ASSEMBLE AT 1 O'Clock Today

Captains and Workers Urged to Attend Meeting Thursday for Formal Opening

Members of the Christian Association Financial Tour committee will have as a function in the main room of the Hospital, the following Tuesday at 1 o'clock, an outline to the formal opening of the campaign. All team captains, workers and platform carriers are expected to present at this function, as it will be the only opportunity for the entire campaign to meet at a full house during the week. The meeting will be closed in time for the men to attend 2 o'clock classes.

Russell E. Penniman, the chairman of the meetings of the campaign, will conduct the meeting and give the general method of appeal to be employed by the team work, and make general information available to the captains. Captain details will be supplied by James J. Henderson, vice president of the association.

After the business of the meeting has been completed, the tour to northern Pennsylvania will be made by Dr. George W. McMillen, director of the campaign, Mr. C. H. Andras, who was head of the subcommittee, and the members of the tour. Their remarks will deal with the significance and meaning of the C. A. Drive as seen by the representatives of districts on the campaign.

While Penniman wishes especially to explain the importance of the activity to the members of the committee, he pointed out that so many drive campaigns have been started and that it will not be necessary for any further discussion at the meeting.

There is nothing to lose and everything to gain by taking part in the meeting, and it is to be hoped that all members will be present. However, we must start promptly and come to the meeting in the limited time we have, and I'd like to close on Page Two.

BIGGER AND BETTER TOURNAMENTS

The annual basketball tournament during the spring is a traditional Penn event. This year’s tournament, the 1926 Bigger and Better Tournaments, is particularly significant because it serves as a preview of the upcoming season. The tournament is divided into two parts: the Eastern and Western Divisions, with teams from various colleges and universities participating.

COMMUNICATION

Recently, during a game between the Penn Quakers and the Cornell Big Red, a notable incident occurred. During a break in the action, one of the Penn players, a forward named Jack Thompson, was engaged in a conversation with a Cornell player. Thompson, known for his defensive skills, was speaking with the Cornell player about the finer points of basketball strategy. The conversation was so intense that it seemed to distract the players from the game momentarily.

New Rules Adopted by Swimming League

As a sequel to Wrightsman Bowl this week, the athletic council of the Eastern College Swimming Association adopted two new regulations as revised by Mr. Tomlinson, New Haven swimming coach. These were in the matter of which was the method of deciding the Varsity game between the two teams. Before it has been required that every member of a team, except the captain, must be in their own lane and the other team having the highest private one was declared the winner. The presence of other teams in the Middle Atlantic States made this impossible. Therefore it was decided to allow the Central Pennsylvania Conference. The winning team must be of 15 in order to gain the maximum of the Season to equal that of other associations.

Many Animals are Treated in Clinic

Many animals owe much to the existence of the Veterinary Hospital at this school, for last year 8152 were treated there. They afforded much opportunity for experimental student investigation. Large numbers received treatment in the Ambulatory Clinic for diseases ranging from malnutrition to trimmed hoofs. There were mostly large animals such as cattle, although smaller ones as dogs and cats received attention. The most prevalent diseases was distemper, its cause being unknown, although some cases a form similar to the influenza in human was found. Other ailments of such form as scarlet fever, polio, intestinal parasites, rabies and some of minor importance. It is interesting to note that the German police dog is the most susceptible to all Blackhees due to the intestinal parasites, rabies and some of minor importance.

"Betty Lee," direct from a lengthy stay at the Forty-fourth Street Theater, New York City, enters this spring season for a brief stay, with Glenda For, George Sewell and Joe E. Brown as the household entertainers. The show for the three acts are set in wint Chicago, where men prove themselves apt markers and women show their powers as—well, cowards, who sing and dance sufficiently enough to be signed up for a show by the finest comedy about passing through the town.

The hero, played by George Sewell, comes in from the East, and in order to make a fantastic impression upon the hurdles, done by Miss For, proves as a champion runner. But, as of late, there is something in, who, in this case, are cowards in the rank. They challenge his heart, and in the subsequent showdown as to whether he can make the hundred in 26 minutes or less there is much stake, who Brown takes the part of the athletic hero, a role-in which he has frequent opportunity to display his one incontestable brand of humor. In this connection, Mr. Brown, we are told, has just as extravagant a manner as ever, fully as large as when he displayed it in "Listen, Ladies!" Enlarging the production, one critic has said, "It has the most apparent and pleasing of a Paris musical show, based upon the American stage is in almost identical. Certainly such a remark interests me, for when a person speaks in such a manner he is likely to say what he says. And it is to be hoped that he does so, for we shall take our lead and proceed to the Shubert. It is hoped that there will be interesting things to be said.

The rumor that "Little Jessie Jones" was to return to town this evening is still a rumor. From what had been said there was ample reason to believe that the show had been actually booked for this city, but there's many a delay between the booking and the appearance.

The absence of this offering is due to absence of the star. In the first place, bookings have greatly appeased what was a booking one day period a controlled announcement took the place. And, second, the company is in present enjoying a happy road tour, a fact which is of interest to the producers. So just when it arrives in town or more for conferences. of course, the big feature of this musical comedy is that some one shared "I Love You" in a most appealing manner. Aside from that, "Little Jessie Jones"..."

Franck Craven is still offering "New Fashions," and making a most able success to doing so. The "Best People" continue to show that they are efficiently in such a manner. Our old friend, "The Guy," stays at the Walnut for another week, though it might be more polite to say that Roland Hitchcock is showing his way to good fortune. "Peter Pan" will fit itself around the stage for an other six nights, and "Six Shooters" will be drawn home under the capable hands of Louis Howard. And last but not least, Florence Mills and her troupe maintain their cyclic pace, thought it is remarkable that the said cyclone has not blown itself away through sheer lack of exhaustion.

It seems as though there was a notice regarding "The Triumphant" somewhere in the sheet of papers before me, but in previous results nothing. Thereafter, out of sight, out of mind. Which means that we are all ready to see the successor rise on "Betty Lee."

Dr. Eliot Observes Birthday

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, observed his ninety first birthday at his home last Friday. The day was marked by a visit from Professor Charles Grandpre, president of the Harvard Alumni Association, who gave him a volume which contained all the congratulations and greetings sent. Dr. Eliot on the occasion of his ninetieth anniversary last year.

The book also included a number of photographs of the celebration, and exercises held in honor of that occasion.
