Pennsylvania's football team received a respite yesterday from the intensive scrimmage which has character and the varsity practice of the past several weeks. With the opening game of the season still a couple of days away, the coaches are now touching up their charges, and the work, consisted entirely is drilling in fundamentals, followed by a more scrimmage in which a forward pass offense was stressed.

The work of the next few days will be continued today. A signal drill practice will be conducted in the Inviting Stadium today at 1100, and the remaining practices of today, tomorrow and the next two days will include the full team. Thece practices will be continued until the lineup is complete and ready to start tomorrow, but the touch will be started in preparation for the 12th debut in fundamentals, followed by work out with the regulars.

Several members of last year's freshman line is composed of Leth, quarterback; Capman, right end; Hubbs, left end; Homan, center; and Laird, who directed the scrubs of the past season practices has been the battle for the quarterback berth between Parke, center. In the backfield, what changed from that is in the line is that the first year men are now participating and that Hubbs has been named as a possible player for the varsity. Although all work consists of drilling on the line, the inside men are now ready to make their debut in the field.

The purpose of this meeting is to acquaint the incoming freshman with the situation at present, to show him tales of the deeds of those who have gone before them, but to show him that the average freshman has herd strange at present and that college life is entirely different from any thing that he has experienced here before. The Undergraduate Council has the sole purpose of acquainting the members of the student body with the approach of the freshmen class to participation and the most important function of the already smooth working organizations.

The program, which starts at 3:30, will be short and will consist of the opening of the meeting a not to bore the freshman with a string of miscellaneous words but to make the meeting a part of the activities which delineate the campus life of the average student. The presentation will be left to members of the junior class who have participated in the student council. The presentation will be held in the gymnasium in Weis Hall.

Sophomores welcomed the meeting of the freshmen class with a short address. The program will open today with a short address. "Lou" Young, coach of the football team, welcomed the freshmen to the University last night.

The purpose of the meeting is not to bore the freshmen with tales of the deeds of those who have gone before them, but to show them the student council and the approach of the freshmen class to participation. The presentation will be held in the gymnasium in Weis Hall.

The presentation will be short and will consist of the opening of the meeting and the presentation of the officers of the student council. The presentation will be left to members of the junior class who have participated in the student council and the most important function of the already smooth working organizations.

Mr. W. E. Muddley, Associate in the Houston Club, will preside.

The modernized servants of thought

Eversharp and Wahl Pen are modern, perfected instruments for recording thought. Six new features — we mention specially the non-dropping refill tip, quick reload and interchangeability of parts — make Eversharp more convenient and dependable than ever before.

Wahl Pen through the improved all-metal construction has increased ink capacity, strength to resist wear and abuse, and the beauty good taste demands in personal articles.

Eversharp is priced $1 to $45 — Wahl Pen $5 to $35.

Made in duplicate designs for matched sets.

LECTURER EXPLAINS HIGH COST OF SCIENCE
Franklin, Founder of the Academy Declares $600,000 Necessary to Make Modern Science
"BENJAMIN FRANKLIN A PARAGON"

Dr. Arthur I. Little of Harvard who was one of the principal speakers during the fifth anniversary exercises of the founding of the Franklin Institute, told his audience that it costs Fess to produce a scientist, and that a government by scientists is preferable to a government by labor.

"Benjamin Franklin was a paragon," said Dr. Little. "He was, nevertheless, very human. He was at once a philosophizer and a man of affairs. His career proves the fallacy that a man of science is temperamentally unfitted for practical affairs."

When Franklin was in England at Parliament one day there were pointed out the beds temporal, the beds spiritual, and the beds commons. Edmund Burke, pointing to the press gallery, explained: There sits the fourth estate, note the contrast between them all. Benjamin Franklin, however, represented the fifth estate which has taken an even greater part in the making of the world.

