PASSENGER PREPARE FOR PENN A. C.

Coach Malcolm Drilla Varsity in Fuel Shortage

Mr. Horace Drum, Chairman of the Penn basketball team, has announced that he will leave his team in the hands of Mr. John Supreme 87.

CARMACK ENGAGES IN PRACTICE

With the Decree, Horace Drum and J. C. King got under way on the practice yesterday night and will devote to evening to preparation for the contest the better part of the week.

Coach Malcolm in his hour in fundamental and tactics of the game for that last night's workouts. He was an optimistic man.

Prof. Barnaby, at this year's football banquet, emphasized the importance of coming out for the team in the near future.

Kaspar, who is the leading man in the event, was vague in his estimates of the time due to the injury which he received. He was not yet able to engage in active practice for the team.

Christmas, the annual event, will be held on the University of Pennsylvania.

Future plans are for the team to meet with City College of New York will be discussed at more length in the near future.

The question of the election of the team for the coming year is for the next several weeks. The election will be for the next year's team and not for the coming semi."

Delightful Christmas Gifts

The Pennsylvania State University has read with much interest the account which appears in The Pennsylvanian. It holds its enviable position in the university world, and rightfully too. If a holiday were granted for every wish and everyday, that would not be changed. Courses are mapped out on the long calendar. The last day in December is reserved for some students who will stay here Christmas, while the majority of us will return to homes far and wide. However, it is possible that the Latin Quarter will be crowded with students from distant parts of the country, who feel that it is practically impossible to get home in time for the holidays. Christmas, and the rest of the area. Discussion by the "straw vote." The straw vote itself was very pleased when The Pennsylvanian began a discussion of the Houston Club problems. On the contrary, I am not interested in the straw vote. The straw vote itself has a special significance for me. It is extremely poor taste to slam a rival publication regardless of the facts, because the student body does not belong. Therefore, we hope for the continued interest of The Pennsylvanian in its publication of the Houston Club. The Administration wants the student body to stay here Christmas, if they have put a doorbell on Logan Hall. They are hoping, however, that before long the changes may be in an interview with or without university seal. We haven't any evidence that the University seal will be possible? But would not a longer Christmas vacation be possible? Let the University begin school a week earlier. It is hoped, however, that before long the changes may be in an interview with or without university seal. We haven't any evidence that the University seal will be possible? But would not a longer Christmas vacation be possible? Let the University begin school a week earlier. The Houston Club Book Store advertises that they have "gifts for every member of the family, with or without university seal." We haven't any evidence that the University seal will be possible? But would not a longer Christmas vacation be possible? Let the University begin school a week earlier. We immediately sent the column Statisticians to our emancipators, and removed the titles that the pole is being erected on the north side of the avenue by request of the residents of some of the houses there. It seems that they have noticed the lack of something to eat and have accordingly placed the suggestion. At this time of the year, there is one way to avoid it. The Administration wants the student body to stay here Christmas, if they have put a doorbell on Logan Hall. They are hoping, however, that before long the changes may be in an interview with or without university seal. We haven't any evidence that the University seal will be possible? TELL THEM WHERE YOU ARE HOME THAT—

Pennsylvania was the first institution in this country to achieve the distinction of being known as a university; that its wealth of tradition has been growing ever since it was founded in 1729 by Benjamin Franklin; and that among its alumni living in the Revolutionary Days were as many or more prominent personages than any other school could claim.

The Wharton School of Finance and Commerce was the first of its kind, and its establishment in the latter part of last century revolutionized the teaching of business and public service in the United States: that every important school of commerce and business administration in the land is modeled after it; and, despite many attempts at imitation, this department is still recognized as the best undergraduate school of business science in the world.

The University School of Architecture is ranked second only to the Beaux Arts Institute of Paris, numbering in its faculty the greatest master of design in the world, Dr. Paul Cret.

The Pennsylvania Dental School ranks as the first in the land, offering exceptional advantages both from the viewpoint of being located in one of the greatest cities in the world, and from the opportunity for clinical work. Over 10,000 patients are treated each year in connection with this department.

Pennsylvania's Law School was the first to be established in the United States, James Wilson, prominent in Colonial affairs, being the first head of this division of the University. Students pursuing this branch of learning have at their disposal within a few blocks of every corner of the campus—courts of every kind, from the lowest to the highest, with the exception of the United States Supreme Court, which is farther at hand than the campus.

The Medical Department of the University also bears the distinction of being the first of its kind established. It divides with Johns Hopkins and Harvard the leadership of American medical institutions, being especially renowned for its graduate course. Philadelphia had more hospital facilities, and consequently greater clinical opportunities, in proportion to its population than any other city in the world. The University also maintains a large hospital of its own on the campus, numbering an average of 500 patients.

Clevelanders Plan Frolic

Of interest to Clevelanders is the announcement that the Annual Intercollegiate Midnight Frolic will be held this year on January 2 at B. & H. Kolth's 16th street Theatre. The Intercollegiate Frolic Committee desires all non having any ability and willing to take part in the production to get in touch with Mr. Davis P. Shupe, 2410 Carnegie avenue, Cleveland.
