Junior Snow Sight Review of Spirits and Noise Out Sophomores for Third Place

Dispiriting results in the Sigma Chi campaign were reported yesterday at the headquarters of the committee. Although the Sigma Chi's had been successful in their efforts to reach their daily quota, statistics showed that the Freshmen and sophomore classes are tied in the amount of snow collected. The Class of 1925 has, however, a fair percentage greater than the others. The Junior class, which has been in last position for nearly a week, has finally been able to top the Sophomores, who have been forced to the rear by the efforts of the Freshmen and the Junior classes are far beyond the expectations of the committee in the number of snowflakes which have been collected. It is hoped that this ambition on the part of the third and fourth years will not wane and that the last week of the drive, the classes will work to the fullest of their abilities.

The Last Soccer Game

Pennsylvania's intercollegiate championship soccer team will play the Navy team on Franklin Field this fall. The game will be played in a new and ideal stadium.

This season's soccer team is placed among the strongest in the country. In its games this season the team has demonstrated its strong points and has shown that it is ready for the big game in a new and ideal stadium.

The Philadelphia Stadium

Much has been said of late in the newspapers about the new stadium. The city council has been active in the construction of the stadium. of Pennsylvania was not limited to any special group of persons. It is not anessarily a University organization, but sponsored by a professor, has been sponsored by the Rotarian Society and a few local businessmen. The talks at the semi-monthly meetings are informal in nature, and all people interested in the subject are welcomed at the lectures.

Another active group in the Graduate Botanical Club, composed of graduates of Pennsylvania, and senior members of the local faculty. Monthly dinner-meetings are held and prominent speakers are invited for the occasion. As the members are exclusively students of the subject, matters of a highly technical nature are discussed and researches are carried on. Meetings are held on the third Saturday of each month in Macfarlane Hall.

The club now has about fifty members.

The third and probably most active botanical organization in the Pennsylvania Field Club. It is composed of undergraduate students studying botany and zoology, and its field of activity is broader than that of the others. The meetings, held semi-monthly, are held alternately in Macfarlane Hall and the Zoology Building. The procedure is informal and lively discussion freely ensues. In addition to the regular meetings, long tours are taken to the north-west twice a year, leaving from two to four students. The last tour was taken over the Thanksgiving holidays, when a number of members walked the banks of the Susquehanna River, studying the flora, bird life and geology of the region. At present the membership numbers approximately fifty, with a remarkable good attendance at meetings. Ten graduation members are required to become members, and this tends to increase the activity of the organization.

This year's team is composed of members of the Pennsylvania Navy, to which the University is not a member. Baltimore Polytechnic Institute, Dartmouth, the British Embassies and Simmons are the accepted opponents, to which the Navy has added Connecticut.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon the Red and Blue Junior Varsity will meet the University in a Philadelphia Cricket Club League match. The Jays have developed a strong defense to cope with the attack of the offense, which is in full swing and will, in the opinion of many, stand the test which the rivals have expected. Navy 1, University 0.
