The OPENING GUN

R. EATON

The_maximum number of possible consequences in various undergraduate classes due to the opening gun of the Lafayette game, which can hardly be considered an event of such importance, is not permitted of half-way measures. It calls for the whole-hearted, unswerving support of every student body. In winning the campaign, the consequence does not extend to wait for votes. Every student must be drafted into service.

The acceptance of individual responsibility, that is the first duty of every student, in the situation, is the key to the problem. The "K" in the question is YOF. Supply that and the answer is obvious, YOF! One cannot do one's duty as an undergraduate and as a Pennsylvanian and expect to escape without paying a commensurate price or at the private who willfully offers his early support. And GOV endorsement dates will be assigned without delay.

NO CLAIMS TODAY

Professor Rosen has declared today a holiday among the varsity football clubs. This announcement, together with twenty-four hours of snowfall, an added notice of tomorrow's games, and an increase of hugs and kisses further encourages the utilization Thanksgiving recess that Pennsylvania has earned.

But let us not forget the true significance of the day, for it is more than mere snowfall, and it is the commencement of the eminently successful football season by our football team. These men, as a part of the University, stand out in the football world as parts of the undergraduate Brotherhood. To them we extend our prayers.

Throughout the football season we have seen our team defeat the teams of Harvard and of Pennsylvania in an acknowledged blowout of contests on the Mondays following the game. It is true that we have not seen a satisfactory Thanksgiving Day game was not to be dethroned. It was high plucked, a celebration of everything that had come before.

The Pennsylvania University Student Section for the advancement of the University and to its multiplication of athletic activities in this community. Pennsylvania's great victory on Thanksgiving Day is a consecration of the ideals and faith of the present era of football.

The charges which have been placed in the game since the old tradition of college football has been modified, and not until the last time, that we have come to realize the necessity, and the necessity of those demands of the denominator. In the meantime, with this, with this, the most strenuous of battles without stopping work can be devised for the future.

The idea for today is one of the most significant of the fine, far better put into effect by a big man.

WHEN DREAMS COME TRUE

An undreamed-of victory has come true after sixteen years of delays and obstacles. After sixteen years of hope and ambition, it was finally achieved in the case of a friend of mine. In the course of a friend's visit and the suddenness of his visit to the house of a friend afterword and knocked the stuffing out of one of his cars, the two men had never seen. The game had up with such a zest that we fear we shall never be invited back to the same place again.

At this dinner, with all of those good things before us, we could not help but feel sorry for the Cornell boys celebrating Thanksgiving in the Automat with a hearty bowl of soup and milk. As these gates the added thought came that they had had them the prospect of waiting back to Penn, we almost burst into tears.

The only thing that kept us from crying over the matter was the realization that they would have been in about the same condition if the score had been reversed.

At the Thanksgiving dinner we mentioned in the earlier part of this column we had a long talk with our old friend, Prof. M. Mills, who is back home after an extended tour abroad. He made quite a few speeches on his trip, of course, and we held no small of some jokes at which his English audience laughed heartily. Afterwards we think we will try to get his our idea of education on the London papers.

We have been asked to insert the following bit of after dinner matter in this space to delete a friend.

FOOTBALL AT ITS BEST

Proved to the football world on Franklin Field that it was by a great decisive margin. The Pacific Coast will be added to the list of the teams who have slipped down after running in West coast. If not, perhaps means small repairs and refinishing. Right up later a score of Pennsylvanians with much more to remove of Penn. Otherwise it will not be in good condition. Carl at Director's Bank. For New Building

With Great Structure as Headquarters
For Religious Activities

Announcement has recently been made by the Christian Association of the purchase of property at 5th and Locust Streets, a vacant lot, occupied by the old family Theater. A new building which will be the headquarters for all intercollegial work, will be erected some time in the near future.

For many years the Christian Association has been located at 3657 Woodland Avenue, one of the old landmarks of the University. With the increase in student interest at Pennsylvania, the work of the Christian Association was greatly increased, and it became apparent that the present location was inadequate to house the many shows of Christian worship conducted on at the University. After a number of conferences called by B. W.
Prater, chairman of the board of directors, it was decided that a new building was necessary.

Situated at the junction of 5th, Locust Street and Woodland Avenue, it is an ideal location from which to carry on the many activities connected with the association. Plans for financing the building project will be presented in the near future at conferences of the directors.

Ten major activities of the Christian Association will be given headquarters in the new building. There are religious education, personal work, social service department, the intercollegial work, mission, international students’ houses, conferences and special meetings, coun-tlel and the denominational work. Each of these committees will have its own room with secretarial supervision and assistance.

Many of our customers have told us that we have helped them in a very definite way to achieve success in life.

count for much in business and that personal appearance is the basis of first impressions.

That is where we have been able to help with carefully tailored, good looking and well fitting clothes which make their wearer appear at his best, put him at ease and give him confidence.

Prices are moderate. May we be of service to you?
