FRATERNITY MEN IN COURT GAMES

Greek Letter Organizations Scheduled To Contend For Supremacy On Basketball Floor

TWENTY-FOUR HOURS IN LEAGUE

Two games will be played in the Interuniversity Basketball League at Weightman Hall tomorrow at 5:30 o'clock. Sigma Alpha Mu will oppose Phi Epikus

and Delta Sigma Phi will meet Sigma

Phi Epikus. This will be the second series of games played in the league

this season.

In the opening games played last Wednesday Theta Chi defeated Phi Sigma

Kappa by the close score of 64, while

Theta Xi lost to Sigma Pi by the count of 184. Sullivan and Westgate, gridiron stars returned the games.

Twenty-four fraternity members who at present compose the league, will play on Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays of each week. At the end of the season players on the championship team will be presented with gold basketballs by A. O.

Russel & Co. of this city. For a limited time applications will be received from additional institutions wishing to enter the circuit.

"Class interest has been shown by the student body in these games," said "Hy"

Dickson. "Although the league was only begun two years ago the attendance

at the games has given an excellent indication of the success of the idea. Not only are these games advantageous to the fraternities engaging in them but they are of value in developing spirit

and material for the Family teams."

Following are the games to be played tomorrow: 11:30 A.M. Acacia vs. Delta

Kappa Epsilon; Phi Gamma Delta vs.

Beta Theta Pi; 2 P.M. Phi Delta Theta

vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Kappa Sigma

vs. Delta Epsilon; 5 P.M. Sigma Nu vs. Sigma Chi; Alpha Phi vs. Alpha Omega.

Games will be played during next week will be announced later.

SMK THE NAVY-AGAIN

Not so many weeks ago a fighting Pennsylvania football team met and defeated the strong aggregation representing the Army, and a glorious triumph obtained by the West Point cadets will linger in our memories; the celebration that followed will go on for many years to come the criterion by which we shall judge the Saturday nights. In Wright's Hall, one Red and Blue team will do its best to "sink the navy.

The basketball quintet trot out on the floor to morrow night they will be in practically the same situation as our football team was the evening before they encounter the Middle, will be a team that has yet to be tested. We hope that when the final whistle blows Pennsylvania will have regained the place she so nobly held in the basketball arena and that they are new and completely inexperienced; tomorrow night they have the old pair again.

Will they come through like our gridiron warriors? Let us hope so. The old boys who have left the college are not ready for them; they did not realize the seriousness of the situation. Tonight all this is changed, every man knows what the game will mean.

We all know what our support meant to the football team on that ever to be remembered November afternoon. This factor makes the tank of our cage stars all the harder, and perhaps the sooner the better, it is going to be in order for some wise head to say: "Let us not be too sure of things."

DEMOCRACY IN COLLEGES

Now the demand, voiced recently at the annual conference of the League of Independent Colleges, in New York, has been democracy in the colleges. Some day, and perhaps the sooner the better; it is going to be in order for some one authoritatively and comprehensively to define democracy. It is becoming fashionable that there should be brought about a thorough understanding as to just what democracy is, and what it represents and what it stands for. One who considers the apparently dichotomous words of some of the speakers at the conference referred to will be convinced that the speakers are far from being able to set forth the meaning of liberty in the colleges.

The College search is also being conducted in the future. The colleges that will emerge will be those that can pass a thorough understanding of democracy. Can we ever hope to see institutions that are at once ideal and practical, is, as it is exemplified today, not the real thing. The colleges must have the courage to speak their minds and show their true colors. If we are to have the spirit of democracy in our colleges, these colleges must be freed of that usurious influence that has circled them with a sneaking resemblance. It is to be wished that some institution should take the lead in opening broad avenues for the extension of this great cause.

Contract Awarded For Museum Annex

Work on the annex for the Pennsylvania Museum will begin immediately, and it is anticipated that the contract has been awarded to the Franklin M. Hahn Company. The annex will be constructed at a cost of $350,000 and the contract calls for completion within the current year.

The new structure is to be built as an extension, and the central portion of the original building is to consist of a basement, a first floor, and a second story, with a very high ceiling, and the plans providing that the annex will measure 135 ft by 100 ft.

For the purpose of constructing the new building on the same style as the present building, a special type of structural brick is to be used. The whole annex is to be constructed on the same style as used in the original building and the interior will be of very heavy brickwork.

ENGINEERS LECTURE TO BE ON BUILDING CONSTRUCTION

"Building Construction and Inspection" will be the topic of the civil engineering lecture to be delivered today at 11 a.m. in Room 202, Engineering Building by Mr. E. H. Hinkle, C. E. This is the sixth of a series of lectures which have been arranged by Professor Henry of the Twine School.

Mr. Hinkle is a graduate of Pennsylvania University, receiving his B. S. in C. E. in 1944, and has been in practice as a professional engineer and as a professor in the Philadelphia Bureau of Building Inspection, and Director of the Western City Commissioner.

Double his work as an engineer Mr. Hinkle has written several noteworthy books, among which are "The Towing Law," "Building Law of Pennsylvania," "Building and Engineering," and "Construction and Inspection of Buildings." He is the author of a popular text book on building construction.

Every student interested in this subject will find this lecture of great interest.
