Flocked Nine Invades Franklin Field Today

Pennsylvania and Franklin will meet on Franklin Field this afternoon at 2 o'clock, that game being a factor in deciding which team will win the Pennsylvania-McKean-University championship. Pennsylvania has been one of the three team this season, while Franklin has lost but one game.

The Red and Blue nine met the first of the University of Pennsylvania during the spring, its record being 4-2-2, while Franklin's, at the same stage of the game, is 3-2-2. The former is a batting game; it was held for a long time, while Franklin was held for a longer time. Due in an injury to their second baseman, the Penn team was in a poor condition for the game.

The Princeton team, which will play against Franklin in the first game of the season, is 3-2-2. The Princeton team is 3-2-2.

ZELO WILL PRESENT
ANNUAL SPRING PLAY

“Nolle, All Shakes,” the annual dramatic production of the Zelosophic So- ciety, will be presented at the Philadel- phia Club Wednesday evening, May 4. The play, a comedy, was written by Harry and Edward Paulitz, and was produced some ten or twenty years ago by professional performers. Since then it has occasionally appeared before the public, being performed by both profes- sional and amateur actors.

Plans for the offering are well under way. The cast has been practicing for the past three months and will continue through May 17, every Friday night this week. Friday evening, May 1, the players are scheduled to give a preliminary perfor- mance at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. A dress rehearsal will be held Monday evening, May 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierce are masquerading the comedy. Both are well known in dramatic circles for their one-line and acting ability. Mrs. Price is the dramatic coach for Wilson College. Directing several Shakespearian plays there every year.

After the presentation of “Nolle, All Shakes,” an informal dinner will be held under the auspices of the society. The music for the dance will be furnished by a来自-on-stroke. Tickets for the play are $1 and may be secured from any member of the society or by letter to the Executive Secretary in College Hall.

CHANGES ARE DEMANDED
IN AMERICAN EDUCATION

Educators in Convention Declare That Present System of Instruction Must Be Overhauled

DR. FRANK AYDELOTTE SPEAKS

That the present college system should be changed was the decision reached by the Progressive Educational Associa- tion, which just closed its convention at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel. Dr. Harri- sith, president of the New Con- stitution College for Women at Snow- don, Ut., in making the before the conven- tion, said: “This American college is confronted with the principle that students are forced to be trained-known and run by the commands of others, never being allowed to think for themselves, except when harassed by recital recitations and quizzes.”

Dr. Booth told of the policy now in force at Dickinson, where a compulsory character was appointed to select in her Sopho- more year a definite course of study leading to a definite goal. His address was concluded by saying: “It is my conviction that the most serious charge that can be brought against the modern American college is that such year it turns out both a generation, where they may possess a vast number of definite interests, unable to determine the knowledge and skill upon which a profession of vocation must be founded.”

In Final Athletic, president of Northeastern College, who also spoke to the athletes, claimed there is too much specialization in the colleges. He said: “Students are of extraordinary di- verse types. The academic system puts them all through the same mill. It does not allow for the fact that students are in college to learn some particular branch. They should be allowed to pursue their own line, instead of being hampered by faculty rules and regula- tions.”

Education should be measured by results, not processes. Students should be given proper tests so that they could get on with their courses as they wish. The responsibility of learning should be taken off the shoulders of the faculty and put upon those of the students.

TIME TO GET ON OUR TOES

With the time of the opening of the Annual Kitemen's Carnival come days in the office, the exam period—which includes all of us—we must get to work if we are to play as effective a part as last year. Just the thought of Kitemen issued a proclamation saying Friday, May 4, as "University of Pennsylvania Day." By his action the Penn swimming team calmed the attention of the citizens of Philadelphia to the ceremonies which are to take place on that day.

Probably the most spectacular part of the day's program, from the viewpoint of the outside, is the megaphone parade in which the entire student body is expected to make a march from the University campus to the City Hall, where the exercises and ceremonies are to be held. In the average parade average undertakes the place that the procession are hum and uncertain, he is left, you see, to have the general public. It the post-dance parade and the part of the State University which will be more than mere spectators. Now, with all these observers, "Gantry," of course, is present to the imagination of a few of us today to sit in a committee on the chosen project. With a strategic position from which to display Pennsylvanian in its true form, we must prepare to make an imposing and impressive showing in the coming downtown location. It is a successful program to be formulated, every man about on his own part in the general plan, and to fit the broader perspective on what the parade is designed to accomplish.

There is no time for playing at slackers. Now's the time to get on our toes!

A LAST CACKLE

To everybody who has gone to print last week we extend our thanks. Even the last-timed, and, postally speaking, the least important of the week. Even Washington gave a Farewell Address, as we don't file so badly in rotten days. We are working on the idea of a new print next year, with a greater amount of editorials and departmental use of page space.

But even this is but a beginning of a much greater and more constructive program. In internal relations and cooperation between the various departments and between departments and classes, we are on the road to a better organization. We have Leo, but a beginning has been made in a policy which will mold and shape our magazine. As in no other year, we must consider the Department of Athletics. In no other year, we must consider the Department of Athletics. In this school, we do not touch a subject as a whole, but in a department. That is the drift of these columns, the University of Pennsylvania can certainly be said to be on the up trend. And the fee is one

A plan to increase the seating capacity of Franklin Field stadium from 40,000 to 60,000 by means of a double deck, as shown in the above drawing, has been approved by a special committee of the Board of Trustees of the University. Pennsylvania will then have a stadium ranking among the largest of the world.

A deck will be erected over the north, south, and east stands to cover the top twenty-five rows of the present arrangement, and will be made of a cartwheel construction, together with posts, so arranged as not to interfere with the view of the operators in the lower seats. It is estimated that this work will cost approximately $4,000.

Although the north and south stands may have to be somewhat extended in the west in order to provide approaches to the upper deck, there is no present intention of removing the gymnasium, which it has been rumored was to be destroyed to make way for the new seats. The upper deck will be reached by ramps, or inclined planes, of modernistic design, communicating with a covered gallery extending all around the field under the upper deck. All entrances and exits will be entirely separate from those formerly provided for the lower seats.

It is estimated that the new deck can be completed within ten months after a semester ends on the four courses. The seats will be arranged much the same way as the present ones, and on the sills below so that the view of the field will be as good as from any part of the present structure.

The urgent necessity of the addition is seen when many alumni traveling some distance had to be turned away from the gate, and especially for the Cornell game on Thanksgiving Day, when over $10,000 cash with preferred applications for seats had to be retained.

Work will begin as soon as the trustees approve the action of the committee, which is expected to be in the near future, and at least a part of it will be open for use when the football season begins next fall.

The work on the field will not interfere with any of the scheduled intercollegiate track meets or other events up until June 3. Baseball games and other sports scheduled for June 4 or later will be transferred to other locations. A model of the stadium was placed on exhibit in a building at Fifteenth and Walnut Streets.
