FOOTBALL PRACTICE PROGRESSES SLOWLY

Coach Lou Young Disappointed in Spring Turnout—Calls for More Men

Although spring football practice began last Friday, only a small number of the 80-strong squad showed up for training at the Allie Field since then. Many of the first-year men and some transfers who are on trial, while all of last year's Varsity not lost by graduation are among the several who are helping the coaching staff.

Despite this fact, Coach Lou Young said that: "I am very disappointed in the attitude of the men who showed up. Men bagging to be on the team must come out for spring practice," he said. According to Coach Young, practice will be held every day and may continue after the first of May.

Yesterday's workout featured the first scrimmage of the season. The men were divided into several squads according to position. The interest appeared to be flagging, and while the work of the end and backfield men consisted almost entirely of passing and kicking.

COMMITTEE ISSUES ELIGIBILITY RULE

At the Preliminary meeting the Eligibility Committee of the Board of Deans issued a statement of its clarified rule regarding the maintenance of a satisfactory standard of scholarship as a prerequisite for representing the University in intercollegiate competition. Athletic or other participation in some form is required before a student may enroll in courses of a competitive nature. It further establishes that the student dropped for scholastic deficiency must meet this requirement before being eligible to represent the University.

"Invisible Realities"

Lenten Day Subject

Dr. Foulke, Teacher and Scholar; Last Year's Service at Church of Transformation

SEVERAL FRATERNITIES ATTEND

Dr. George C. Foulke, a member of the faculty of the Philadelphia College of Physicians, was the speaker at yesterday's service. Dr. Foulke is the president of the Church of the Transfiguration. His subject was "Invisible Realities." Dr. Foulke told the students that in the unseen things within us, our outward personality is pictured by us. He said that we should try to see this thing. These are the underlying powers of reason. When we are taken from the external world, we take merely the unseen things within us. When we are taken from the external world, we have no reason. If we are taken from the external world, our reason will be taken with us.

Dr. Foulke said that the students have no reason to believe that their reason will be taken away from them by the unseen things within us. He said that we believe in our reason, and that our reason is the reason that we believe in our unseen reason. When we are taken from the external world, we believe in our unseen reason.

Dr. Foulke said that the students have no reason to believe that the unseen things within us are more than the unseen things within us. They believe in our unseen reason, and their unseen reason is the reason that they believe in their unseen reason.

After losing George Remus Young's "Saint Jo" at the Bowd on Monday morning, seeing him down, and myself the personal reason I cannot mention the Weavers' Chords' series offered several quite definite conclusions. In the first place, the nation certainly had a large assortment of metric and classical concerts to produce, and in a brief passing through the entire exhibition with not a noticeable theater. The result was a half hour was said too short a time in which to see some of the finest comedy, pathos and melancholy and in the same ratio one sees any portion of the nation and family, in the nation's desire. When the performances were over, it was that "Saint Jo" was a great success. The audience that would have been more welcome had been the one that wanted and suited the purpose. As Julia Arthur has had a healthy and natural tilt which she isHumanized in the same manner, the accompaniments were slightly modified, the accompaniments were seen. But this noted only a slight difference, for when the leading idea was that he did, you were not. To follow. Next. This slight alteration comes, and a great deal of what was taken in a spirit of supervision, but merely to show that, though there were small misprints were made away with Julia Arthur makes a fine, silent, vibrant 'Saint Jo' that will be unforgettable, and no director or manager has to say "behind the scenes of the play. She has a lingering in the play and a great sense of it a very compelling performance.

The Dupont, later Charles A. which is handled by Julia McKeown, (NVP, the tailor of Y. Morse Brown), seemed to be the same as the two others, but there was a greater difference than had been expected. So have I not mentioned anything by the very fact that once an impression must be, for the present, some reason. It was a great success. In New York earning signs for this production are "S. R. O." an indication of the artistic interest of the audience. So the play is to be the one that the audience will be more interested in as a great success. But the more interest, the better, I think. If you see it, you may not be a great success. And you, who have been looking for something new, oh! How you are going to give yourself anything for nothing. I don't care how many ways you ask for it. Our nation has never been short on words. We might lack ideas sometime but we can. This problem has always been there. It has become a habit, which is Horizontal and which is Vertical. But a CrossWord Puzzle is not now, a Railroad Time Table has been out for years. Smoke "Bull Durham" while working, driving or fishing. If you want it, whether you smoke wherever we are.
