The new society is in receipt of many appreciative and enthusiastic testimony of its existence, to the extent that we should be able to use all of the ambitious and talented members who are interested in the work.

THIRTEEN LIVES DEPEND ON SUCCESS OF ADVERTISEMENT

Two hikers sat in a little lunchroom on the National road near Cambridge between Wheeling, W. Va., and Zanesville, O. From their appearance an observer would judge them to be university students. They divided their attention between the food before them and an official of the United Mine Workers, with whom they were discussing the impending labor troubles. At the time neither of the two thought that, as a result of this conversation, they would be in a position to aid in saving the lives of thirteen men.

The above situation is set forth in a recent advertisement of a city newspaper. It appears that Wharton School students, even while hiking, retain their habit of enlightening the world on all subjects. This body is further substantiated by the fact that this event occurred at 5:30 in the morning, the regular bedtime of Logan Hall frequenters. The contents of the clipping, as it appeared in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, are as follows:

ATTENTION, COLLEGE MEN
Wanted, the two hikers who ate breakfast in a lunchroom between Wheeling, W. Va., and Zanesville, O., on National road on June 22. They were on their way to Columbus, O. They had a talk with an official of the United Mine Workers about impending labor troubles. These two men can assist in saving the lives of thirteen men. This is vitally important. If you don’t know anything yourself, pass this word along. Telephone at once, collect, to Earl Lewis, S. Clairsville, O.

The Real Test of Quality

W. E. could write volumes of advertising praising our ice cream to the skies, and run an advertisement every day. We could paint a sign, appealing to the eye and appetite, on every corner. But, after all, every flavor of our ice cream must be consistently good—day after day—to please the public.

Sales of SUPPLEE ICE CREAM thus far in 1922 far exceed those of 1921 for the same period, despite an extremely cool and wet summer. It is constant quality that builds an ever-growing patronage. It is recognition of that quality that has brought this enormous increase in business.
