Bladesmen Practice Daily
For Annual Spring Regatta

With the Family and Junior Family Crows at Loretto, Conn., preparing for the Yale-Columbia race on the Housatonic River next Saturday, men entered in the Spring Regatta will have the boat crews practically to themselves this weekend, and are urged to practice daily. This year's crows are entered in this event and will compete on the lower course of the incantity, May 11 and 12.

Despite repeated warnings of the rowing management that men will not receive gym credit for past crew work unless they row in the regatta, there are still a great many who are not reporting for practice. No flying to say it is too early to work out every day in order to be able to enter this event. The captains consortiums are in charge of their respective boats, and should arrange with their crows for the most convenient time to hold practice.

Mr. George Miller, who is well known in rowing circles as a builder of shells and as referee of sculling championships, has consented to referee the races. The gold medal to be given the members of the winning eight have the University seal Inscribed upon them and are on display in Oommy's window, 3215 Wood-

The Interfraternity agreement and the League of Nations can now sympathize with each other.

Sparked of a chapter yesterday who pointed to New York to find out what time the train leaves. Apparently there had been some sort of a personal quarrel, for a lot of the boys had passed out—obviously cold—fled to the world—all picked—in good health.

NO NIGHT LIFE

We know a girl who won't read any of the books reviewed in the Pen. She's got the feeling that if you can make a good book she'll read it. We admire some fellows' choice of words. For instance, yesterday we heard a student remark as he left the administration building, "Boy, that's certainly a stable looking structure." Right in exactly the right word.

DRUNK

The other day, having nothing better to do, we wandered over to the top floor of Hare Hall—just to look the boys over. Apparently there had been some sort of a pretty wild party, for a lot of the boys had passed out—obviously cold—fled to the world—all picked—in good health.

CHANGING THE STAGS SPOTS

We saw a girl at the Pennsylvania who had world-wide reputations and are looked up to as the leaders in their respective fields of learning. A comparison with the faculty of other colleges and universities shows how the University of Pennsylvania stands in this respect.

CONTROVERSY

It's amusing, when one stops to observe, how little consideration the average person shows for the feelings of others. We admire some fellows' choice of words. For instance, yesterday we heard a student remark as he left the administration building, "Boy, that's certainly a stable looking structure." Right in exactly the right word.

PHILO SPONSORS ANNUAL INTERNSCHOLASTIC DEBATES

Four Philadelphia high schools participated in the annual interscholastic debate sponsored by the Philadelphia Philosophical Society last winter night.
The debaters were, West Philadelphia, Central and Frederick High Schools.
Each school had two debaters seated opposite two Germania High taking the honor positions, and Central High filling the combination. The question debated by all of the teams was the same as which was chosen for the annual Philodebate, held not too distant, "Resolved, That the three per cent immigration law should be abolished."

The Philosophical Society gives a Phi Psi to the school winning the three debates in succession. The Club members which are held each spring, are quite an event among the City High schools.

Robinson’s Poetry Subject Of Lecture

Dr. George W. McClelland will speak this afternoon on “A Significant American Poet” in Houston Hall at 4:30. Here in Arlington Robinson’s works are well known, and a great number of his fol-lew; are expected to attend this lecture. It is the twenty-first of a series of free public lectures given by the members of the University of Pennsylvania faculty.

The speaker intends to talk on the merits and significance of Robinson’s poetry. This poet is among the best of those that are living, a New England folk, the novelist. His novel fact is that he is rather shy and backward about creating his works in public, and has to be sought out in order to get them published. More about his character and habits will be discussed this afternoon.

He has already won several prizes, and shows promise of winning many more with his fascinating writings.

As an assistant professor in the English department, Dr. McClelland has come intimately in touch with E. Robinson and his works. In this way, he has prepared for the subject of his speech. He is the Director of Admissions as well as being connected with numerous other activities about the University.

Musical Clubs Will Hold First Banquet

Members in good standing of the University Musical Clubs, composed of the Glee Club, Symphony Orchestra, Instrumental Club, Wind and String Playing Society, will be the guests of the alumni and associate members at a banquet in Weightman Hall Saturday evening, May 1.

This will be the first banquet of its kind ever held by the organization. Honorable James N. Beck, underworld general of the United States, has been secured as the principle speaker of the evening. The program will also consist of songs by the Alumni quartet, solos by members of the club, and selections by the orchestra. As added attraction to the entertainment there will be several selections by Pete Haffield’s jazz orchestra.

Each member will be allowed to bring one feminine guest. There will be internal dancing during and following the evening’s program. All friends desiring to attend the function may communicate with Mr. George E. Nitze, graduate manager, not later than today.