"A scientist is one who has the singularity to wonder, the ability to question, the talent to generalize, and the courage to apply. They bring the power and the results of life to the multitude, who content to go through life without quest, without everything for granted. They come on Pope Twelve"

Come on Class Work Duofold's Ready to Go
The Black-tipped Lacquer-rod Classic Handsome to Own—Hard to Lose Jewel-Smooth Point Guaranteed 25 Years

For an even start this Fall with your classmates—a little ahead of some, and as well equipped as any—take along the $7 Over-size Duofold or $5 Lady Duofold or sturdy Duofold Jr.

Every theme you write, every test you take, every lecture you note down, will gain the speed and clearness of this 25-year jewel-smooth point.

A pen you can load without a trouner because no style of writing can distort its point. The Pen with the Press-Burton Filler, taped inside the barrel—out of sight—out of harm's way. The pen with the Duo-Sleeve Cap—an extra sleeve for an Ink-Tight seal. Its strong Gold Girdle was $1 extra—now no charge, due to large productions.

Whichever you say—flushing plain black—or lacquer-red, black-tipped—we recommend the color, for it makes this a hard pen to lose. At all good pen counters.

The Franklin Institute was founded, not by Benjamin Franklin, as is commonly supposed, but by a young man, not yet 21, named Samuel Vaux. The Institute is a continuation of the efforts of several scientists and inventors to create a place where knowledge could be shared and advanced. The Institute's first president was Benjamin Franklin, who was instrumental in its creation.

The Franklin Institute was opened on January 8, 1824, at the Academy (now the Franklin Institute), and by 1825, the Institute had moved to a building on 4th Street, near Arch, where the University of Pennsylvania was then located. The Institute has undergone no structural changes in over 150 years.

The Institute enjoys a hundred years of uninterrupted achievement, conducting a series of important lectures and exhibitions that have blurred the trail into important discoveries and industrial achievements. In its time the Institute has attracted a host of leaders and a collection of scientific instruments and many documents of great historical value.

Distinguished Scientists Attend

A series of the Institute's scientific achievements during the past three decades, reveals the vast and varied contributions of the Franklin Institute. Several American, English, and French scientists, including the late Sir William Crookes, and the late Sir William Thomson, have contributed to the Institute's achievements.

The Franklin Institute Centenary Exercises

A day of Memorial Exercises, held in the old Academy Building on 4th Street, near Arch, where the University of Pennsylvania was founded, will be attended by the Institute's founders and their families.

The Franklin Institute Centenary Exercises will feature a series of lectures by prominent scientists, including the late Sir William Crookes, and the late Sir William Thomson, who contributed to the Institute's achievements.

The Institute's 150th anniversary will be celebrated with a series of lectures and exhibitions that will feature the contributions of prominent scientists, including the late Sir William Crookes, and the late Sir William Thomson, who contributed to the Institute's achievements.

Because I'm supplying so many of Philadelphia's discriminating men with their new Fall hats.

But behind the pleasantness is a substantial piece of merchandising. It is February.

A leading hat manufacturer agreed to make me a very special prize, presented 1,000 of his hats every month during the entire Fall and Winter.

Phew! It's some job, yes, but when I tell you I'm passing every cent of the concessions along to the men of Philadelphia, when I tell you these are regular 4.50 hats in every respect; when I tell you I'm selling—you put me selling—these beautiful "crown" hats for 2.85, the job doesn't seem so big, does it?

Well, come in and confirm your judgment.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
GREET'S CLASS OF 1928
AT ANNUAL CONFERENCE

The Christian Association of the Pennsylvania State University held its annual Freshman Conference at the University Auditorium on Thursday, September 25th. The conference was attended by a large number of students, faculty members, and guests. The morning session included talks by various faculty members and student leaders, discussing topics such as community service, academic life, and personal growth. The afternoon was dedicated to recreational activities, including sports and games, which helped students relax and enjoy each other's company.

The conference ended with a banquet where members shared a meal and celebrated their unity as a community. The Christian Association continued to uphold its commitment to fostering a supportive and inclusive environment for all students.

1924 Football Program Brings Four New Opponents To Franklin Field—Alumni Meet Varsity.

Play California At Berkeley

With four new opponents, a mid-week tilt with Notre Dame, and a journey to the Pacific Coast for the New Year's Day game with the University of California, the 1924 edition of the Pennsylvania university schedule is a Gold Rush for the requirements of the dual sport football enthusiast.

