Stebbins, W., Will Conduct Philadelphia Orchestra in Program Featuring Beethoven Works

FEW RESERVED SEATS REMAIN

Holmes of Boston will be among the concert series of the 1923-1924 season, which will be given by the Pennsylvania Orchestra of the Academy of Music on Monday evenings. Becoming the resident instrumental program, Holmes Locksand will conduct his last outing.

Dr. Leopold Stebbins, who will direct the orchestra in its season's series of concerts, has just announced that this year the orchestra will continue to give as the closing concert of the season.

The final concert will be the "Rienzi," a Wagnerian composition. The orchestra management placed the entire orchestral department at the disposal of the University, for both students and faculty members, in order to give an additional appearance.

The concerts will continue through the entire season, and the final concert will be on Friday afternoon, March 10.

The Franklin Society, which has the responsibility of the orchestra, has just announced that it will give the annual concert of the season, which will be held today at the University of Pennsylvania, in the basement of Hamilton Hall.

The society has just announced that tickets will be sold at the door to all concerts at $1 each.

FOllOW THE CHEERLEADERS

One night of the week campusists find a few moments convenient for the cheering that lasts Saturday. Time has not mellowed our enthusiasm; we still think it was rotten.

Not another day—that is another game. The past can be blotted out. How? Pull the cheer leaders.

The men who are responsible for our undergraduate cheer are more motivated this past weekend and are prepared to lead the student body with the proper degree of solemnity and spirit. They have done their part to overcome the scandalous exhibition displayed at the recent meet. One department has not been reported perfect; the cheer ups of the other? Their report will come today on Franklin Field.

One can readily understand the temptation to watch the play and not the cheerleaders. But when it is taken into consideration that these are very pleas that are influenced by the cheering, there seems to be little excuse for neglecting their duty on the ground of "intense interest." Such interest helps no one when wrongly diverted.

One word more and we are through. The cheerleaders are faced with a difficult task when an injury occurs and a cheer for the fallen man is the proper thing. They should have the right to keep silent until ordered by the cheerleaders.

The University expects every man to do his duty.

WHERE ARE THE OTHERS?

Since the opening of the fall term President Prunulman has been conducting daily chapel in the Main Building. At 3:15:20 minutes. Several weeks ago an announcement was made of this fact posters were placed at prominent places, and every effort was expended to invite a representative number to attend the services.

A few of the faithful responded—very few. As a matter of fact, the absence of attendance has numbered his FOC: such a mere attendance can constitute nothing short of gross neglect to the efforts of the President, who, although busy with affairs of administration, has set aside this time to meet with the student body.

To the old graduates, the thought that there was a need to resubmit an address in order to fill the chapel room was regarded as unprecedented condition of affairs. Yet over this same block was hearing the news of empty seats.

Each year, the Christian Association of the University makes a delegation of forty or more men to Silver Bury, where they have an opportunity to observe some religious and social problems in a wonderfully fitting spiritual background. These forty men are selected from among Christian leaders, and are to use their influence for the betterment of the men on their respective campuses. They form resolutions to that effect.

The Pennsylvanian, as the official organ of the university, is addressed to all students, to the alumni members, to the parents of alumni, to all friends in the community. It is een to be a medium of information to the public at large.

Yet, notwithstanding their resolutions of Christian leadership, few of them attend daily chapel under Dr. Pennulman. Where are the other forty four hundred student's?

CAPTAIN KOPPISCH IN STAR ROLL

Following is the information furnished by the Columbia Daily Spectator regarding the Blue and White's football team which plays on Franklin Field today:

"The opening game of the season will be held in 13 to 1 victory over Columbia's exhibition denoting signs of potential strength, although a general impression of temperament has prevailed.

The absence of veteran players because of injury and illness cannot amount to the same extent as the oppositionVersion.

Although the following list is in order of the names of a game which is positive improvement, it is probable that Columbia will take the field in some being the first other--ends, Wagner and Wilkerson; tackles, Martin and Peterson, and centers, Brubaker and Pearson; halfbacks, Brubaker and Pearson; fullbacks, Brubaker and Pearson; and Duff and Kibbey.

Other players who are unable to get into the contest are Steele and Manning, center. Brubaker and Pearson; tackles, Martin and Peterson, and centers, Brubaker and Pearson; halfbacks, Brubaker and Pearson; fullbacks, Brubaker and Pearson; and Duff and Kibbey.

"Couch Haughton is being assisted by seven associate coaches, most of whom learned football under him at Harvard University. As you may know the con in, Coach Haughton to Columbia attended considerable enthusiasm on the part of campus and student body, so that football at Columbia is really underlying a revival both in the playing end and in the support conditioned by the students."
