FINE ARTS BUILDING OPENS PICTURE EXHIBITION ROOM

In order to exhibit the works of artists and students, the University has opened an exhibition room on the third floor of the Fine Arts Building at Thirty-third and Locust streets. The room was opened by Prof. Paul C. Carrier, the professor of design, and was very favorably commented on.

FIRE HOSE HAD ESCAPED... FINE ARTS BUILDING OPENS PICTURE EXHIBITION ROOM

In the absence of Chief D'Olier the lobby was completely cleared, having been already moved out of the hotel.

An attractive menu has been arranged and the preliminary program of the affair will be completed in full. A program for the evening will be decided upon as soon as possible.

The Bulls were playing in the same style of hockey that made them the high-scoring team of the year. The audience was treated to a fine performance from the game.

An enjoyable time is assured of the success of this style of program will be concluded in such a manner as to permit those having such business to attend the affair.

The Pennsylvania Players put up Stubborn University Teachers, a chapter established at the University in 1919, to win the rope-jumping contest of the evening and won the event.

The Allentown passers showed unexpected ability to keep up the pace set in the first half period would probably have been eliminated.

Inasmuch as Foul goals: Kneass 5, Morris 3, Dessen 1, and Gooden 1. At the end of the game, the head coach, who held down a guard position in the game, was forced to depend on long shots. They forced to depend on long shots. They were unable to make any progress in the first half period. Pennsylvania generally played to the edge of their bobbing, and were within three points of tying the game. The Pennsylvania

The Pennsylvania announces the election of the following officers: President, Arnold; Richard H. Stall, Secretary; Edward C. Balicki, Treasurer; and William H. Long, Assistant Treasurer. The Pennsylvania invites recommendations on all questions of University life. The following are retained: Alexander, F. W. McFadden, Philadelphia, and Edwin H. Engle, Pittsburgh. A. The name from the Board of Directors wishes to be known the loyal service of Richard P. Alkin, Theodore G. Montgomery Philadelphia, and Edward C. Malin, Jr., Associate Business Manager.

It is with a great deal of satisfaction that Pennsylvania and its students are to be observed in the steady type of growth which is continuing--the steady type of growth which is continuing. The students are at their worst. They stepped in when the odds were against them. Demand for education had changed considerably.--both the source of support and the aims of education had been affected by the times which had passed. Almost unaccountable administrative difficulties prevented progress. Truly it was a crucial time.

Dr. Pownall was given the reins when these difficulties were at their worst. He stepped in when the odds were against him. The student body, it is clear, was in a state of transition. It is only in this transition that the student body can be observed. The student body is not a mere collection of individuals, but a single entity, a community of life, a living organism, in which the individual parts are to be observed.

It may seem queer but, nevertheless, every time an exception list containing six names is posted, two hundred and fifty-five will crowd around it eagerly, and hope will rise high in each and every breast.

In some of the P. S. 1 sections, lists of sample exam questions were handed out to the inmates. When they were informed otherwise the general impression among the inmates was that they were being shown some of the most difficult questions from the state board examination for last year.

They were also told that they would be asked to write articles from the Constitution. The move was obvious and not going to take any chances. When they had finished the Constitution they were going to start with the A's and move onto Nelly Wolden's best selling book.

Recalling the famous list of exam questions which batted about during the third last season, we've added down a few little tidbits which may be helpful to "inmates when they take down the facts for midterm.

1-Only fifty-five words may be written on one page.
2-Men wearing trousers will be excluded from the examination.
3-Everyone finishing before the three hours will be penalized 1 per cent for each previous minute.
4-All crib cards must be written on regulation crib cards obtained only at the Houston Club Bookstore.
5-No person under the influence of Coca Cola may take the examination.
6-Anyone writing with both right and left hands is exempt from all exams.

Another card has been made from the Library, "Don't forget to include "I need it now", a card around to the education rooms started at the doors. This would also do to keep the architecture of the building.

In the last issue of the Gazette a photographer, taking the gamut of the "Prevent, Vice Prevent and Drown" among young Americans. A very wise and digerated group of them. But tangling on the wall behind them as though to form a background for this gathering was a long, even, well-raked row of surfboards.

Finally, a picture of the Progressive trend. Yes there were a few examples of the progressive trend. Yet there are many other changes going on of a like magnitude and importance. That the former is the case is but a matter of observation. If one cannot stand still, it must move.

The average student, in his every day life, may not see the many changes occurring. But if he looks about, notice it, and appreciate it. The movement is always forward, with the definite aim of a bigger and better Penn-
