"The Elkhartian Playhouse" was the subject of an illustrated lecture before given by General Charles S. Farnsworth, Jr., at a meeting of the Dramatic Club last evening in Room 301. The lecture was followed by a discussion in which much research in all phases of the theatre was presented, particularly in the Elkhartian stage.

The charming, picturesque drama of the Elkhartian theatre was exhibited the position of the stateætes and backdrops, particularly in Shakespeare's theatre. He also described the recent staging of Elkhartian plays in various parts of the world where they were presented. Illustrating this with pictures of men in the casts.

cGoDance Tonight
All previous efforts are expected to be eclipsed by the cause which will be given for the Women’s Student’s Government Association tonight. The interested forer of the Academy of Music at Broad and Locust Streets will be the scene of the affair, and music will be rendered by the Temple Orchestra. On this combination, the committee bases its predictions for the success of the occasion.
Tickets for the dance, two dollars each, may be purchased today in Room 106, College Hall, between 11 and 1. This will be the only place where they can be secured, since it has been decided that none will be on sale at the door.
The committee has been successful in securing the consent of Mrs. J. H. Misick, wife of the Dean of Education, and Miss L. A. Scudder, Dean of Women, to act as sponsors. Also on the list of patrons are Mrs. Scharf, wife of Dr. Scharf, of the Medical School and Mrs. Rafford, wife of Professor Scharf of the Mathematics Department.

THIRD SOCCER TEAM CANCELS
MOORESTOWN GAME TOMORROW

Because of the Army Navy game, the third soccer team has postponed its game with Moorestown scheduled for to-morrow. It will be played late in December. Practice is being continued throughout the week, and it is probable that a contest will be arranged for later.
The Junior Varsity is being put through heavy drills for its battle with the Varsity team of Lafayette, which will be staged as a preliminary event to the Pennsylvania games on Franklin Field Dec. 2. The Freshman team is not dated for this week but is arranging for a game with the Philadelphia Cricket Club during Thanksgiving vacation.

EXPRESS TO COMPLETE GOLF TOURNAMENT THANKSGIVING DAY

Due to examinations in the various departments of the University four matches were moved previously from the Fall Golf Tournament. After the several delays of this week play will be resumed today, and will progress as rapidly as possible in order to reach the final six matches, which will be played today. The matches will be played today when G. F. Freedman, 29th Ward, meets H. Darrell, 24th Ward, and H. Jackson, 29th Ward, meets T. Coote, 22nd.
This Tournament has lasted longer than was at first expected, but Manager Trinkle expects all the matches to be played at least before the Thanksgiving Holidays. In the Pennsylvanian bracket only two more matches remain, while in the Varsity frame four are still to be played. The completion of the Tourney depends largely upon the way in which today’s match is run off.
Pennsylvania’s Golf Team will be joined from the other six incentives of this tournament and those who turn in good scores from the first matches will receive all values standing for the spring matches next April when golf will be resumed.
This has not yet been decided which the awards will take form of medals or golf accessories.

Basketball Officials Meet in Houston Club Today to Discuss Changes And Revisions

RALPH MORGAN TO PRESIDE

Under the auspices of the Joint Rules Committee, a meeting of the official interpretation of the basketball regulations of the coming season will be held in the Houston Club auditorium this afternoon at 3:30. Mr. Ralph Morgan, a member of the rules body and chairman of the University of Pennsylvania Basketball Committee, will preside and will explain the significance of the changes which the Joint Committee has seen fit to make.

Invitations to attend this meeting have been extended to the coaches, players and managers of all teams in this district, as well as to the officials in the various leagues governed by interesting rules. This meeting is held for the purpose of securing a uniform interpretation of the regulations. From its importance in amateur basketball work, the University has every year been awarded the honor of conducting this conference.

One of the important points of the discussion will be concerning the new regulations in regard to fouls. For several years the Rules Committee has been endeavoring to improve the rules relating to violations and penalties. At the recommendation of a committee appointed for the purpose, this year, four technical fouls were removed from that classification and are now known as violations. The penalty for which being to give the non-offending side the ball.

The penalty for personal fouls committed by the defending team has been made more rigorous. If such fouls are made within the seventeen foot goal line zone, the non-offending side is permitted two free tosses. Also, several important changes have been made in regard to "time out," while the wording of the rule covering the movement of the feet in regard to fouls has been changed for the sake of clarity.

Mr. Morgan, who will explain these revisions more fully, was one of the founders of the Joint Rules Committee in 1895, which has bad charge of the cage regulations since that time. He has always been an active member of the body, being recently elected treasurer, and is in an excellent position to interpret the rules as the Committee intended.

