Preparations for Fall
REGATA NOW UNDER WAY
Moving Event Will Take Place on Schuylkill River, Thursday and Friday next.

WINNERS TO RECEIVE MEDALS
Regatta organizers say now is the time to look ahead to the Annual Fall Regatta, which will be held near the Fairmount Dam.
The regatta, to be held on Saturday, Oct. 12, will bring the fleet racing men to a grand setting.

In planning tomorrow's event, a group of regatta officials met at the Pennsylvania Yacht Club yesterday to settle on the course, which will be held near the Fairmount Dam.

The fair will be in one mile and a three hour race.

The course will follow the Fairmount Dam and then will take the fleet racing to the Delaware Yacht Club.

Approximately 100 boats are expected to be taken part in.

The fleet racing men will be gathered at the Fairmount Dam on Thursday night and, according to the race organizers, will leave at 7:30 a.m. on Friday morning.

This is the first time in years that the fleet racing men have been taken to the Fairmount Dam for the annual Fall Regatta.

In the past, the fleet racing men have been taken to the Great Falls and to the Fall River, but the Fairmount Dam has been selected for the first time this year.

The regatta officials have decided to start the fleet racing men at 7:30 a.m. on Friday morning, and to have the fleet racing men leave at 7:30 a.m.

The fleet racing men will be taken to the Fairmount Dam at 7:30 a.m., where they will be given directions, and will be taken to the Delaware Yacht Club, where they will be given directions.

The fleet racing men will then proceed to the start of the course, which is at the Fairmount Dam.

It seems that every one who ever graced a pet for the past, or provided a trypan in the future, has told his say converting our defeat last Saturday at the hands of Illinois. All the diagrams we have analyzed from these sources contains the information as to just what was wrong, or wasn't wrong on Saturday. One paper yesterday morning went so far as to say that our team was composed of "selves" while another said that the Pennsylvanian team was "flights." Whatever inflicting upon the Editorial authority door to door, we please allow us to become matters for a moment, and say that we have all the confidence, and respect in the world for the University of Pennsylvania football team. And we further wish to state that most students here are strangers to the big city sports before giving us to huge pain and can find the nearest retreat to perspiration without bothering us the least bit.

That chap who was found hanging his head against a pillar yesterday got that way in trying to figure out what was meant by that list of rules, concerning the purchase of Cornell tickets.

About this ticket plan. We usually expect shocks of this sort along about the end of the semester when the Wharton Clarion minor comes out, and coming so early in the season, this printed revelation just about has us cramped.

Only one thing is clear to us. One has to be a student of the University to be aware of a preferred application. In the lists of rules nothing was contained which informs one how to obtain the aforementioned to purchase tickets. But being college students we assume that we are supposed to have it.

If things keep up, a student will soon have to march in to the A. A. office, salute smartly, report his station in life, hand in his credentials, receive his ticket, and then be escorted home under armed guard.

Either that or he will come quietly up to the ticket window and say "Please mister can I buy a ticket?"

"Sorry," the man who knows all and sees all, reports that the man who saved his derby, in the cheering section at the Illinois game, professed it so surely by sitting on it.

Just because it summed a little last week seven freshmen were forced to quit school and then were denied further support and don't dare tell father what happened to the money we were supposed to buy with a cost.

Our roommate says that if anybody don't stop crowding beneath our rear windows every night, that he will have a far cost yet.

The Green Law reunion, which takes place tonight, won't be realistic unless someone manages to get a grass-hopper down his neck.

Today's Historical Question:

Is Oz Compulsory?

The hard luck prize for the week goes to the mother of the man who went to a laundry box tone with six shirts, three E. T. O. seven pair of socks, two pair of pajamas, five towels, and nineteen handcuffed in it, and then immediately sent a letter saying that he had to have the clothes back again by Monday.

That chap is probably the same one who created the ticket line about nine times a week ago today.

News Item—Boils, the motor power for the campus loan service, has signed up for the pole team to get P. E. credit.

An indigent student just burst into our office and asked us what he could do to get even with the Wharton Student, who sat across from him in the Library and smote while provoking her nose, thus nothing the contents of the vanity case all over the blue serge suit of the indigent student.
