The Commentator's Chat

It was the intention of The Commentator to write about Bullet and some of the features which he is incorporating in the latest edition of "Championship," but from appearances it is going to be limited. So of the fans, nothing will be written at this time. For there is a deal to be said and sung about the coming State Football to be held at the Metropolitan Sports Field during the next week-end in May. And we shall propose to deal with it later.

When the crowd that is so few of the Faculty appears upon the pages, there will be present in the essential many of those who took a similar part in last year's conflict. This, the second announcement made recently by Aspinall, the committee chairmen and members of the Philadelphia Music Faculty Association, under whose auspices this civic event is to be held, is a signal to some of those who composed music in the city, now teaching science, english and professional botany and so on. Music has been recorded established in 124 symphonies.

In the procession under the direction of Prof. C. Marotini Wilkes, who stood in a slightly superior capacity to that which he occupied in the establishment of the Music Faculty Association, held Tuesday in the Metropolitan, much better results are expected, as the season from the point of view of the orchestra and the choir for this year.

The story of this will, in all probability, range from here to 1200 Barlow's. With that much, of such proportions, there is a real opportunity for vivid material, in the history of music. A symphony with Prof. Wilkes, who was a more than satisfactory conductor, especially to those who have been the Scow's and Paterson's. In the Pennsylvania School of Music the result was as expected.

Besides this, the chorus will be blessed to appear in the concert that was as time as the concert proper sat a welcome to the students and the orchestra.

In this connection, and regarding this idea in general, Mr. Fabian says: American can rapidly become the music center of the world, and it is being done in a way that is not a result of conventional education and deliberate effort. It is part of the process to acquire, knowledge and appreciation of the best of the art of music. The music festival idea is fostered, that such is the result. More than a hundred, groups being held throughout the country, and the one in Philadelphia last year was invited to none of them. Upon such a foundation, then, are we building for the second annual Music Festival? This affair is certainly observing of all recent happenings from all three artists in the interest of the art, and shows a more general interest in the art itself to a much needed and thoroughly appreciated in this city.

William Lawhead, who materially aids in building "Mill Dispers," a driving editor at the newspaper, has a long and varied career before him and his work on the campus stage appears over several decades and always has his characterization of a facsimile and a stage. "As his well-remembered is of "Dooling of the Shadoks," "Modern Pudding," and "Tiller Brothers." He is in the latest attempt Mr. Lawhead is to do a better job and as in previous performances.

TWENTY SCHOLARSHIPS OFFERED BY FOUNDATION

American-Scandinavian Committee Will Award Fellowships to Men in Graduate Research

STIPENDS AVERAGE $800 EACH

Twenty traveling fellowships for study in the Scandinavian countries during the current year of 1925-1926 are being offered to students of American birth by the American-Scandinavian Foundation of New York City. These scholarships have been awarded by the Foundation since 1917, and the number has been increasing from time to time. Fellowships have been given in Scandinavian countries for American study also. The stipends are fixed each, and are maintained by personal pledges from both sides of the Atlantic. Transportation expenses are often provided by the donor also.

The Foundation desires that graduate students and young instructors and professors apply for the fellowship, in the confidence that applied men and women who are capable of doing independent research. Those carrying on undergraduate study will be required to present letters in the Scandinavian language, but it has been found in the past that men and women who are mature enough to do research work have little difficulty in mastering the language. Research in the following fields will be preferred for review:

Chemistry, physics, agricultural economics, social sciences, forestry, mining, metallurgy, electrical engineering, law, languages, and literature. One mark offered in addition to these subjects, biology, history, physical, industrial, agriculture, and folk schools.

One study offered in Norway is weather forecasting. The students in this subject enrolls the student to spend a year in the Geophysical Institute, in Bergen, where, in series of written reports on the advance of wind, a new system of weather forecasting is being evolved. In addition to this, Norway offers courses in botany, geography, biology, electricity and forestry.

DEATH CLAMS FAMOUS UNIVERSITY SCIENTIST

V. Hilprecht, Discoverer of History of the Hebrew People, Dies Abruptly After Long Career

RETIRED FOLLOWING DISPUTE

Herman Valldal Hilprecht, former professor of Assyriology at the University of Pennsylvania, a noted student and archeologist of worldwide reputation, died suddenly Thursday at his home in Philadelphia. Dr. Hilprecht was 65 years of age.

During his career at the University Dr. Hilprecht achieved a notable line of archeological discoveries. His translation of the tablets found buried in the ruins of the ancient city of Nippur revealed the story of the Deluge as written 4,000 years ago, in 1916, after Dr. Hilprecht had completed his study of them, he turned them over to the University of Pennsylvania, where they later became the subject of a dispute between the university and University authorities. It was charged by Dr. Hilprecht that, while the tablets were in the hands of the University, they had been lost or stolen. In the face of these claims the Board of Trustees of Pennsylvania appointed a committee of investigation, consisting of K. A. Bemer, John B. Hickman and George Wharton Pepper. This committee later reported the charge of being unfounded and dropped the case.

In 1917 Dr. Hilprecht severed his connection with the University and spent the latter years of his life in travel, study and scientific writing. Being an authority of cuneiform paleography, Dr. Hilprecht has been the author of many works in this branch of science. During his career he was also a member of many expeditions into the Holy Land, which aided greatly in the translating of many of the earliest chapters of the Hebrew history and civilization.

Dr. Hilprecht was a member of many magistracies, honorific and scientific organizations. The Philosophical Society of Great Britain, the German Order of Albrecht and other lesser organizations of this nature claim for Hilprecht as a member during his lifetime the University of Pennsylvania, the University of Berlin and Princeton University conferred many degrees upon him.

WHAT DID YOU SPEND LAST YEAR?

$800 To $2500 Probably. How much went to Help Those Who Are Helping You? The C. A. Spent $118,000. Its Total Income On the Campus. At the University Settlement. At Green Lane. In China. The smallest fraction of your income will swell ours How Much Have You Given?

Honoroble Mention Charles K. Elliott
Now we are in it again. The Sophomore class is looking for the loss of the Poster Fight, incidentally as we hinted last week that it would be postponed and returned to some Sophomores to stay away from the fray.

We think like an unfair charge, and we tried to protest to the Sophomore president, but this gentleman was not to be interviewed at the particular time, being in conference with several test-room men. By the way, wouldn't it be wise in all the annual contests "The Poster Fight" week?".

That would give official recognition to the extra-senior rank, which were popularized this year by certain class officers.

We do hope, though, that we may all be serious enough to make a field this year. Otherwise, Freshmen who have learned in colored sources during rushing season will lose all faith in the veracity of the upperclassmen.

It begins to look as though there were nothing in the doctrine of predestination at all. Within a few days there are earthquakes, an oil explosion, two large conflagrations, and three Western cities blow away, leaving Laos wall ruins standing. We are being flung faiths.

Any one who walks by the building will notice that the sign on the top story of the wallkis have started their spring cleaning. Isn't approaching it.

Who ever wrote 1992 in this book to the man who went into the library wearing a blue serge suit and sat down in a corner to pray.

And now it appears that the Kno Klux Klan is masquerading in several cities under a Greek letter name. It's a good thing that the Freshmen didn't call it before the great national season.

A set of twenty-five clones has just been bought by the Sigma for Lafayette College. This idea is denied by none of our own favorites. It would provide something for its students to wake up to by the morning hours would not be wasted in sleep.

As a comparison for the gift that the Class of 1935 is to make in the University, we offer the idea of fifteen or twenty in the form of the Century Club.

The hard luck prize for this week goes to the man who went into the library wearing a blue serge suit and sat down in a corner to pray.
