ELECT MERRICK VICE-PROVOST

Trusting Great J. Hartley Merrick As Permanent Official at Regular Meeting

PLAN GREATER LIBRARY SUPPORT

Harry Dickinson, Jr., was elected President of the University by the board of Trustees at the monthly meeting of academic administrators in the Student Union Room yesterday. Since last September, Mr. Merrick has been Acting Vice-Provost, and was given the election of Dr. Nathaniel F. Brown. President, in order to succeed to the Acting Provost. At Harvard College, Mr. Merrick received the University in various capacities. He has been Assistant to the Dean of the College and School of Law, and, as Secretary of the Board of Trustees, is to be one of the men who has to reach America, and as a result of Mr. Merrick's election, has been approved and has been named to the post of Acting Provost. The Trustees also formulated plans to increase the University's financial support. Although the Library, which is the largest in the United States, has just been opened, the University, being surprised to receive so many requests for books, has been forced to place the order for books just placed. The book is an urgent one. In order to meet the request, the Trustees have approached various large universities. Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Cornell and Washington University, which are the leading institutions, have already agreed to contribute. The Trustees have also agreed to contribute one-third of the cost of the books. The following promotions in the medical school, which are the result of the election, will be held at the beginning of the school year. The promotions are: Professor of Surgery, Dr. C. E. Volcker; Professor of Clinical Medicine, Dr. R. K. Alexander; and Assistant Professor of Medicine, Dr. W. G. McInnes. These promotions have been made to recognize the election of the University of Medicine by the faculty of the college of the Board of Trustees.

MUSEUM EXPEDITION

Lincoln's Treasures

Discoveries which rival the treasures in the Valley of the Kings about the tomb of King Tutankhamen have been made by the University expedition in Pennsylvania. In conjunction with the Brooklyn Museum, which already has a cache of jewels, diadems, mummies and other artifacts, the University expedition made the first glimpse of a number of precious items. The expedition was led by a team of archaeologists, including Dr. W. H. Peabody, who was taken to the region in the interest of the University of Pennsylvania, and of permanent chairmen of the Board of Trustees.

BATE LEADS BILLS NOW PROCRADABLE

At a meeting of the Inter-Peakiness Committee last night in Wharton Hall, two bills were introduced. The bills were sponsored by Mr. W. R. Bate and Mr. F. H. Brown. The bills are: (1) the bill to be introduced to establish a new media and (2) the bill to bring the new media into effect. The bills have been introduced for some time and have been in the hands of the House of Representatives for some time. The bills have been passed. The House of Representatives has been in session for some time and has been passing the bills which are the result of the House of Representatives' work. One of the bills is to be introduced by Mr. W. C. Brown and Mr. F. H. Brown. THE days of seeing how fast you can chase a shaving cream cap down the drain pipe are past. For here is a cap that can't get lost. It's business. Think what a lot of minutes it will save. No matter how carelessly you handle your shaving apparatus, the cap is on to stay.

With a convenience like this cap you might be tempted to use Williams' Shaving Cream—whether you cared much for the cream or not. But once you use Williams' you'll like it as well by judging it on condition always.

If it was possible to make a better and purer Ice Cream Colonial would make it.

LIBERALIZING GROUP REQUIREMENTS

The Registration Board has recently completed a revision of the requirements in the sophomore year of the Wharton School, that department which will result in more elasticity and less rigidity. At first hand the man who looks into the future of the Wharton School and its necessities of requirements which has characterized the policy of the Wharton School during the last few years. But it is pointed out to a result of careful consideration on the part of the Registration Board and its adoption will lead to the practical elimination of the difficulties which have confronted the working of the old system. In the second place the liberalizing process will bring about greater scholastic freedom in the Wharton School.

Without the Registration Board has been forced to consider a large number of individual cases when conformance to the former rigid standard was virtually impossible. It was found in many cases to have no requirements in almost every case. The constant necessity of making allowances for special cases was attendant upon the curricular restrictions of the old system and primarily responsible for the change.

