CO-OP MEN'S VICTORY IN UNIVERSITY INTERCOLLEGE Track Meet

Class of 1926 of Yale University

The University of Pennsylvania looks forward to a strong performance this week in the Intercollegiate Track Meet, which will be held at the Philadelphia Civic Stadium on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.

The meet will feature events in athletics, swimming, and track, with teams from various universities competing against each other. The University of Pennsylvania is expected to perform well in track and field events, and the university is preparing for a strong showing in swimming as well.

Cheerleaders from the University of Pennsylvania will also entertain the crowd with their routine, which is known for its high energy and enthusiasm. The cheerleaders are expected to lead the crowd in cheering and encouraging the athletes throughout the meet.

Athletes from the University of Pennsylvania will be competing in a variety of events, including sprint, relay, and long-distance races, as well as field events such as hurdles, jumps, and throws. The university has a strong track and field team, and the athletes are prepared to give their best performance.

The Intercollegiate Track Meet is a prestigious event that brings together some of the best track and field athletes from universities across the country. The University of Pennsylvania is excited to participate and hopes to bring home some strong performances and memorable moments.

BOARD OF GOVERNORS WILL RUN PERMANENT ENDOWMENT CAMPAIGN

Farabaugh, Marks and Mcdoull Appointed Co-Chairmen of Committees in Their Respective Classes

DIBAND COMMITTEE OF TWENTY

Quiet Drive, Featuring Personal Visits, Will Be Opened in Freshman Class

With the selection of the Permanent Board of Governors, work is being continued on a comprehensive campaign for the permanent endowment of the University. Under the plan of the Committee of Twenty, the endowment campaign will be opened upon a competitive basis from year to year. The first fund has been allotted from the existing honor class, and the committee will have charge of the permanent endowment as long as the class remains in being.

The work of the Committee of Twenty has been under the direction of the President and the Western District, and the committee members are all outstanding. Many new subscriptions have been received during the year, and the men who have paid the five dollars required are numbered in the hundreds. To successfully coordinate the work of the committee, and the campaign in the Western District, the Board of Directors has been solicited as follows:

Edward E. M. Weather, M. D., physician, and the president of the Class of 1927, and 1928, respectively. This committee will be informed by the Alumni Committee.

Cowboy Students Welcome Tom Mix

Men and Women Riders From University of Oklahoma Visit the Campus

Dressed in full Western outfits, obvious University students participated in the reception and visit of the famous cowboy, Tom Mix, when he arrived in Philadelphie Saturday morning at the Broad Street Station. The reception was held in the University Station, where the Cowboy and his horse, Trixie, were greeted by a throng of admirers. The Cowboy was presented with a wreath of red carnations by the University student body, and he was presented with a check for $100, which he donated to the University.

Tom Mix, known for his film appearances and adventures as a cowboy, was a popular figure among the students who lined the streets to welcome him. The University Station was decorated with cowboy-themed decorations, including horseshoes and guns. The Cowboy and his horse were led into the station by a group of students, who were dressed in Western attire.

The reception continued in the station, where Mix spoke to the students about his experiences as a cowboy and his work in the movies. He also answered questions from the students about his life and career. The Cowboy was a hit with the students, and he signed autographs for them after his speech. The reception was a great success, and the Cowboy and his horse were a sight to behold for the students who had gathered to see him.
After reviewing the activities of our rivals and of our baseball team on Saturday, we hope it is just as hot on all forthcoming Saturdays. Where, by the way, was the Princeton "Black Varsity" last Saturday?

We can stand heat without just as well, and perhaps better, than the next fellow, and the thing that does us good is to have some Princetonian chap summer up and kill all the want of remark about "it isn't the heat; it's the humidity you know."

The Penn Cup awaits the unforfeitable weather the end of the week with an undetermined men and philosophically remarked that he didn't expect snow in May, anyway.

"Automobiles Run Wild on Princeton Campus."

At least they run.

The administration at Princeton has seen fit to do away with the menace of automobiles caused by students. As result of an int edit has been laid down which forbids any automobile, except one owned by the student who drives it, to be brought on campus. Probably now the Taggarts will take to riding horseback with Tom Mix.

If students at this University can ever talk their drive cars in its vicinity, all one would have to do would be to get a sign that said "C. & O. Shell" and tack it on the door of the car. The world would then be off the hands affordable in mail trucks and could down across right in front of the Library at sixty miles an hour and cheer up the Princeton Club, hitting and bumping every one within sight or hearing.

The report that the editor-in-chief and we of the column set to write for Vanity Fair this summer is very much we appreciated.

It can't fail. N. R.—This idea will be particularly valuable if an auto follows Princeton's habit of the motor of only mobile.

Mask and Wig Club Subscribers $25,000, Pennsylvania Company, $5,000

Two subscriptions amounting to $50 were received yesterday by the Prize Committee of the University. The first of $25,000 was subscribed by the Mask and Wig Club, while the second one for $5,000 came from the Pennsylvania Printing Company.

The gift from the Mask and Wig Club, which was founded in 1889, and of which Clement L. Burrows is president, comes at a time when the University is thinking of building a new gymnasium.

The gift from Mask and Wig Club, was received today in the University and was placed in the mask and wig, for which the club named its organization.

The University's forty-fifth in April is a performance of "Jen of Alabama," broadcast by radio from Philadelphia, and the selection was given by the University's committee.

The Mask and Wig Club, when the Kalamuckin was founded in 1907, by students under the direction of Edmund H. Rogers, then president, who was in his eighties.

The Pennsylvania Printing Company, which of the $25,000 subscription was received, in the company which published the Pennsylvania, the student daily. Edward Highton, Jr., is its president.

PENNSYLVANIA CREWS

WIN CHILD'S CUP RACES

The victory was the climax to a successful day for the Pennsylvania crew and rowing athletes. The Varsity took the lead at the start, but was closely followed by the Princeton crew for the first mile. Columbia dropped behind at the start and was never a factor in the race. Princeton held on doggedly all the way, but the superior strength of the Red and Blue turned the Tiger and Princeton was forced to take the walk of the Varsity at the finish by a length and a half. The victory was $25 to $28. The course was beautifully watered with fresh water from every source and the remaines had a difficult time taking hold. Construction of a government water pipe kept all traffic out of the course. Many people followed the race in carriages and on foot and thousands lined the banks, while thousands lined the banks and bridges. A radio broadcasting sent on one of the large flotillas kept the listeners posted on the races.

After the race many friends and admirers of Varsity Blue crowded into the Pennsylvania Boathouse and congratulated the men on their efforts. It was a great victory for the Red and Blue crew to win the championship in the river where their oars were held steady.
