UNEARTH RARE SKELETONS
IN LIBRARY EXCAVATIONS

For Figures and Writings Discovered
Under Library by Workmen
Late Yesterday

---

THE UNIVERSITY of Pennsylvania has long been a leading institution in the investigation of ancient civilizations and their history. Amours and all over the world was astonished yesterday to discover that the re-examined walls of the Library, where the famous library of the second century was built upon what may prove to be the beginning of civilization. A number of perfectly formed skeletons of prehistoric men and a number of stone statues, carvings and symbols of some ancient language were found from the excavation in hand of the Library restoration. The University apparently is to draw from the experience the lesson. Dr. Cornell has been saved for years by his famous "Arms of Demigods" lecture.

rise from the valley of defeat, up the steep mountains of these departments of play that Cornell turned the balance. However, is not up to us.ial standard—and it must be a trinity, with three essential elements which are to have their share of attention. The three principles must be of paramount importance in the rehabilitation of the team. They are to understand that the University is not just an institution, but a community of men and women who together form a whole. The three principles must be: Reputation, scholarship, and character.

The result of the game sends the Princeton Red into the leadership of the Ivy League. Circumstances such as this call out the best and finest in the freshman class to whom they wish to extend an invitation to membership in the upperclass. It is a foregone conclusion that the freshmen rush and register their names in the record for forever concerned. Class work offers to be a heavy burden, and it causes great strain. Rushing season is always a problem, but this year it is hoped greater than ever.

The new Interfraternity Agreement, a document which was completed and signed only after a long, hard and heated struggle, is the democratic process at work. The election of the new class.

For this he was sent to prison

Roger Bacon may not have invented gunpowder, he has been claimed by some biographers of the famous Franciscan friar, but he exploded some of the outstanding errors of thirteenth century thought. Because of his advanced teachings, Bacon spent many years of his life in prison.

In an age of abstract speculation he boldly asserted the mathematical basis of all the sciences. But even mathematical calculation, he showed, must be verified by experiment, which discovers truths that speculation could never reach.

In the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company, Bacon's principles are followed in every experimental investigation. The gas-filled electric lamp and the electron tube were worked out on paper, but it was experimental verification of the underlying mathematical theory that made electric illumination, radio broadcasting and X-rays what they are today.
ALUMNI RELAY TEAM
OVERWELMS VARSITY

The relay race between the Varsity quartermasters and the championship alumni team of 1921, composed of Kry, Maxim, Rogers and Brown was the feature event of the third Mid-Winter Handicap Meet. Stalins of the veterans gave Earl Kry a good start and four yards over Leonard, who led scoring for the Varsity. Both the men topped a pretty quarter but Kry had picked up three more yards when he tripped the baton to Larry Brown, anchor man for the alumni, who ran last for the Varsity. He made a valiant charge to cut Brown's lead, but the distance was too great and the factional veterans had added another win to their long string of victories.

Baldwin, a transfer from Colgate Varsity, snatched the lead from

McLane, the favorite, who started from scratch, and came into the lead two laps

from the finish but could not match Holleer's burst of speed when they came into the final stretch. Another upset occurred when Bonn offered the winner in the 440-

yard dash. Carroll, placing second, and

Brown third.

Toronto won the 200-yard event for novices, and in the five hurdles,

Wolf

won by a close margin from Slater and

Smith who finished second and third respectively.

In the field events, the discus throw was closely contested. Stewart won with a throw of 110 feet 6 inches, while

Kane

and Laugh tied for second honors.

had walked erect, which was about seven feet, and the shape of the head was such as indicated that of modern men in every way. The next body, one of the three facing "A," showed theanner in life to have been the youngest of the group, although the bones were so large that for the largest. There were on other different significance in size for "C" and "D," however, gave every indication by their position that they had been asleep when their lives were snuffed out, in fact it had been a natural resting position on the bones in front of him. "C" and "D" were the latest developed in a physical way, and death had found them known to the medical profession.

The discovery is of very great importance, for, these bones known to the medical profession are those of an older man older than the others. Scientists will no doubt find great interest in comparing the number of these bones developed in the younger generations to the bones of the older men when their lives were snuffed out. In the process of the development of the younger generations these bones will serve as a key and enable the scientists to discern the rest. All bones unearthed which had rude scratchings upon them. The most interesting of these was won by the third of the series "B," one of which had carvings up to 3 feet 1 1/2 inches. It betrayed by Torrondo second; Collins, Time 32.5 seconds; 100 yard dash—Won by McClain; second, Lewis; third, Kanrich. Distance 41 feet 3 1/2 inches.

The discovery is of very great importance in science, for, how great an importance to one can say, because numerous stone carvings were found. The large stones were literally covered with carvings and nine rough stone tables were unearthed which had rude scratchings or carvings upon them. The most of these stones were found near the small town "C," one of which had carvings upon it, and under scratchings between these lines apparently in another language. It is hoped that this combination stone will serve as a key and enable the scientists to decipher the rest. All stones with carvings were removed to the Museum where the experts started work on their classification. We can promise our readers a more complete discussion of the Tahquich's great furnaces tomorrow and possibly some idea of the writing on the stones can be obtained by them. It is probable that the excavators will be filled immediately with a more favorable opportunity to become acquainted with a larger size.

P. M. C. Polo Team
Dows Red and Blue

Will Oppose Philadelphia Riding and Driving Club Next Saturday

Last Saturday evening the University polo team suffered a defeat at the hands of the Pennsylvania Military College's expert riders in a close 1 to 0. Bottleman exhibited some splendid riding, but was responsible for the loss. The chocolates of the yellows, Wyman was the star for the opposition. In the three-choker P. M. C. scored the greatest number of points of any one side and after that they were never closely held down to the home team.

Two weeks ago the Pennsylvania team surprised Pittsburgh on short notice to play the riding and driving club in that city. Neither side was able to win a true victory in the battle of the whips. The Pittsburg side was composed of trained riders, but the time limit found the Pittsburg team in the lead. The Pennsylvanians have participated in the University's riding and driving program for a year, and were expected to hold their ground, and they did.