While the Registration Board will be the minimising of the weighing of requirements therein giving the Registration Board an advisory committee to help assist students in choosing wisely among the various options open to them. But there is another advantage connected with the recent development of educational policies which may have important bearing on the subject. Curricular freedom to the students besides. Several years of trial of the more rigid principal have shown that a superabundance of freedom in the Wharton School. Indeed the Registration Board was forced to retrace its steps through the liberalization of group requirements will deprive all education even greater than those committed in the revolution the Registration Board.

1) President M. T. G. Student "What is the most vital need of the American College?"—a bulletin which the News most heartily concurs. It is indeed an occasion that an institution of higher education should be unshakably united in its aims of developing the student. This revolution has given birth to combined college and engineering, or business and engineering courses in the technical schools of the country and is undoubtedly the soundest educational policy. The Wharton School has been forced to retract its steps through the liberalization of group requirements will deprive all education even greater than those committed in the revolution the Registration Board.

A COMMUNICATION

Charles Apple wishes to publish this statement telling why he did not return to the campus after the Freshman Banquet. His words are:

"After leaving the Majestic Hotel where they told me the banquet was held, I made my way to Broad St., asking to buy a Topoje, Kamanos paper, and read the "Philadelphia Inquirer." This was a new idea I ran into a friend of the family, one Mr. Pickle, who runs the general store at home. In appears that he is about buying his spring stock of goods. Of course I was glad to see a friend from home, and readily consented to have him along with the banquet in Atlantic City.

"I stopped at the "Washington Hotel" and a few boys stayed the last few years.

In the hotel and it's service are commendable, with the manager showed me everywhere when I found out I was from Penn.

"After telling all the news from home, En asked me about the ruling and my impressions. I told him my experiences, especially during the making season.

"We wish to announce that G. D. Apple has consented to be interviewed from time to time; his experiences being preserved through the medium of this Column.

"Apple will cover the inter-Fraternity Ball for The Pennsylvania, the Board having arranged to procure for him the essential pastabest.

PENNSYLVANIA'S ADMINISTRATION

100,000 Grades Recorded
It may be interesting to obtain some idea of the task which confronts the Traffic Director in the fulfillment of his duties. Twice each year there are reported in the Wharton class office approximately 22,000 grades. Since each of these grades must be recorded twice, once on the rec-reant and once on the check, nearly 100,000 recordings are made each year. Each month during the academic year between 1,500 and 2,000 deficiencies, approximately 50 notices are sent to students, and these notices result in several hundred interviews with students and their parents. Twice each year, people are checked in order to correct registrations and the same num-ber of charges are made up and reported to the Registrar. In this work may be added many miscellaneous tasks such as recording the results of the various committee meetings, the preparation of lists of graduates for the Faculty, the registration of students, and the corre-spondence. The records of the Wharton School office are compar-able to the records of an industrial enter prise of no mean size.

Problem of Student Contact
Aside from the work of keeping the departmental office in running order the office of the Registrar has developed a major important function. The problem of student contact is probably the most important one that the University has to face. Wherever large numbers of students are taught, the elimination of the Advisory system neces-sarily tool with it the Faculty of the Registrar. It is the thought of the Dean and of the Registrar that this contact be sup-plemented to the extent of an exercise is possible through the office of the Registrar. An important function, therefore, is that of keeping in touch with the students. While it is true that the majority of students are one is at home, and if it is done prop-erly it is possible by action and by advice to supplement the Advisory contact to a min-imum. The Registrar seeks to accomplish his purpose by personal interviews with students, by correspondence with parents, and by maintaining the Faculty of the Registrar. These interviews are made of students and the committees surrounding students who are not succeeding. While many of the students may have a very real character may uncover real prob-lems. These problems can frequently be solved and the troubles eliminated if they are discovered at the proper time. In addition to providing a point of con-tact between the student and the Faculty, the Registrar is endeavoring to pro-vide a point of contact between the ad-visory and the Wharton School and the various extra-curriculum activities of the University. The Registrar is ever ready to furnish data which will be helpful in helping the student attain athletic and the non-athletic activities. In addition he is ready at all times to consult with those who take no part in such matters advising them of the benefits to be de-duced from participation; and with those who, with low disposition than value, would attempt too much.
