The Pennsylvania takes pleasure in announcing the election to the Junior Class of G. Walter Shaff, of Phila., and Malcolm L. Wiltail, '24, and an alteration of E. Rothee, of Philadelphia, 'Phi.'

UNDERGRADUATE COUNCIL

The announcement on the front page of this issue that twenty-eight members of the Junior Class had signified their intentions of running for office on the Undergraduate Council varies with it a great deal more than the mere fact that some confusion resulted at first. When the Council was reorganized over two years ago, it was the intention of those who favored the idea that at some time in the future the student body would realize the importance of self-government. Colleges and universities throughout the land have given many indications of how student government is a big factor in college life—how the creation of the institutions of higher learning.

Pennsylvania has undoubtedly taken a leading part in allowing the students to attend the system. The system at the University, while it may be perfect, has at least proven itself worthwhile. Now the big task is to place on the Council those men who are best qualified to engage in the work for, without the necessary human element, the organization can not hope for success.

A glance at the names appearing on the ballot today shows that men admirably qualified for the work have realized that membership on the Council can best utilize their abilities in forwarding the interest of Pennsylvania.

To choose from among the members of the Junior Class had signified their intentions of running for office on the Undergraduate Council varies with it a great deal more than the mere fact that some confusion resulted at first.

In making this distinction the Juniors are faced with a problem; it is human nature to be proud of one's institution and yet to be human.

We shall be glad to confer with you either personally or by mail, in regard to your entering this fine line.

MUSIC - The Compelling Force of the Ages

Cleopatra, soverign of the Nile, with the wealth of the world at her command, chose the entrancing strains of sweet music to soften the adamant heart of her warrior, Marc Antony, and bring his thought down to her level of love. She recognized, as having men and women of all ages, the force, the compelling power of music. Through all the years since Eve music has played a vital part in shaping the course of history. It has guided the destinies of nations, established new peoples. It has been the world's dominant force for good. Today the whole world is musical. The emotions of civilized peoples respond instantly to the refined strains of modern instruments, while the savage reflexes of untutored tribes are controlled by the rhythmic beating of the tom tom.

There is hardly a man or woman in the world who has not felt the inner urge to create sweet sound—to give expression to the music that is in every soul. Still, less than five percent of the world's population is able to play on any instrument. Most people have a totally erroneous idea that musical proficiency is difficult to acquire. Nothing could be farther from the truth. It is easy, wonderfully easy for any man or woman, any boy or girl, to learn to play well on any favored instrument. The Stratton Method through a scientific system of personal instruction has solved the problem.
