The choice of the proper instrument is dependent upon the specific requirements of each individual.

Science explains our great leaders by positing common environmental factors which have affected their lives. In the same way, we can explain the two of our prominent institutions, at least certain periods in their existence, might be accounted for.

Glancing over the long and eventful history of this University, one cannot help but notice that certain periods, because of achievements which occurred during them, stand out in bold relief against the gray anonymity of their neighbors. Although these of us who are not of a reflective turn of mind may not realize it, there are unmistakable signatures which point to the dawn or twilight of these bright eras.

The years during and following the World War were overshadowed by a host of other dramatic events. In its stead, we may well recall the World War, but let's think of it as a brilliant light shining in the darkness, a beacon to guide us back to the path of progress and happiness.

The year 1924 validates a similar view. However, the pull of progress, which was so clearly visible at that time, must be acknowledged. The prospects for further improvements were certainly promising for an indefinite time.

Speaking of our favorite Librarian, so many letters have been written about her that it is almost impossible to determine her identity. That sort of statement should be made. We can't tell who she is for another reason, but let's see if we can get the facts together at least as positively as this. Mark the Colman isn't so public as we imagine it to be, some folks are told that she is a very efficient and pleasant, and at present can speak highly of specific lines of work. You can see that if one of these was mentioned in any way, that would be in our favor. There is also the fact that, and you'll admit, would be terrible.

We can't tell who she is for another reason, too. There will be quite a bit of reference work for us this year in all departments of the library, and unless we remain on good terms with all of the young ladies the probability is that we won't be able to get any books without having a false mustache and darning your nails.

A site plot against the studying habit is suspected in the vindication of the street instruction of Third-street and Webster Streets. Last year, after long practice, most of the books in the hands of the better society of the young ladies was the probability that we won't be able to get any books without having a false mustache and darning your nails.

The poor old trunk seems to be done for. This time, as we have always been rather careful to librarians and at present can speak highly of specific lines of work. You can see that if one of these was mentioned in any way, that would be in our favor. There is also the fact that, and you'll admit, would be terrible.

OLD PENNSYLVANIA

The name and fame of good old Penn:—
You know a university to visit—
Of all the spots it beants,
Its football stands.

The Red and Blue has forged right through,
And led the field for years
Yet not without the men who lead
Their help with song and crows.

Charles Old Pennsylvania, Mr. Pennsylvania, Keep right ahead where you belong.
Don't disappoint your loyal throng.
We are bound ten thousand strong.
Just to break you.
We're right behind you
With one appeal, let them feel your might.

No Pennsylvania.
Let us proclaim you
As the one we'll win this fight.

Providence will greatly yield;
The generosity you have displayed,
And when each year has waned
It still will be renewed.

Just follow up the points that lead
To victory also you can.
And don't suppose you can be
We're with you to the man.

Continuous annual income, which makes the fund available to Lafayette College to use for any major under certain stipulated conditions.

Other business transacted by the board included the advancement of Charles W. Putnam, of Wilkes-Barre, a new member of the board, was appointed to represent the board in arrangements for the competition for the essay prize of $50 offered by the New York Board of Clubs.

BENNETT NEWS POPULARITY CAUSES INCREASE IN SIZE

The Bennett News, official publication of the women students, which made its debut on the campus last fall, will blossom forth as an eighth soon full week. Due to the increased advertising and the large crowd of new material which had to be left out of the first issue as "non-essential," the scarcity has been found necessary.

All the papers offered for sale in the campus Friday were snapped up with simmering anxiety on the part of those familiar with them.

the subscriptions continue to roll in. Consequently, hundreds more will be printed each week in order to satisfy the ever increasing demand.

COLLEGE WEEKLY OPENS
EDITORIAL COMPETITION

Thirty Undergraduates Report To Committee For Position On Board of Lafayette Weekly

COLLEGE PRESS CLUB ENTERTAINS

They now see no need for positions on the editorial staff of the Lafayette Weekly, the official student publication at Lafayette College. More than a dozen men are up for positions in the business staff of the paper.

The paper is published each week of the school year by a student board. Joseph Graeser, of Tyrone, is editor and R. K. LaBarre, of Somerville, N. J., is business manager of the paper. These men head a staff at present numbering thirty men.

Activities of the college Press Club have been started. A meeting will be held October 9 for freshmen who are interested in journalism and who wish to try out for the club. Plans call for efforts of the club to be directed towards supplying newspapers with news of achievements of men from their own localized areas attending Lafayette College.

Ten members have been contracted for places on the staff of The Lyre, the monthly humorous publication of the college, the senior yearbook, of which Ernest T. Nathan, of Waverly, N. Y., is editor.

SERVICE DEPARTMENT MAKES ANNUAL REPORT

Increase in Supply Of Organization Has Been Responsible For Placing Many Men

ALUMNI GIVEN EFFICIENCY TEST

Mr. A. H. Williams, head of the Industrial Service Department of the Wharton School, has just submitted the annual report of that department for the academic year 1920-21 to deans and professors.

Identifying results have been obtained by the Bureau during the past year and a comparison with previous years shows a marked increase in the number of positions obtained for alumni and undergraduates. There has also been an increase in the research work done by the Department which has obtained estimates from the teaching staff concerning the social attitude, mental alertness, industry, ability of expression, reaction towards criticism and cooperation of the Wharton School students. The data coupled with information as to scholastic grades, campus activities and personal history of the man in filed in the office of the Bureau, and comprises information received in since 1920.

Reports show that during the school year just ended the Bureau handled 112 placements over 1920-21, an increase of 23.66 over 1921-22, and 120 or nearly 27 more per cent over 1920-21 at which time the Department was established by Dean Johnson. During the last year 112 employers visited the school for personal conferences with alumni. Every effort is being made to encourage this practice, as a means in valuable publicity. Big business men are looking to the Wharton School for well trained employees and because of this fact, more and better placements are made possible.

The plan whereby the Bureau will have the services of Dr. Vedole of the Personnel and Education Department for two afternoons each week should do much to individualize the industrial service department's work with the students. During the spring, Dr. E. P. Moody, Jr., of the Accounting Department and Dr. Vedole experimented in an investigation of tests that should be of certain value in measuring accounting ability. Approximately two seniors and juniors and a number of alumni were given a series of these tests.
