HONOR FRANKLIN ON NAIL DAY

Advertising Clubs to Hold Services in Respect to Education and Under-Founders.

WHATEVER IS PLACED ON STATUE

Dr. H. Franklin, founder of the University of Pennsylvania, was born January 27, 1772, the day before yesterday. At that time, the University was little more than a year and a half old, and the campus had barely been cleared of the first fall of snow. The meeting of these two dates therefore is even closer to the hearts of Pennsylvanians than the anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin, founder of the Academy. The Trustees of the University gave it its start.

Dr. Franklin was a scientist, public benefactor, and educator all his life. In his field he has influenced the welfare of mankind in a way that is almost immeasurable. As a scientist, author, publisher and educator, the influence of his work is world-wide. The University of Pennsylvania has a proud heritage in being associated with the birth of the University in Pennsylvania.

Franklin is famous as a scientist, public benefactor, and educator. He was one of the first to make the public service a career. As a writer, he has left a lasting mark on the minds of men.

Although the University had not formal ceremonies today in honor of its founder, many students throughout the nation have planned other ceremonies to honor this great American. At 12 noon, the Advertising Clubs of all cities will place a wreath on the statue of Franklin in front of William Penn Hall. All advertising clubs are invited to attend, but no wreaths will be given for sale.

Women Addressers Art Association

William Elliott Howorth, nationally knownor in the modern art field, will be the featured speaker at the University of Pennsylvania today at 7:30 p.m. in Neumann Hall to address the second lecture of the year to the Women Addressers Art Association in behalf of the Pennsylvania drama.

Opening with a brief comparison of the present drama with the literature of the French drama, Howorth reviewed the latest developments in the modern drama. His use of showing how what he had written was all written in his moments of leisure, such as during the time he was actually active, such having turned out his book, or during the time he was engaged in the Mabel of Voltaire's youth, his participation in various plays and stage experiences.

Addressing Mr. Elliott Howorth, the turn- off point in Voltaire's life was his ap- pearance in the "Ladies," before the King. Royal letters were given to the French writer's most famous plays.

C. A. CAMPAIGN ENDS AT NOON

Intensive Work of Fraternity Committee.

Promptly on the stroke of twelve this morning the campaign of the Christian Associ- ation for a fund of $2,600 which has been going on for a week and a half will come to a close and the work of the week will begin. Because there are but a few hours left following this large drive and because Associations' officers are scattered to the four winds, the President, committee, counselors or anyone who has been soliciting funds in the drive are to turn to an ice show and benefit matinee and a card dance at the University officers in the last issue of the Pennsyl- vanian. This is pointed out by the fact that stu- dents entering the University in September will have a double task in keeping them to file. The are to keep the work of the campus. Daily according to the constitution of the Pennsylvania the campaign will last until the hundred per- cent of the final result on Friday, May 7, when it is expected that a new board to the position of Night Watchman held by a committee of the second lecture of the year to the Women Addressers Art Association in behalf of the Pennsylvania drama.

Although I have never had the opportunity of participating in a Mask and Wig show, I have always admired the Mask and Wig Club's productions, and I have followed with interest the work undertaken by this organization in behalf of the University. It has always appeared to me that all campus organizations have the greatest potentialities for effective work in bringing desirable students to Pennsylvania. Nevertheless, I cannot but feel that the Club is not taking full advantage of its opportunity in this field.

I have been told recently that this year Mask and Wig performance is not to be given in Washington, D.C. The ambitions of Washington leaves only New York, Wilmingon, Atlantic City and Lancaster in the Mask and Wig itinerary. For its New York performances, Mask and Wig can hope to do little for Pennsylvania this year. The other cities are not large enough to maintain Pennsylvania. It is my impression that Pennsylvania and Mask and Wig are already well known to them. It is the localities where influence and goodwill of other colleges are dominant that Mask and Wig should go.

I cannot refrain from contrasting the Mask and Wig's efforts with those of the Princeton Triangle Club. The掩angie Club made a trip during the Christmas vacation which included the leading cities in the South, among them New Orleans, Raleigh, Memphis, Nashville, Atlanta and New York. Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati were also visited by the Princetonians. One can well imagine the excellent publicity accruing to Princeton from such a tour. The掩angie Club performed and was not as elaborate as the Mask and Wig and it may be staged in half resorts so as to reach the universities such as the Academy of Music here, but none within the bounds of possibility that Mask and Wig could not do for the cities as to make that possible. Mask and Wig contributed large sums of money to the University in the past, but now the need for spreading the name and achievements of Pennsylvania seems to me more imperative. I think the student body has a right to expect Mask and Wig to respond to this new call in the same spirit.

HANDICAP ENTRIES WILL CLOSE TODAY

Entries for the first of the Winter Handicap meets, to be held on Friday, will close today at 5 o'clock. Students who have not yet signed up may obtain entry blanks from Fred Pratt, Prop. or at the A.A. Office, 3101 Walnut St.

Seven events have been designated for the Handicap: a 50-yard dash, 202-yard run, 100-yard run, one-mile run, pole vault, shot put (16 lbs), and the distance throw. All of these events will be handicap affairs with the exception of the 100-yard, a scratch event, which is only open to novices. A novice is one who has not won a prize in a competitive open voice or more organizations.

The purpose of the handicap meets is to arouse interest in track and to develop new material. Inexperienced men will receive liberal handicaps so as to place them on a par with the veterans. Men who do not place in this meet will be given greater handicaps in the approaching meets. Better results will be awarded to the winners in Friday's meet while those finishing second will receive bronze medals.

INTERFRATERNITY LEAGUE TEAMS CONTINUE GAP RACE

Two games will be played in the Interfraternity Basketball League at Wheaton Hall this afternoon at 3 o'clock.
