CASH VALUE OF COLLEGE

EDUCATION IS $72,000

Dean Lord of Boston University, Makes a

Thorough Study of the Earning

Power of Graduates

HIGH SCHOOL VALUED AT $31,000

College graduates are richer by $72,000 if they can sell their college

education for cash, according to a report made public by Dean Everett W. Lord of the Boston University College of Business Administration. Dean Lord has made an extensive study of the earning power of college graduates, as well as of high school graduates. He places the cash value of a high school education at $31,000.

The average maximum income of the untrained man is $2,300 a year. The income of a high school graduate averages

$8,294 and of a college graduate, $19,619.

The sum of the earnings of each class worker added up to the age of 60, is placed at $18,680, $17,000 and $15,000, respectively.

Dean Lord estimates that the untrained man begins to drop to dependence at the age of 50, while the college man does not reach his maximum of working power until ten years later.

The untrained worker whose home

was derived from parental labor becomes of 50, or even serves to himself, says Dean Lord. The report shows that sixty out of every hundred untrained workers are dependent upon their own at the age of 60. The high school graduate passes the maximum of the untrained worker within seven years

after he begins work, reaches his own level of $2,200 at the age of 40, and continues at that income for the remainder of his life.

Considering the college graduate, Dean

Lord says: "It is found that his permanent earning begins when he is 32 years old,

although he may have earned a considerable sum during his college career.

By the time he is 26 his income is equal to that of the high school graduate of 40, and it continues to rise without a break. His income depends upon mental ability and training, so that it increases with the years. The college graduate often surpasses his average income of $4,648 at 46 years of age.

THE PENNSYLVANIAN

Published in the interest of the University of Pennsylvania, for the University year.

The year of 1924-25 will be among the banner years for Pennsylvania. Many departments of University activity have scored new successes and have reached long anticipated goals. Without thinking we can enumerate our successes in football and soccer, the California trip made by the football team and the University band, and the championship in baseball and basketball to be added by Western cities that will be made by the Mask and Wig show.

Now another Pennsylvania and comes to the fore with still another victory. By special arrangement the University Club will give on February 18 at the Academy of Music with the New York Symphony orchestra under the direction of Walter Damrosch.

This engagement is more than significant. It marks an innovation in the field. There has been an attempted, this will be a step in the right direction for it is a step in the right direction.

For several years the University Club has been the leader in the field of this kind of activity. It has been the leader in the field of this kind of activity. It has been the leader in the field of this kind of activity. It has been the leader in the field of this kind of activity. It has been the leader in the field of this kind of activity.

THE DESIRE FOR SECURITY

Back of the whole Socialist and Communitarian movements is the desire for security. Lack of security is the despairing fear of the human heart.

They are afraid to keep moving to plan new projects and to undertake new fields for fear that they will encounter future dangers that will expose them in wrong places in strange places.

Faculty Hosts At Archeo. Gathering

Annual Meeting of Local Anthropologists Takes Place on February 16

Philadelphia facultymen will be hosts to the Philadelphia Society of the Archaeological Institute of America at its annual meeting which will be held in the Fine Arts Building on February 16 at 12:30 p.m. For several years the society has been sponsoring the annual meeting of Philadelphia archaeologists and archeologists in the area to be held in the city.

Following the lectures, which will be given in the history of the Fine Arts Building, a large crowd of people will gather for lunch in the auditorium. The program will be followed by a special exhibit of anthropological material, including relics of the archaeological period, as well as exhibits of some of the rarest and valuable items, as well as a large number of rare and interesting artifacts. The array of objects will be on display in the auditorium from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Cuming St. Arts Institute of Delaware, New York, will have a tent on the campus where it will be held and will provide all the most interesting objects available. Students in the Fine Arts Building will be there to show the city's cultural effects and it is the hope of many people that this Pennsylvanian conference will carry on some of the picturesque objects which may be seen on the occasion. The objects will be on display all over the United States.

Happily, the 17th annual meeting will take place on the campus of the University of Delaware. Many students have asked to see the exhibition of objects and students will be given the opportunity of seeing the collection, which will be presented to the University of Delaware by the University of Pennsylvania.

GRACE
the Athletic Girl

Grace Leffingwell lived next door to him. But how was I to know that she would grow up to be a star performer on the All-American girl's football team? I proposed during a scrimmage and was penalized five yards for holding. She broke my heart and a rib by her rough work, which you might have called the coup de Grace.

She came to see me during my convalescence and saw, for the first time, a copy of Vanity Fair. It was a case of love at first sight. Grace, exponent of muscular Christianity, suddenly became an addict of literature and the lively arts. The dear girl attacked them with typical glee—art exhibitions, first nights, concerts, dinner parties, everything. Companied to her former reckless ways, she is now quite house-bound. She can even wear an evening gown without showing cleavage marks where the opposing team triumphed on her neck. On the whole, life is safer for her friends.

Stadium Built As World War Memorial

A memorial to alumni was built in the city of New York. The Memorial Stadium is the doing of some 4,000 alumni of the class of 1912 for the city and for the state. The men who have been the sponsors of the project have been the students of the Class of 1912, and they have erected a monument honoring them and now have erected a memorial honoring them all.

The stadium is to be the meeting place of the world. It will have a seating capacity of 10,150 persons. It will also have a football field, a tennis court, and a track. It will also have a library, a gymnasium, a swimming pool, and a dining hall. The stadium is to be built on a site that has been donated by the city. The cost of the stadium is estimated to be $150,000.

The stadium will be the home of the university's football team. It will also be the home of the university's track team. The stadium will be the site of the university's annual festival. It will also be the site of the university's annual commencement.

The stadium is to be completed by the end of the year. The university will use the stadium for its annual festival and for its commencement. The university will also use the stadium for its football games. The university will also use the stadium for its track meets. The university will also use the stadium for its annual commencement.

Despite the efforts of the alumni, the stadium has not been completed. The alumni have been unable to raise enough money to complete the stadium. The alumni have been unable to find a site for the stadium. The alumni have been unable to find a builder for the stadium. The alumni have been unable to find a designer for the stadium. The alumni have been unable to find a contractor for the stadium.
