Adventure!

You can revel in life on the open—on horseback—on a camp adventure in your own right! Enjoy the fascination of the Great Pacific Northwest. You can experience the thrills of which others have written — Broncho busting—bucking contests — roping—Wild West sports, in the great Northern Pacific.

Extra Dry

May we suggest Ginger Ale, because it is a favorite with both men and women also for its deliciously pleasant flavor. Serve it to your guests.

Environment

To those who have failed to find the newest and most beautifully furnished hotel.

The SYLVANIA

will prove a revelation. The lure of Paul Whitteman's wonderful orchestra for dancing at dinner and supper attracts those who have previously been patrons of other hotels. You will doubtless see many familiar faces.

J. C. BONNER
MANAGING DIRECTOR
Those women students refuse to stay out of print. No sooner do we weary of writing about them than some one else takes up the burden. A herald contributor has a column full to say on the subject.

A remarkable petition, comparable in the Bill of Rights, the Magna Charta or the Protestant Bible, was received by the Undergraduate Council at its last meeting. This document, signed by a good number of the students, protests that if there be a true and authentic establishment of the library, as well as the other students, should receive gym credit.

There were numerous substitutions allowed in the main, and I must say that the new buildings and also the new cabinets procured against the use of the press to proclaim the library a "happy hunting ground." She asserts that as many freshmen sit on the places of the present time that it is not impossible for one of his ilk to gather in a few or notice any names.

Another depicts the suggestion that Dr. McKennis model a group statue, to be called "Bighill's," to two men of Pennsylvania regarding a need for this noble in addition of learning. She says the group be of an old or West Philly High School girl looking at a Penn model to be entitled "Intellect." She adds that ever the West Philadelpbia girls have become near sighted from treating their eyes as far as they can.

In another part of the petition a notice solemnly declares that she made the college typical and bankrupt; that she was on that account that she had to spring the Woodland avenue joke every other week.

In one of the sub-petitions another fair student remarks that some of the world's best campuses will undoubtedly be surprised to hear that two of the much defamed cows have been selected to appear in the "English Polities" next year.

Needless to say, the wooden horses were unduly surprised.

Every student to be enrolled in the college from the outside is illiterate no better than in this case. In some instances, and there in degrees which are never so great as we are led to believe, there is some basis for the charge of materialism. But criticism of educational institutions in general on this count is utterly untenable and absurd.

University Shooters New Record
During the past week interest has centered about the Intercollegiate Rifle Matches in which Pennsylvania is represented and the impressive showing made by the University Riflemen indicates that the fight for honors will be hotly contested. Pennsylvania recently suffered the first defeat at the hands of Norwich but it ran with them for second place.
