If comparative scores mean anything, it is apparent that the Thanksgiving football game was an exciting contest. Many Experiences Drawn From Haverford Bach Urge College Students to Join Association. In "The Silver Chalice" Marcus Millard Masson's Initial appears. Temporary President Leonard Gil Nares, Chairman of the Freshman Committee, stated that the team was not very good and was not very exciting. In the opinion of many of the junior members, the Silver Chalicer was slightly more exciting. The team was able to beat out the competition for about six of the ten minutes. It is expected that he will be fully re-inforced to face the University of Pennsylvania in the ensuing ten days' time.

Several cycles of pictures and a few sketches by J. C. Cullen will feature in the coming week. On Tuesday evening, November 15, in the Haverford High auditorium, according to the announcement of Leonard C. Bell, Jr., President of the class. The committee, composed of James L. Frick, Chairman, Howard D. Susman, Artie W. Nix, and Charles B. Thomas, had been working hard to make the affair a success. The committee members believe that this will be a very exciting contest. It is expected that the people of the town will come forward to the football game in large numbers to support the home team.

A leader of business men on fronting the yearlings, the gathering was to be held in the auditorium. The sale of tickets is being held at 9 P.M. tonight in the Auditorium.

Suppose Nobody Cared?

Welfare Federation
November 6-21, 1924
There has been talk around the campus for some time about some sort of a monument to honor the Dead. One of the students who attended last Saturday's game was heard to suggest that this monument take the form of a fountain with a figure of a student on a pedestal with a sprouting water coming from the mouth of his horn.

The suggestion is a good one, but where, we ask, is the "sparkling water fountain" to be located?

Another rumor has been issued to the effect that the Cornell cheer leaders are asked to order their new signs for the opening of the season, so that they may be delivered in time to start the competition for the New Year's Day games.

The latest type of campus questionnaires are popular with the University authorities. A Freshman friend was unable to get to his book, however, as none can be purchased at the present time for the Freshman class of 1928.

The crowd do not seem to take the matter seriously, perhaps because the questionnaires are not the type which will make one rich, but they are a novelty for the Freshmen.

In order to correct any false impressions that might have been given by people not connected with the University, we wish to have here to explain that the group of students with the questionnaires in the rear were those of the Alumni every day are not doing field work in a burglary course, but are merely trying to beat the instructor to the bank.

The new library slits in the Wharton Reading Room are the most interesting feature in the Wharton Reading Room.

There have been reports that he arrived in the library one night at 10 o'clock, and after a hard struggle succeeded in filling out every one of them. He was unable to pick his book, however, as none can be purchased at the present time for the Freshman class of 1928.

The necessity for having on a stock of newspapers is explained by the fact that the majority of the members of the upperclassmen group are not in position to receive a chance to get at a newspaper for some time after the first week of classes, but it is said that the board would be willing to purchase them for the price of a newspaper.

The Princeton press is putting in its application for the position of Arthur M. Black, of Philadelphia, to the editorial board.

The Pennsylvanian is now in a position to announce the election of Arthur M. Black, of Philadelphia, to the editorial board.
