KING TURNED THE TIDE

Thrill game featured Saturday's Big with the plucky Garnet. From Evans' spectacular 34-yard dash down the sideline for a touchdown, to Wharton's winning touchdown, the 22,998 spectators were treated to all that is unusual and spectacular in the gridiron sport.

Pennsylvania was outfitted by a wide margin, but showed its traditional inspired football, and until late in the third quarter, were on the verge of an 11-point victory.

Then Coach Voege used "Hughie" King into the game, for the purpose of beating a field goal over the crossover. The stalk was difficult, but aided by a strong few feet plus an insertion into the lineup proved one of the finest scores of the day. To King's play the victory was attributed. He finished a flash attack for the crimson current of Pennsylvania's offensive stream.

King's speed and astounding tactics on wider on the run, and his return of a punt brought the ball in position for the winning touchdown. Now, using his marvelous foot, King spent but a brief ten minutes on the field, but he proved to be the star, while the Buffaloes are looking for a sure- and-courageous passer, around whom to build an aerial attack— as well as possessing a skilled toe. He conceals his tosses well, and then propels them like a bullet.

The offensive displayed sufficient methods to dispose the doubts of the most skeptic Pennsylvanians gained 199 yards from scrimmage, and registered against that defense, while Wharton's gained a total of 269 and made seven first downs. The backs ran harder, the interference showed a decided improvement, and the plays were better timed.

The credit of interference moving the runner on the wide line and run, and it was nearly impossible to stop the play without a few yards being sliced off. Although several opportunities to score were passed up, the attack was of greater variety, and gave more to estimate ever.

"Tec" Hamilton staged a cornerback brilliant to behold. He played a white-top defensive game—and on blue zones, placed the forward line at will. Hammer appears to have mastered the correct form in line backing, cleaning up, and rushing harder than ever before. His inaccurate forward pass and placing of plays, however, still show plenty of room for improvement.

Coach's sagging tail, except in very few instances, showing real genius in field leadership. If the former pivot man should carry the ball himself, however, more exception could be added to the Red and Blue attack.

The defense stopped the Green and White in their track. The line presented a stonewall to the推进es for the last quarter, while the defense against the latter's aerial game was practically impeneatable. The only error in the later department of play occurred when King was allowed to "cram" out the sideline, and make a "slooper", for a twenty-yard gain.

REATO AT THEIR OWN GAME

Coach "Tuffy" Spencer's West Virginia eleven on Saturday afternoon that the Warner forward-pass game is not irrefrangible, and furthermore, beat the Panthers at their own game, which is the score line to indicate the superiority of the Monarchs.

The victory’s two backfield stars, Eichberg and Nedderman, started the strain of the attack, the former unhooking a series of arms more passing than Turner’s tossed overhead game, while Nedderman tipped the foot to shuffle, crossing the color line. Pittsburgh did not score until late in the final period, when Gableman, substitute quarterback, picked up a fumble, and dashed thirty yards for a touchdown.

The victory is significant, inasmuch as it shows that the "Old Pug" can be beaten at his own game, and that the Pitt team is not irrefrangible, as was supposed. Opposing teams to fast delivering the mysteries of the Panther attack, evidenced by "Hot" Flanagan, triple threat backfield man, the latter quarter of where was allowed to "cram" out the sidelines, and make a "slooper", for a twenty-yard gain.

A DAY FOR THE OVERHEAD GAME

That the forward-pass is again becoming one of the most powerful offensive weapons was never better evidenced than on Saturday. Overhead passes played a prominent part in the College-Ohio State, Notre Dame-Army, West Virginia-Pitt, and and Pennsylvania-Pennsylvanian games.

In the past few years, the defense has proved to be capable of coping with this type of attack, but new methods in compensation and execution of the plays have again made it a much-feared weapon. Ohio State’s 28-21 win with Colgate, is one of the most brilliantly executed games of the past decade, was made possible by the use of the forward pass. The White-coated warriors attempted twenty-eight times, and were successful on thirteen occasions. Colgate, coached by the noted "Bill" Harlow, also employed this mode of attack to advantage, and completed ten out of eighteen passes.

Kent Rector’s Notre Dame team, where the forward pass is developed to the 9th degree of perfection, landed the Army 1-0 setback by this route. Rector maneuvered another pass on the Oips and Muckett type in quarterback Blifeld’s Tosses from the hand of this player gave Notre Dame its margin, and when scored the usual result made possible through the medium of an intercepted Army pass.

As mentioned above, West Virginia beat Warner’s team at the forward-pass game, while two losses gave Pennsylvania its 35-13 triumph over Scandinavian.

FRESHER BY A DAY
Not for many years has the cheer leading been so poor as it has been lately. In fact, the question whether it has ever been so rotten, such is the pace—ask anybody. How are we to correct this glaring fault? That is the only question worth bearing about.

Some have suggested that the undergraduates need a course in "cheering." Others claim that it is all in the fruit of the class and that cheer leading is no longer a team effort. As to which is correct we don't care a fig. It is our personal opinion that both parties are right. Last Saturday we watched the cheer leaders closely; at times they worked as a unit. Even then, however, the cheer was still sterile. The student body, the cheer leaders, were not following the leaders. Perhaps they were too used to five different "tramps" that they failed to see that all the leaders were in time. This lack of attention can be set down as the real cause of poor cheering. If the stands were alert and at their best, they could produce the cheer energy which so far is lacking in all Pennsylvania men—would it not matter if every cheer leader ever lived just a little bit about how the cheer should be led.

The last week must be held cheer. The team needs it. The reputation of the University depends on it. Before that time the cheer leaders can get together; the students can sharpen up their "distribution of attention."Failing that, Saturday will bring well-deserved criticisms on the cheerleaders, the students and the University.

CHEERING

COMMUNICATION

Editor of The Pennsylvania:

Just at this start of the college year, when all athletic events are beginning to sprout, may I say a word in behalf of those indoor minor sports that offer such exceptional opportunity for a man to make his mark at our University. The little appreciation is given by the student body to those sports, probably because the thought has not been brought to mind by them. These words are written to have the idea founded in the minds of all students.

We have seven sports for indoor during the winter—swimming, wrestling, boxing, bowling, gymnastics and rifle. Hardly a boy comes out to us who is not at least moderately skilled in some of these. Gymnastics is required of every student. Why not obtain that credit, and more than that, obtain honor for yourself and your University, by entering for one of them? Many a good man who earnestly wishes to do something to lift himself out of the rank of the mediocre, but is poorly advised, suffers the requirements by working in gym classes, where his talents are lost, or wastes his time trying for a major sport where he has not the least chance of even making a third team, when he might be winning athletic recognition in a minor sport.

And, for a moment, consider what is asked for in the place and endurance of the boy and weather, the skill and speed of the swimmer and the hockey man, the tactics of the hockey, the strain of the gymnast, the nature of the marks, many qualities, all of them, fitting for mostly men. Put it to yourself, are you lacking in all three? Have you never thought of using the talents that have been given to you?

The machinery is just setting into motion, the wheels beginning to turn, the quids are forming and applicants are being asked. The coaches and managers are on hand daily, eager and willing for enlistments. The call goes out to you and to me, to every student, the opportunity waits for many who would otherwise be foreigners. Let us have your answer.

THOMAS B. FITSCHETT,
Chairman, Indoor Minor Sports, Council on Athletics.
