JUNIOR SOCIETY WILL CONDUCT INTENSIVE DUES CAMPAIGN

Owing to the fact that only a few seniors who started their dues payments during the first week in September have paid their dues, a special campaign will be conducted by the Junior Society of the Freshman class of 1927, under the chairmanship of Russell Payne, a member of the Class of 1927. This intensive drive will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, October 22, 23, 24, and 25 inclusive.

The Junior Society, which has the largest and the finest lists paid at any time of the year, has appointed to its staff several of the most active and capable students of the Class of 1927, who are fully capable of handling the situation.

SILKSTONDS ON FOOTLIGHTS
Competitors of “The Footlights” have been recently selected to portray the life of Cotui in several foreign capitals.
Hildred Miller, director of the Philadelphia company, has purchased the English rights to the play and will produce it in a semi-coast to coast.
Miss Heimbuch has bought the German, American and Hungarian rights and will stage a company on its tour with a special production in Berlin. At the present writing, four Nor'easters have been selected to star in “Ogilvie” when the company makes its debut in London.

Eddie Fowle is in the city on the 20th of this month in “The Falcon” for the latest word of George Abbott and George Gershwin, which gives the letter an opportunity to impress from its recent stay-ick methods.

Kipper Reilly and Edward Godsell, collaborators of “Vantage Points,” one musical piece that has been attracting musical directors, have promised the original Manhattan company, with one exception, for its initial presentation at the Lyric next Monday evening. There is but little doubt that the production will cause widespread interest, among theatre-goers, owing to its novel treat of an ordinary subject.

The cost of “Aria and Models” includes, among the ballroomers, such favorites as Fred Oliver, celebrated for comedy, Grace Barnes, singer; Alex Montegue, violinist and artist; Lucille Green, a Spanish dancer, Lillie Garage and New, frequenters of the grandioso, are among the principal, and the Broadway Entertainers' Band. Added to this, fifty artist models have been selected for the chorus and, as we are told in advance, they pose in one scene wearing “elephants' breath” collars. The idea originated from the Folies Bergere in Paris. As a counterpart to this, the marking of cloth with Leisure.

High School Stuff

"Some men are Freshmen for their best year; others possess freshman for life."

Many of us have heard that remark or one of its many derivatives at one time or another, but never has it been applied more appropriately than in reference to the undergraduate body of the University. It is not that freshmen have fallen for the button and arm-hand grade, but rather that they have not been devoted to the appropriate. Yet that fact does not wreck any culture, but only indicates the proper course of action. Consequently, many of them are not as much at home as to how things go, but they have remained in the walls of the old high school.

Direct from members of the Varsity come complaints about the use of petty slogans such as "Yale Yale," and the wearing of them on hard basketball and baseball caps. From practically every department of University activity, protests have been voiced against misguided use of the red and blue.

The whole idea of basketball uniforms and buttons originated in an attempt to commercialize the national spirit which exists between two institutions on the eve of a big game. No one objects to the dressing of an automobile with a Pennsylvania banner or the wearing of a decorative bit of red and blue on the cap, but it is difficult to see the connection of the wearer with the university. The instant display of colors, flags and slogans on one's person in behalf of a Pennsylvania town is not a very good idea.

Let us show our colors, but let us eat the high school stuff.

SIXTEEN CARTESIANS

214 So. ELEVENTH STREET

Philadelphia Families use none but Powell Milk.

Three men who control that football and other athletics are harmful distractions to students should consider the practical knowledge gained during the trips away from home. The information picked up about machinery and repairs is invaluable, not to mention the practical use of bookkeeping and diplomacy by those who hitch-hike.

Then there is geography. In tomorrow's column we shall point the road conditions in Maryland and West Virginia for the benefit of those who will take the wrong road to the Yale game.

The attention of the coaches is called to the verbal announcements made daily in front of the Houston Club—"Best Yale, 15 points." It sounds cheap enough.

It is quite difficult to distinguish between freshmen and men since these "Best Yale" buttons are being worn.

It is not considered likely in the middle circles today that one of the vehicles going to New Haven will eclipse or even equal Lieutenant Bunting's record of 240 miles an hour.

Two enterprising undergraduates have cornered the market in need fields and are now able to dictate the size of the Pennsylvania cheering section.

It is with regret that we announce that the home opener has had a severe breakdown, it will not be possible for Rollo, the campus horse, to attend the Yale game. We asked him personally and the only answer he gave us was neigh.

This leaves a dozen students with no way to get to the game.

However, all work on the power house will be discontinued Saturday because of the contemplated shortage of spectators.

Forward Pass in Penn's Best Bet Against Yale.

Our best bet is going to be about 800 after we have paid transportation expenses, etc.

We have been informed that there will be ample parking space in Bridgeport and Newrirk on Saturday.

That statement doesn't worry us at all though, because from the numbers on our tickets it looks as though our walls will be just about to hold the football players.

Today's Rhetorical Question

Any low lady, lady?

Think of the valuable information wanted just because one thought of making a couple of tests on the students who hitch-hiked to Brown and return.

It is reported by "Nancy," the news gathering device, that the farmer's element in the school is circulating a petition to protest against the "new time" system recently adopted by the undergraduate departments.

Some of the Latin students have protested that they cannot read the editorials which have been appearing recently in the return on the left.

The shop who sits next to us in lecture told us today that he now has accumulated a Ford motor and a couple of Philadelphia wheels, and would like to exchange the wheels for two of the Ford variety. We have no idea what he can get quick-ship on or two and some upholstery he'll be all fixed.

guards were unable to pierce their strong defense any more than against the first eleven. Jack Butler was still out of the lineup and it is doubtful if he will be able to start on Saturday. Bob Pike was in his place and, considering the game he played against the Bruins, there will be no weakness in his position.

At Wasington, former freshman back, who made such a sensation during the early days of training at the first only to be incapacitated, is likely to see service again. He has been unable to even put on a uniform, but yesterday took a light workout. He has done his getting into action before the Pittsburgh game, however, very slim.
