Campus Restaurants
Increase Gently
Each year as the student returns to the campus numerous signs, handbills, and posters, directing him to "this" restaurant, greet his eye. Always there are more, never less than the preceding year. A tour of the campus with an ear- tinct of the cafeteria, restaurants, and lunch rooms that students frequent would no doubt surprise the majority of men, whether they are habitues of them or not. From a total of only 1 restaurants when the present members of the student class were freshmen, the number has swelled to over 60.
Aside from the phenomenal growth, there is a more significant though less readily discernible feature in this expansion. It is the fact that as the number increased, so, too, the character of the places, the grade of food served, and the efficiency of the service were correspondingly improved. As the new restaurants sprang up the older ones were in turn compelled to improve or be excluded from the student. The whole tendency has been toward cleaner and better eating houses.
The growth has not, however, been without its drawbacks. In the old days when Pennsylvania was not the university of its present magnitude, the few restaurants were more in the nature of social rendezvous, where students would meet friends and chat for hours over their cups of coffee. One wonders if, with the introduction of tea rooms and the like, these old days will return. No longer would the student be a place to reach a handy cist and leave, but a real help in uniting Pennsylvanians in a close bond of friendship, the value of which cannot be denied.

REGENARATION
On Franklin Field last Saturday, a Red and Blue football team brought back from out of the dim halls of tradition that fighting spirit so dear to the hearts of all Pennsylvanians. Electric lightning flows, well pressed in the art of football, lent a team that was like a well oiled machine in the precision of its time stage. Led by a captain who had never heard the word fear, they tested but a human judgment. No longer can it be said that Pennsylvania needs her fight, no longer shall the Blue be the banner waving by and small critics. Progress now on a new era will unfold itself. Once more the Blue and White will wave triumphant and maintain its true place at the top of the heap.

ANOTHER CHAMPIONSHIP IN SIGHT
When the Faculty members defeated Yale at New Haven, they introduced an attack that should send them to the top of the Intercollegiate League when the goose of battle has cleared away. Coach Stewart has developed a foot, game which never knows what is behind. With Philadelphia a few as the result of a defeat at the hands of Cornell, the team has received an advantage which will be hard to wrest away. Success is a true red, and the highest type of man. It is in his game that true heroism is shown, and one that deserves the finest kind of support from the University.

Seeking a symbolic figure to represent Knowledge, let us turn away from the muses of antiquity and the be-capped and be-gowned youth of our own day. How about the Football Player Tackling a Dummy? Isn't he typical of everything you do in these four years? You are the Football Player. The dummy is every knotty problem you tackle, every effort to earn your way through, every examination, every campus activity. Tackle the dummy hard, and you'll be ready for even bigger tests in the game of business or professional life.

TAILORS HAVE HOPES

For Knickerbockers

Prominent Campus Outfitters Expect New Style to Become Popular at Pennsylvania.

Prominent campus tailors are of the opinion that knickerbockers will be adopted by Pennsylvania undergraduates. They believe that the "wear knick- ers" campaign, which was supported by many members of the student body and Junior classes last spring will be supported in fact as well as in spirit, this year, by a majority of students. The evidence showing that the campaign succeeded in part is that so many juniors are seen in knickers, as he would have in 1921.

Princeton University and many other institutions in small towns and villages, have traditions governing the use of knickers. For example, you snow outside the city, is held to be an ideal form of dress.

The adequacy of Pennsylvania's curricula seems even less open to criticism. The first American college to attack the ivory tower of Pennsylvania, it has magnificently outplaced her fields of study to meet the demands of the times.
At the present day, the University has departments in arts and science, commerce and engineering. Fine arts, media-cine, post graduate medicine, law, dentistry, veterinary medcine and education. Our graduate school is large and of high standing, but not only is this range of study extensive but the elements of the educational curriculum are of recognized eminent. In architecture, dentistry, dentistry and commerce, Penns-sylvania's name is attested international proportions. Our today the University's curricula need no defense.

With the fact that a majority of Pennsylvania's students come from within the confines of the State of Pennsyl vama, nevertheless, the fact remains that in the student body
there are included representatives of every state in the union and of virtually every nation in the world. Here again Penns-
