The latest tale that has drifted in from the next door office is of a slightly overweight youth who searched half an evening about the base of an arc light. It seemed that he had lost his wallet some- where. He asked if the gasoline engine that inorna out- side the light because that was the only place where there was illumination enough.

Half the student body is searching for some- one who will enlighten us on the proper method of attack when it seems to be on deck.
