Pennsylvania will end season unbeaten—Rice

Grasslands Rock, well-known sports critic, made the assertion that Pennsylvania, by the time the season closes, will be placed second in the nation in finishing half a point behind Princeton. This bold prediction is based on a stationary two-week stretch in which the positive record of the Nittany Lions will betained.

Pennsylvania will have the honor of playing one of the nation's most successful teams, the University of Pennsylvania, this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

PREDICT SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Because of the poor interest at the first meeting last week, the organization of the Junior orchestra has been postponed for another week. This is an unavoidable action at the present meeting and the orchestra will resume when a band instead of an orchestra is being formed. Members of the orchestra believe this was responsible for the poor response.

YEARLING ELEVEN STOPS RUTGERS FRESHMEN, 19-2

Sensational End Runs and Brilliant Animal Attack Feature Red and Blue Offense

Leon Westgate Captains Team

Exhibiting a brilliant offense featured by sensational end runs and a dazzling animal attack, the yearling eleven from Red and Blue smashed the Rutgers eleven in the third period, and built a 19-2 lead at the end of the game. The game, which was witnessed by President William I. McVicker, was played under the worst possible conditions, and the weather conditions were not the best, as the teams started game and half a drive at the beginning of the second period, and built the Rutgers goal line for the first half of the game. Scott substitute for Penn State, failed to make the kick in the aging for the extra point. Near the end of the second quarter, Pennsylvania threatened the Chicago goal line, but Scott, who carried the ball across the goal line, was down for a penalty, and the visitor's player was off side.

An unfortunate break in running gave the yearling eleven an extra chance at the end of the third quarter. A fifteen-yard line, and the visitors' eleven, with but one man on the field, was defeated by the Red and Blue eleven. The visitors' eleven smashed their way for the goal line and were down for a penalty, and the visitors' player was off side.

It would have been more appropriate if the Chicago mob would have called "teams, teams, teams" on the end of their cheeks.

If this business continues, we shall see headlines in the near future which run like this: "Pennsylvania's Plucky Three Beats Woodstock's Seven Heroes."

At the same Saturday, one of the freshmen wanted to know if that fellow Jeff Davis they were going to hang was the player who was doing all the bullying.

It was noted by all the observers that our center played a much better game after he regained his vision. The football reputation of P. I. D. is well known, but we have not yet heard of a team that could play without being able to see.

And by the way, the question arises as to what P. I. D. does for a cheering section.

There is naughtry in the air. The torches they brought out at the game seemed to be brand new; but none of those attending our classes have been able to discern anything about where they came from. Two-thirds of the occupants of the South Stand arose as one man upon seeing the torches, and left the game, determined to secure the means of taking a dinner in Westphalium Hall in comfort this week. However, there has been much student composure.

Those who sat under the lower end of the Upper Deck have whispered it about that there was a lot of exasperation at the game.

And the Freshman across the Hall insists that there was at least a Kirke's there, but he didn't see any first cross, probably because the rain put it out.

We are breathtakingly "Side-Line" next preg- nomenation. Three wrong out of four wouldn't be regarded as favorably by us of our professors, but if the matter comes to a test, then convictions, but they of course college professors are ruthless people. The reading public, particularly those who know the game, would have been more apropos to jump up and down on a fellow and grit their teeth into him when they read in an error, the eventless college professors do.

However, "Side-line" should always remember that the reading public at English invariably gives out ambiguous statements, so that it could jump both ways. He should hold wisely, in because a prophet did die likewise, but just consider in what restoration and esteem the ancient Greeks held their oracle! For generations it was regarded as the dominion of all forms relating to the future. If "Side-line" doesn't profit by this principle, he may in time end up in his standing in the public mind as has the weather man.

Of course, a prophet is not without honor save in his own country. Thus, too, there may be an occasion.

Also, we'd like to inquire of M. C. Hugh Franklin is in the audience. The Pittsburgh team was pining him.

After spending the week-end comparing scores, the Mid- dlebury quarterback comes out with the announcement that Pennsylvanian has a very capable football team.

The Leader of the Band also wishes to intensify himself. He has asked us to announce to the Band did not have the music for "It Ain't Gonna Rain No Mo'" with them on Saturday.

Overheard amid the crunch on the Spence Street sidewalk as the crew was putting out of its stands was the question, "Hey, we're playing?"

Owing to the rules produced by the upper decks, one of the Chicago skyrocket yells is "Is this a game? They have no rules for this game, therefore they must be playing for fun."

By the way, weren't there something about "five yards" nobody's tone, or something. But no.

The University debate team spent its season cigared in an international debate with the team representing Oxford University as the subject "Resolved: That this house favors the principle of Protection." The three Oxford representa- tives are all former presidents of the Oxford Debating Union, and have the honor of a number of Eastern colleges during the past few weeks. That interest of the student body and public has been aroused is indicated by the fact that the ticket sale has been enormous large to date.

31 CASH PRIZES EVERY DAY
$100 First Prize—5 Prizes $5 Each—25 Prizes $1

A series of pictures, without titles, is being printed daily in the EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER. All you have to do is suggest a title and send it in, following the few easy rules below. Think of something you would like to have, or how you could use $100, and then make a "try" at this jolly sport. If you don't win the first time, try again. Any one can do it. Every one has an equal chance. The contest is open to everybody everywhere. You might win the hundred-dollar check the very first time you try.

Here are some of the recent pictures used and the titles which won the $100 cash prizes. Look at these titles and see how easy it is.

Winning Title
"ALMOST THE LAST OF HIS LYNX"
By John Gray
1052 S. Paxson St. Phil.

Winning Title
"PICKING THE COVER CHARGE"
By E. B. McDonald
6137 Jefferson St, Overbrook

Winning Title
"THE OLD TAKING INSTINCT"
By Himli Toomey
244 K. Mundie St, Phila.

Here are the clear and easy rules:

1. Every day a picture without a title is published in the EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER.
2. For the best titles of twelve words or less, $150 in CASH PRIZES is given every day, as follows: 1st prize, $100; five next best, $5 each; twenty-five next best, $1 each.
3. Contest is open to every one except employes of the Public Ledger Company and their families.
4. It is only necessary to send in your suggestion for the title, with name and address, using, for convenience, the coupon which is printed below the picture; although this is not necessary. A separate sheet of paper may be used. You may send in as many titles as you wish, but each title must be written on a separate piece of paper with your name and address.
5. As a condition of the contest all contestants must agree to accept the decision of the judges as final and not open to discussion. No telephone calls or personal calls will be permitted and no letters answered.
6. All titles to each day's picture must be received by the last mail two days after date of publication of each picture; for example, Monday's title must be received not later than midnight Wednesday, etc.; and must be mailed by first-class mail, addressed to Evening Public Ledger Picture Title Contest, to the POSTOFFICE BOX NUMBER given in the coupon under each picture. No titles will be received at the Public Ledger Office direct. All must be mailed to the postoffice box number.
7. Winners of each day's prizes are announced one week after publication of picture. For example, winners of prizes for Monday's picture will be announced the following Monday; Tuesday's winners the following Tuesday, etc.
8. Winning titles will be determined by originality, cleverness, uniqueness and neatness. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be made.
9. Any contestant may enter all the contests and submit as many lines or titles as desired. Each day's contest is separate and distinct from all others.
