FRANKLIN SOCIETY SANQUET

For the past few days, space in the columns of this paper has been devoted to a banquet to be given by the Franklin Society on Thursday evening. Those with no interest in the topic have probably passed over these stories without a thought, but they have failed to observe that the matter of the banquet is not confined to members of the publishing boards. The fact is, they have failed to observe that the affair is given for the benefit of the student body at large. Without attempting to throw any booms at ourselves, we must say that the idea of playing a big part in undergraduate life is well. But like so many other things, they are taken as a matter of course, and nobody would be greatly disturbed if we were to do away with them.

As this is our last chance to square ourselves with the general public, and inasmuch as we have a few things to tell, we don't want anybody to believe that we have not been duly recompensed for our efforts. Even if the lot of the columnist is a hard one, I don't see how a person can do his job without a good conscience, and we have a few things to say in addition.

We have tried hand-thrown-out the past year to give you our outlook on certain existing conditions around college, that have not yet fully met with our approval. Neverthe- less these remarks apparently have been of no avail for:

1. We are still without a Commons.
2. The campus merchant still believe that every one needs a foreign language.
3. We have not, as yet, a uniform system.
4. There are still too few trees and too many unseemly posters and messages in the hallways.
5. They still have sidewalk heretics that, on rainy days, must use the sidewalks of Yonkers Park on a busy day.
6. There are still enough clothes to wear around to put Hart, Schaffner and Marx out of business.
7. They still have to pay rent on those rooms.
8. There are still too few sidewalks in the campus that lack desirable buildings.
9. They still take up Winding Avenue.
10. They still have women students.
11. There are still a few useless courses in the Wescott Science.
12. They still wear yellow overcoats.

While it is true that these and numerous other conditions exist we wonder, after all, just what a columnist would do without them. We feel that if they were all done away with the Pennsylvania would have more space for advertising than The Penn and Ink could be a thing of the past.

We certainly wish to thank our readers for being so tolerant and so philosophically inclined as to allow us to get away with this silly column this year and render publication possible day after day, for such a lengthy period.

And to our contributors we want to say that we owe them more than we can repay. Especially to Blue Print, O. E. I. Int, 3-C, 15-C, H. H., R. B. E. D., H. R., and B.A. We own a deep vote of thanks.

Right now we are going out to play golf and take research, at at, behind, golf has recently christened the original beef and sausages that I would have a golf field next day and talk all night.