FOOTBALL RIVALRY

Who should logically be Pennsylvania's chief football rivals? This question is asked in the collateral columns of The Pennsylvania two days ago. It was shown that at the present time Brown can be considered as a legitimate favorite for only Cornell. The need for another, "big game" was pointed out.

Before an answer to this question can be attempted, the requisite conditions for football rivalry should first be enumerated. These conditions are well known to all. The question arises: Four other states have on the schedule.

In the first place there must be a real college rivalry. Secondly, the competing universities must be equal in name and standing. This is the only thing that they have been able to possess in the past, in order that their football teams may possess genuine points of interest.

The other conditions, perhaps, are not so original as the foregoing. As a matter of fact, Pennsylvania is trying again in three years, and that the conflict be not terminated by continual victories for two or more institutions.

Pennsylvania should be a two-state college. If America is to be true to its other football rivalry with Lafayette and in the East River.

But what is the Big Green Team? Here comes up a logical sequel to the last: Cornell on the Red and Blue schedule. For many years Dartmouth and Pennsylvania have played with varying fortunes. Interest in both campuses was high at the approach of the annual game, and joy of the victory was great. The game was fought in a businesslike way; they can compete, but her victory would enhance the interest of the campus.

Dartmouth, College, moreover, is an old institution of splendid standing. Haverford is a college with a relatively small student body and a reputation in Pennsylvania. It is the only college with a real college football team, connection with Pennsylvania will be by no means a "novel idea." Haverford visits Cornell in an opportunity of importance to each and the element of competition will enhance the interest shown in the game. The fact that Dartmouth and Pennsylvania are both located in the country would allow athletics to continue in the same spirit.

Probable to arrange an excelent Dartmouth game, it would be necessary that some of the players be played away from Philadelphia. This should be a deterrent. A game away from home is a greater attraction to team and student spirit.

As for Harvard, the probability of the Red and Blue meet is excellent as the team will tour the South next year. But may the years the Haverford-Pennsylvania game was a feature of intercollegiate football, and a remembrance of the occasion will remain among many the same feeling which it stimulated twenty years ago.

But we must not overlook the case of Dartmouth, at all events, seems the logical rival of Pennsylvania. It was understood that Pennsylvania's relations were broken with the New York public and that the issue was to be decided that they will be renewed next fall. If that be done, the Red and Blue may well consider this situation—she with the Big Green Team of Dartmouth, and the other with the Big Red Team of Cornell.

FREEMEN OR BILERMAKERS?

Ninety percent of the first year class seem to consider their festivals too plain in appearance. To offset this, and to provide an outlet for various groups, different parties are being held in different places without their benefit. Just a touch of color and romance.

If their fidgeting minds are as imaginative as to think these descriptions enhance their mainly Surrogate, now is the time for them to learn otherwise. Both exhibitions are destined to be to taste and reflect upon both the individual and the team in a durable manner.

We can well appreciate the fact that these parties are for a purpose—but this can be accomplished just as well by the proper utilization of campus resources.

STATE COLLEGIAN PRAISES
WORK OF RED AND BLUE TEAM

Commenting on Pennsylvania's victory over the Nittany Lions, the Penn State Collegetian says, "Penn has a good eleven and meets all the recognition which the Quaker team has won. The eleven displayed an excellent brand of football and generally played like the best team in the world."

The Center City Institution has nothing but praise for the Red and Blue backs. Their ability to back the line at the crucial moment is held to be one of the primary reasons for victory. The Hail eleven "played hard and well," according to the Collegian, "but were unable to preserve the Red and Blue defense when but a small distance separated them from a first down." It asserts that the selection of every man was above average, and the defeat should serve as incentive to a greater fight with Pittsburgh on Thanksgiving Day.

WAR VETERANS WILL NOMINATE OFFICERS FOR COMING YEAR

At the first meeting of the year to be held tonight at 7:30 in Houston Club the West La Guarde Club will nominate officers. The gathering will be short in order to interview other engagements the men may have.

The membership of the club consists of those men at Pennsylvania who were injured in the service of the United States and are unable to return to their homes at the United States Veteran Bureau. There are about three hundred of these veterans enrolled here.

Mr. James L. Ponypacker, President of the Engineers Valley Naturalists' Union, spoke last night before a meeting held by the Naturalists' Field Club of Pennsylvania. The Club has announced that It will hold its first meeting of the year to be held tonight at 7:30 in the Biology Building. The subject of his talk was "Nature's Village Life.". Mr. Ponypacker is an authority on our local absorbing and, he told, opened up a new show of interest to those interested in naturalistic trips about Philadelphia.

The Club has announced that it will open its field trip to all students of the University. This step has been taken at the request of Dean Ritter of the School of Education, who wishes the Field Club to sponsor a greater interest in the out-of-doors among the student body in general. Meetings are held every alternate Friday evening throughout the school year.
