The freshman football team yesterday went through a light practice prior to their game against Yale tomorrow. The team was split into two parts, and each part practiced under the direction of a different coach. The practice lasted for two hours and covered the entire field. The coaches were careful to protect the young players from any injury that might result from the rough handling of the game. The players seemed to enjoy the practice, and several of them were heard to exclaim, "This is just like being back in high school!"

This afternoon Jack Smith's freshman hopes will be dashed by the results of the 1924 season against Wyoming at Franklin Field. After two years of long, strenuous training in mud, rain, and snow, their untrained youthful energies will be put to the test on the field in competition against a team which has played together for several seasons.

The freshman combination is tall, hearty and capable. Coach Smith has bestowed confidence in their ability and in their spirit of fight, which is a declaration that all his chosen squad are real Varsity material. Nevertheless, they meet the hazards of unfamiliarity with the coaching system, the field, and each other, which must mean the difficulty of team-playing together as a unit.

Their fighting spirit is the line factor which will carry them to success in the opening contest, and fighting spirit will be hard to generate if they are forced to play to empty stands. Every member of the Class of 1928 who aspires to become a loyal Pennsylvanian will be found in the cheering throngs when the pigskin is kicked off at 12:30 today. Then it is the business of those who aspires to be a loyal Pennsylvanian to attend all the games and cheer the boys on to victory.

The Public Ledger’s Daily Page of Politics

The PUBLIC LEDGER POLITICAL PAGE will be a daily feature right up to November 2. On that day the editors of the country will choose a President, Vice President, 33 Senators, 135 Representatives, 36 Governors and several thousand other State and local officials.

The PUBLIC LEDGER POLITICAL PAGE will give its readers a comprehensive and accurate picture of the manner in which the Republicans, Democrats, and other interested parties are conducted, and will describe the influence of each on the thinking mind. The information will be assembled by a trained and painstaking staff of political correspondents. Their reports will be in the form of short, direct, intelligent, and impartial narratives of the developing conditions as they affect the chances of the presidential and other important candidates.

Into the insurgent belt of the Northwest where Mr. La Follette is unable to conduct his most penetrating bid for popular support, the Public Ledger sent Col. George Ne1l McLean, a political observer of long experience and sound judgment. Col. McLean will follow the progress of the battle in Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana.

From Chicago, where the main he-points of the three parties are located, Mr. Clinton W. Gilbert, author of the Daily Mirror of Washington, and a keen dissector of Indian affairs, will telegraph each day his impressions and colorful description of the trend of the conflict as seen by the rival leaders.

Into the border States and those between the Mississippi River and the Rocky Mountains, the Public Ledger has sent Mr. Robert Berry, chief of the Washington Bureau and a reporter of admitted excellence. Mr. Berry will "cover" Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, and Colorado.

The situation in New England, the Eastern and the more populous of the Western States, will be analyzed by Mr. Louis Schindel, a political reporter and analyst of long experience. Mr. Schindel will write of conditions in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan.

The reports of these writers will be supplemented by those of the staff of the Public Ledger Bureau in Washington and a survey of the contest in Pennsylvania. The result will be that the readers of the Public Ledger will daily have before them a complete record of political events from now until the day of election.
