New Raising Agreement Proposed at Meeting

Editor-in-Chief Stevens and President Streeter Sponsor Compromise in Future Plans

NO DEFINITE ACTIONS TAKEN

Representatives of virtually all of the fraternity chapters in the agreement in force last year, were present at the first meeting of the Interfraternity Council for the current year, which was held in Houston Hall last evening. The meeting, was called for the purpose of discussing a new agreement which was proposed jointly by George Stevens, Editor in Chief of the Pennsylvanian, and Robert Streeter, President of the Senior Fraternity Council.

The amendment in force last year was automatically abrogated in the fall, when several chapters objected to certain of its provisions, withdrew from the Council, and then attempted to unilaterally amend the same, thus creating what had become a definite conflict. It was suggested by the University Administration that the Council come together at the earliest possible date, and that the Council set a date by which all of the fraternity chapters should be able to meet, and that the Council would convene at that date.

President Frey, at the Interfraternity Council, after the meeting last evening, during which there had been some discussion as to the feasibility of coming to an agreement, seemed to be the one who was the most hopeful that an agreement, satisfactory to all, would be adopted within the next few days.

The agreement proposed by Stevens and Streeter is based upon the following provisions of the one which was abrogated last year.

The most important provision of the agreement is that of "winning out," and the necessity for a team to be declared the winner of the game, was very favorably received, and the general opinion at the meeting was that it would be formally adopted at the next meeting of the Interfraternity Council.

HISTORY REPEATED IN LANSBURGH APPOINTMENT

Governor's Selection For Labor and Industry Post Meets With Universal Approval

EVIDENCES FACULTY STANDARD

Through the University expansion and increased attention and approval were evidenced following the recent announcement of the appointment of Governor- President, of Richard H. Lansburgh, Wharton School, Professor of State Secretary. This appointment again evidences the truly high standard of the University faculty. It is the high standard of the University faculty in the past this has been evidenced by: the election, by a large plurality of M. H. Frishman, a Wharton School professor, to the highest office in the state, that of Governor, the appointment, by Governor Snyder, of Dean Emory R. Johnson to the Public Service Commission. The appointment, by Governor, of Bishop King, of the Wharton School, to the office of Secretary of Commonwealth and Chief Judge Office. The appointment, by Mayor Kapnick, of Henry H. Killen, graduate, and professor of the Engineering School, to the office of Director of Transit of Philadelphia. These are but a few outstanding appointments in recent years and are indicative of the high credit in which the University and its Faculty are held by Federal, state and municipal authorities.

NEW COURSES OPENSED TO ARCHITECTURAL STUDENTS

The War in P. L. Hure, Dean of the Architecture School, announced yesterday that these are three new courses open to Architectural students this year. These courses are Modern Architecture, Landscape Architecture, and a five year course.

For date 334 freshmen have registered in this department, which is a considerable increase over the 295-20 figures on Dean Lurie's opinion this is due to the added advantage and the wider range of work since the position of the new courses.

Although there has been a great increase in the number of architectural students, the number of women students has decreased considerably. Of the 334 students in the school there are but 15 women. This is 15 less than the number taking the course last year.

The Lone Survivor

You have bought several fountain pens—now suppose you buy one that is a proven success.

Buy a Sheaffer Lifetime Pen and put it in your collection. Of all the pens you have ever used, it will be the lone survivor.

There is no upkeep to a Lifetime Pen. The first, last and only cost is when you buy it. Then your fountain pen purchasing is over because the Lifetime pen is unconditionally guaranteed forever.

The 46 Special at $5.00 and the Student's Special at $3.75 are fashioned with the same care and attention to detail that has made the Sheaffer the pen of perfection.

Give your pen a drink of Skrip ink.

Will not clog or gum the point and makes the best pen write better.

Dear Mr. Johnson,

I am writing to request the use of your facilities for a special event. My name is John Smith, and I am the founder of "The Artisan Collective," a community organization dedicated to preserving and promoting local art and culture.

We are planning a unique event to be held on Saturday, November 5th, at the Old Mill Building. The event will feature local artists displaying their work, live music performances, and a featured speaker who will discuss the importance of art in today's society. We estimate that we will have around 300 attendees, and we believe that the Old Mill Building's large space and character will be the perfect venue for our event.

I understand that your building is currently closed for renovations, but I hope that we could begin the process of securing the venue for our event. If you are unable to accommodate our request, we would be happy to consider alternative venues.

If you are interested in learning more about our event or our organization, please don't hesitate to reach out. We would love the opportunity to discuss this further with you.

Thank you for considering our request. We look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

John Smith

How Do You Feel At About Three P.M.

The publication of the rules for the football song competition in yesterday's paper measured on very much. The honor of the prize doesn't care whether its song has even the same form; the chief virtue is to be all its own. The eliminations further warp and tear on our conscience about knowing the second verses of any of the Culvers!!

That the Prince of Wales is quoted in the papers as saying, "I would give a lot to know how to play poker well." We don't know of anyone who wouldn't, it is worth a lot to know how to play poker well.

In an article describing how a woman beat up her husband with a hatchet, the newspaper says, "She drubbed him on the head." We would like to ask the reporter who thought this action was worth commenting on, if he can think of any more appropriate time for her to feel?

The incident reminds us of another one which we should mention because of the possibility of attracting a mental morbid to.

Another reason we mention it is that it will probably come up a lot of times in the Column. The story, as told the other day.

To what something like this, the provincial small town in New York State had acquired too great a love for the cup that cheers and benedicts and it was his habit of a Saturday night to refer to the whisky tax collector, consume all of the profits from his store, leaving nothing for his support of his large wife and family, sometime wife and large family. And along about the middle of the evening who was pretty well "set up" was his regular practice to go to the front parlor and have a large lump of sinews to the ground, and then drawing two large strong-armed from his pockets, dare anyone to pick up any of the bills.

This went on for several years and no one even thought of picking up the roll until one night a chap happened along in the middle of his performance, who had grown tired of it and was the sort of a bad customer who would scrap the store-keeper its treating its family. When the dinner was reported against this chap walked over to where the bills lay and standing over them addressed the man with the pintail (likely) "Sam Wood, I'm going to pick up these bills and take them in your wife and I want to give you a bit of advice before I do it. If you close and hit, alright, but if you close and more, you'd better get out of this country as fast as you can."

The money was picked up and Sam Wood didn't sound nor did he even try his stout again in fact the incident of his comments Mr. Dok has unknowingly delineated the very characteristics which the Wharton School possesses.

successful. One of the three attempts, two were successful and netted a gain of 54 yards. Kansas former President Buehler, also was showing some high class passing and got off a couple of fine ones, but none of them going over fifty yards.

In the second half Fields and Powers got into the backfield and both players made flashy plays. Fields scoring on one of the most brilliant plays of the day. Starting on the seventy yard line, the first back seemed to be stopped with both three tacklers hanging on him, he was turned and was not downed till he crossed the line. Power moved on a long end run, displaying fine broken field running when he went 40 yards for a touchdown.
