Annual Show of the Hasty Pudding Club Scheduled for Philadelphia
April 20

SMITH STUDENTS TO SEE SHOW

For the first time in the seventy-nine years of its history, the Hasty Pudding Club of Smith College will endeavor to give performances of its annual spring production before the students of Macalester College at St. Paul. According to an announcement made by George R. Seiling, manager of this year's show, the scientists are the targets of "Laugh it Off," a performance for the benefit of Macalester. A signal for the production at St. Paul College, May 3rd, will be the starting point of "Laugh it Off," in St. Paul's Strahan Hall, on April 20.

The cast of this year's show in the Smith College productions is the strongest and the talent is more varied than in any previous performance of its annual comedy, "The Rivals of Bellevue," before an audience at Wilcox College, later Boston. It is played in the play, along other similar efforts, was a travesty of the famous Bellevue show, and the results were an entire success. A STUDY IN CONTRASTS

In spite of the fellow who constantly burks back to the "road old days" days, there is no reason to assume that University of today in drawing further and further away from a perfection with which it was once endowed. A certain ironical humor is attached to this idea of a survival to denote that the upreynances then forced many conditions "in which we are marked by vast improvements.

In particular, we refer the reader to the following editorial which appeared in the issue of February 26, 1914:

"There to whom the management of Houston Hall is extended have apparently, in their efforts to curtail running expenses, lost sight of the fact that this instruction was founded with the idea of furnishing wholesome food, poor lighting and general state of

This quotation is sufficient to reveal what the undergraduate of nine years ago thought of the Houston Club. The new managers have quite a compliance in the ground managers of the Club, also in little over a year have assured an extensive transformation.

The Houston Club which was once a daily is a clean, sanitary, well-grounded place, with every convenience for the student which its limited space will allow.

Now that Houston Hall is assuming its rightful status as the center of social life, it is well to look forward to the time when the present structure will be replaced by a larger building whose space and facilities are more common sense with the needs of the greater University. Reducing the fact that the Houston Club built almost thirty years ago, is the pionner among college unions, it is only right that it should remain fairly in respect to modern accommodations as well as in point of time.

ANOTHER LEAGUE FORNED

Reports that the University it to be represented in the new baseball Collegiate Baseball League will no more than likely be received with joy by those interested in the welfare of college baseball.

While composed of only three members at the present time, indications point to an increase before the opening of the new season. The new league will be producing teams which may claim the undisputed championship of the East, but it will add that certain touch which collegiate baseball lacks and that time competitive with an end in view.

When the results of the games influence the standing of the team in a league, then there is a great deal more interest aroused among both players and spectators. As an example of the interest shown by the Eastern Intercollegiate Interim Baseball League.

When a league game is being played there is a much larger crowd in Woodward Hall than when a non-league contest is the attraction.

Soror has enjoyed a much greater prosperity among Eastern colleges and universities in the following years the

Pennsylvania Favors New Baseball League

Dartmouth and Cornell Willing to Join Association—Columbia Not Yet For

HOPE TO HAVE EIGHT MEMBERS
Representatives of Dartmouth, Cornell, Pennsylvania and Columbia met at the Columbia Club in New York on Saturday for a formal discussion of the formation of an Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League. The league is practically assured, for three of the colleges went on record as being in favor of it. Columbia was the only holdout, but its accord is expected within the next few days. Columbia's athletic manager, Bernard Rosen, is the leader of the organization, but withheld action until he obtains the approval of the Columbia University Committee on Athletics.

According to the present plan, the league will be inaugurated during the coming season. An effort will be made to increase the membership from four to six teams, and possibly eight. It is understood that Yale is enthusiastic about it and is ready to join the ranks as soon as its gets under way. Pittsburgh, too, has already voiced its approval.

The champion of the league will receive a trophy to be known as the Quadrangle Cup. It will be contested for each year and permanent possession will be gained by winning it three years. The title is necessary for the cup not to be the donation of any individual, but will be awarded by the members of the league.

It is expected that the introduction of the Quadrangle Cup will lead to the formation of a league in the East, and that eventually an elimination series can be held to determine the Eastern champion. The league is expected to operate this season if five general members of the conference will play the winner of the Harvard-Pennsylvania game.

TALK ABOUT SPORTS

At Sea, R. M. S. "CANTATA"

MARCH 5, 1925

Today I had three sets of ski boots on my person, the pretty red from Colgate College. Then afterwards I donned the blue and white skis with their black straps. It is a big sport in the Alps and possibly a hundred men in a bathing suit. I have a little time to try the Colgate skis, but I expect to try the Navy skis by the Third Cold Steward to change for her to take in. And say, tell all who are interested in the subject.