The season, which opens tomorrow with University of Virginia is one of the longest ever attempted by a Red and Blue team. Shorty O'Brien's Drexel warriors have been inserted into the program as the usual opposition. Formerly the West Point band entertained with the Varsity but this year a regulation game will be played.

Franklin and Marshall, a team which held last year's Varsity to two touchdowns, hold the honor of being the first to meet the 1924 Edition.

PLAYERS ON THE FLAT

In July the new captains were announced before the University cleared last year to a tune of $27, will be seen much more than the recent quartet which announces the new season on the schedule, Virginia, follows Columbia. While the field is unknown, the Rockeys in the unknown, the Red and Blue will be endeavoring to accustomed to the University by the time the alumni game on Saturday, January 1.

Lafayette, without its former coach, the distinguished Jack Rutherford, meets the University for the third time in the ball game the University was established in November. Georgetown, named by Longhorn's coach as his next opponent, will meet Cornell with whose Red and Blue powerhouse November 8 in Alumni will stage their annual contest. Thus as a fitting climax the University warriors meet Army and the University of California team on Thursday January 1.

Former Red and Blue Athletes Die in Maine

Ray Grant, 1915 Football Guard, Moves Down to Newport News in Northern Woods

Played Three Freshman Sports

Ray Grant, former Red and Blue football half star, died last Saturday in Portland, Maine, where he was a Biblical teacher, according to a message received at the office of the Cornell Athletics Board. Ray Grant had fought to recover his failing health, and his death is reported to have been the result of heart disease.

Ray, as he was known to his fraternity members at Tri Delta in the University of Maine, was a leader in the Intercollegiate Track and Field. He was the intercollegiate track star of the Red and Blue in 1914, and after graduation continued his athletic studies at the University of Maine.

Grant was a captain of the Boston College football team in 1912, one of the most successful teams of the season. He was the symbol of stability in the varsity lineup, and was an asset in the formative years of the football team.

He entered in the Pennsylvania on the following bill and was cultivated as a member of the university baseball team. After a month of hard work in the University body he returned to his old place of professional charges.

Western Writer Believes Greek Letter Societies Are Endangered By Campus Legislation

Arthur H. Brooke writing in a recent issue of the campus magazine of The College of William and Mary says: "The Greek-letter fraternities have been among the most extraordinary of our colleges and an aversive, or at least an effect of the college fraternity died out?"

It has been a first blind as though certain institutions, due to the looters of several hundred thousand "old gods" and present students, be driven to the institution of the college fraternity.

What of the college fraternities? Has the Greek-letter group increased its activities proportionally to the growth of the student bodies in America's colleges and an aversive, or at least a college fraternity died out?

The question arises as to what the future of the institutions, due to the looters of several hundred thousand "old gods" and present students, be driven to the institution of the college fraternity.

Two dangers threaten the fraternity system which once recognized Greek. College fraternities may exclude the fraternities, as Prince- ton, in 1924, Greek alphabet be no longer recognized by its possessor among books, was among college grad- uates an obituary of scholastic achieve- ment by its possessor among books, was the first society to adopt an Hellenic alphabet.

Why the Public Ledger is the Ideal Newspaper for University Men

1. Its news service is remarkable. It not only has the advantages of the Associated Press and kindred services, but maintains its own exclusive news bureaus in all important news centers in Europe and Asia as well as the United States.

2. Its editorials are nationally and internationally famous for their independence, unbiased points of view, and good writing. They are thought stimulators.

3. Its staff of feature writers comprises the most distinguished list of journalists and reporters ever assembled on one newspaper.

4. Its sports pages are the product of the largest—and ablest—staff of regular and special sports writers on any newspaper in Pennsylvania.

5. Its separate Business and Financial Section is invaluable to the students in Wharton School classes.

You didn’t flip a coin to decide which college you would enter. You selected the University of Pennsylvania, because of its high standard and because it is best for your purpose. Why not select your newspaper in the same sensible way? If you do, we feel sure your choice will fall upon the
