CALIFORNIA BRUINS HAVE UN-MARRED RECORD
Andy Smith's Rejuvenated Trojans To Be In Prime Condition for Westerners' Record Impressive

WESTERNERS' RECORD IMPRESSIVE

With the Pennsylvania football team touring up to Berkeley, California, for its meeting with the Pacific Coasts it is safe to say that one of the strongest teams in the country to-day is the California team, composed of the cleverest of the clever. Up to the present time, the Golden Bears have been more than a match for the teams they have faced and it is safe to say that the famous Bruins will be more than a match for the teams they will face.

Early in September, Coach Andy Smith joined the fateful battle and the university discovered that the team was composed of the cleverest of the clever. Up to the present time, the Golden Bears have been more than a match for the teams they have faced and it is safe to say that the famous Bruins will be more than a match for the teams they will face.

The Trojans are expected to be in prime condition for their meeting with the Pennsylvania football team. The schedule of the team has been a formidable one and the successful outcome of the games indicates that the team is in good form. The team is composed of the cleverest of the clever and it is safe to say that the team is in prime condition for their meeting with the Pennsylvania football team.

Red and Blue Warriors in Perfect Trim for Game

Field today a squad of men at the end of their ropes, ready to turn their backs on the game.

Although beaten on three successive occasions by the Michigan team, the Pennsylvanians are by no means discouraged and are no less inclined to try for their share of the spoils. The team has a formidable record and it is expected that they will be able to compete with the best of their opponents. In the face of such opposition, the Pennsylvanians are determined to give their best and to try for the best possible result.

We find that since our opening our Lady patrons are increasing in numbers; and we wish to thank those for the honor they show us, as we firmly believe they know good food and appreciate its being prepared in a sanitary way.
The Pennsylvania schedule for the 1926 season includes several newcomers from the Midwest, while the Varsity will journey to the Pacific Coast to engage the University of California on New Year's Day. With these momentous events looming ahead, former coaches and fans to the north of the Appalachian Mountains are taking this opportunity to see "No. 1" in the formative machine in action against Cornell.

Almost, some of them former players, who have not seen the famed Ironclad since the football season, are in awe of the camel that Cornell is being played today. Even so, it is not that the Cornell requests for betting odds are any indication of the lily of the Varsity's rose. Cornell has not fared too well against the Ironclad the last three years, administered defeats to the Nittany Lions. Today you may read stories on our own team and the finest players of the Big Red opponents. Statements made by the coaches are offered for your personal use. California is considered from every angle...Scott Powell Dairies, Inc.

It was a bit sarcastic for the two seniors to go to sleep during last Saturday's game. We hope that a couple of careful alumni efforts with adding machines will be on hand for today's game.

One feature of the last game pleased us greatly. We have often been called attention to the greater lack of class on the frank to shrewish Ironclad and we are glad to see that the authorities are taking some means to supply this defect. The song pumped out from the Press box in the right direction. Let us hope that the good work continues.

The headline appearing the other day to the effect that a kid had carved a young man's head has caused great consternation among university houses. This presents a serious problem with the Press coming.

A trickle car was detailed on Woodlawn Avenue yesterday. The report is that a junior was walking on the track, so, of course, the car had to get out of the way.

Through the annual clash between Pennsylvania and Cornell in the cynosure of the gridiron states, nevertheless there are several games in other regions which are sure to attract capacity crowds, Foremost among games occurring this Saturday will be the clash between the Columbia team and the Pennsylvian, which will get under way at the Polo Grounds, in New York. The Pennsylvians will be in the battle to assure fans that is sure to attract many thousand interested followers. However, when the West Vir- ginia eleven faces the Washington and Jefferson College team in another battle that always produces high-class football, this Saturday, many students and spectators expect to get a scare too when Brown faces the strong Colgate eleven at Philad- elphia. There are numerous other clashes that assume importance in the districts surrounding the area in which they will be played. Bucknell meets Dickinson in another one of those Thanksgiving Day clashes, while the University of Vermont plays Montclair, while Virginia faces Centre College at Lexington, Ky. Tech meets Auburn.

While only 5600 people will actually see the Pennsylvania-Cornell game today, many thousands will follow the game play over the radio. The annual football classic, which will get under way at the Polo Grounds Saturday afternoon, will be the widest and biggest broadcast game in the history of radio. Four of the country's leading radio transmitting stations will run the results of the game over the entire part of the country. The four stations carrying the broadcast are WRC (Washington), WNYC (New York), WJZ (Philadelphia), and WGY (Syracuse). The broadcast will be carried by Elwood, Grant, and one of our DODGE Junior Week is here. It costs money
