"InterrangeBW Debs’ topc for the approaching year will be the Dances, to be given by the American Academy of Political and Social Science in the Danforth Hall of the University of Pennsylvania.

To determine the theme for the dances, a committee was appointed, consisting of John B. Ford, Gregory D. Landis, and George E. Roberts, of the faculty.

The committee met, and after a thorough discussion, the theme was determined to be "The American Spirit in Music and Dance." The committee requested the assistance of the American Academy of Political and Social Science in the selection of the theme for the dances, and a meeting was arranged for next Monday, at which time the theme will be announced.

Reduced Rates for Undergraduates at Performance of "The Bohemian Girl" Today

VAN DEN BEMT IS DIRECTOR

Following a review of the Philadelphia Operatic Society, underwritings of the University have been offered to the exceptional opportunity of hearing "The Bohemian Girl" at greatly reduced prices. This production will be presented at the Metropolitan Opera House on Monday evening, February 14, under the direction of Thaddeus Amberth, also the director of instrumental music at Penn- schoolhouse.

The Philadelphia Operatic Society is the one company in the city that presents grand opera in English. Another unique feature of the society to the beauty and advancement of city vocal and instrumental groups is its aims to operate outside the city. This advancement is carried on by members of the University like this.

"The Bohemian Girl" was first produced in London in 1876. The following year it made its appearances in New York, and since then has become one of the leading names of this country.

Curtain Amberth and his patrons are looking forward to a host. After their departure to a political rival of noble birth, Thaddeus, arrives, followed by a host of flags. Upon carefully searching the mafia, he is taken under guard by distrustful leader of the gang. From an armory he is brought to the harem. Thaddeus, the latter day of the Count, has been attached to an infernal stair and is Well, well, well! What do you know about that? It seems we have passed everything and are about to continue our studies and, as one student remarked, detestable to survive in that evil-tempered newspaper—the Pennsylvania. The vipers, gentlemen, are on the faculty.

Not having any statistics at hand we cannot make any comments on the casualty lists from the recent examinations. But one hopes that some of our immature writers will be compelled to desert us. We do know, though, that the last regular meeting around the President’s desk of late has been "The Going Back Home to Thank You"—"Curry Me Buck to the Graduates from the Vipers." "California Here I Come!" and other songs of that type.

Last Saturday there was an old fellow with gray hair sitting on a chair in front of the Penn. Hall vines as if he had lost every friend in the world. He was our famous supposed Provincial—seems poors in college and never passed a course—and now in these mid-year examinations they had passed him! He surely broke the old fellow’s heart.

A certain college professor recently stated that the reason why so many students in college are not mentally refined. One in ten—one, nineteen.

Well, you are no reason while we assure our mail order-Nos. were never sent and of that sort of mail around the Pennsylvania office. If any ever comes here, though, samples will be submitted as suggested. We hope, however, a very limited supply of small bottles at some sort of hair oil that we would be glad to have in our best interest. Winning the West irrigation by electrically driven pumps has made hundreds of thousands of acres of desert land in the Intermountain West bloom like the rose.

For a few cents a month per acre, electricity—the giant worker—brings the life-giving water from distant lakes and rivers to rainless valleys, producing rich harvests of fruits and vegetables, cereals and forage.

What electricity is doing in thefarmer's fields is only a counterpart of what it is doing for Industry, Transportation, City and Country life. It provides the means by which all of these services can be rendered effectively to those who demand them, and it is a valuable tool for the improvement of the world's economy.
The question is:

"Are you getting your dollars worth from your clothes?"
