ARCHITECTS LAUNCH SEBAUX ARTS ENDTIVE WORK

A at a meeting held Thursday noon in the large room of the Architectural Building, the students of the Sebaux Art School held a meeting to plan for a help sale totaling $400 for the endowment fund of the Beaux Arts Institute. The sale is to be held in the second week of April.

The Institute was founded in 1856 and has been in operation almost continuously since then. Through its organization, the Sebaux Art School is able to offer a wide range of courses and classes in art and design.

Several members of the faculty are graduates of the Beaux Arts and Paris Troops of the Institute.

Conway's Service
One sure way to discover what that means is to want to go to a play and be in something of a quandary as to eats and tickets. The situation may seem very awkward to you, but you'd wonder what Conway's can do for you in just such emergency as in fact at any time, and Conway's does just that thing. You can make up your mind, all of a sudden, to go to a show and turn to Conway's to get you the seats. Conway's is a ticket service run on strictly legitimate business principles. It is not a scalping speculation. You pay a fixed moderate fee that insures against disappointment and saves you a vast deal of trouble.

LUTHERAN STUDENT PASTORS MEET HERE
Over two score colleges and universities will be represented when the Lutheran Student Pastors Convention assembles for the first time on Thursday and Friday in Philadelphia. This convention, following on the heels of the Church Workers Conference, will be a direct attempt to place the theories and policies, as expressed in the conference, into practical and practicable form. The convention will be directed by Rev. Carl P. Harry, who was the former minister to students at the University. Dr. Harry is now director-general of the Lutheran pastors for students in the United States and Canada.

SPECIAL RATES BY THE WEEK OR MONTH

Some one wins $100 EVERY DAY
by writing one line of a LIMPIN' LIM'RICK

Nine others win $5.00 each

Every day an incomplete Limerick of four lines is printed in the Evening Public Ledger. You write a clever fifth line to rhyme with the first and second line; then send it to us and you may win the $100 prize. It's fun. It's easy. Try it today.

Here's one of the Limericks used a few days ago. The last line (in italics) is the winning line. It was sent in by Mrs. Dorothy Probst, 204 Parkview Apartments, Marion and Keystone Avenues, Upper Darby.

A flapper whose name was Adele,
Said she thought that the fox trot was swell;
"I could dance it," she said,
Till I fell over dead—
"But at housework my muscles rebel."
