Prepared to Meet for College Students

President of the class taken care of Mr. Congressman, this being the last meeting of the Undergraduate Council held Monday. Among the questions the council faces is the scheduling of Junior Week, an event which is to be held in the Student Union on Saturday, Oct. 24. A motion was made that the question be referred to the various classes, which was seconded. The council finds that the program of Junior Week and many of the other activities scheduled for the day will be announced at a later date.

The council will hereafter meet on the first and third Wednesdays of each month. An important business which might require a special meeting will be taken care of by a committee consisting of the executive officers of the council.

Preparation to Move Penniman Library

Library Dickson Concluding Series of Talks for College Students

Preparation to move Penniman Library will be made in Penniman Library of Education from the old building where it is now located in Winter Hall during the winter of these holidays. According to Librarian Dickson this is being done in order to be ready to move a more efficient use of the old library building for college students during the winter of these holidays.

Methodist Students Sponsor New Paper

At the meeting of the Student Council of the Methodist Church held last Sunday morning, Ralph R. Kennedy, president, announced the election of the first editors of The Reason, the official organ of the University of Pennsylvania.

The monthly paper is expected to meet the educational and social needs of the members of the Student Council.

Methodist Students Sponsor New Paper

In the evening of the meeting, the council adjourned to the men's Social Hall and the debate of the men's and women's University of Pennsylvania. A vote will be taken on the matter of the council, in hopes that by keeping the schools the best point in the country (Pittsburgh). All (Pittsburgh) plans.

An introduction converting these clubs and their officers will be apprised of this.

Thiel College, 2 to 3:1. Although this record is not especially creditable, the team is improving rapidly and should afford the Riddle and Hubbell an opportunity to gain in the best condition for the difficult University game.

Schwarabing at center forward, Foxey, right halfback, and Anjel, right fullback, are the invaders' stellar players. Schwarabing scored two goals in the Westsday contest and one in the unplayed game. While Foxey and Anjel played perfectly on the defense in both contests, the Varsity engaged in a scrimmage with the Junior Varsity eleven yesterday afternoon and is rapidly rounding into the form which won for it the intercollegiate championship during the past two terms.

The lineup was practically the same as that which opposed Yale last week, that is, being at outside right, Wood at right halfback, and Lewis at left halfback. The only change was the appearance of Mosch in right halfback in place of Clyde.

YALE UNDERGRADUATES
VOTE ON CHAPEL SERVICES

Faculty, as well as students, expresses opinions for and against compulsory attendance.

DEAN BROWN VOICES SENTIMENTS

Undergraduates of Yale University have been conducting a two-day refer-endum vote on the question of compulsory chapel attendance. If the referendum vote prevails against the opposition, the students will be forced to attend chapel. In response to a hundred and thirty ballots cast by students, the returning ballots showed twenty-three votes for and seven against. The chapel committee is informed of the vote. The following comments have been formulated:

I believe in religion and appreciate its value, but I do not think that the cause of religion is served by compulsory attendance at proper meeting or meetings for worship.

I was told this was a matter of opinion in answer to a question. But I do not believe in this belief of opinion. I do not believe in the matter of how one should behave.

I do not think that it is a necessity for anyone to worship unless he feels like it. I do not think that anyone should be forced to worship unless they want to worship. I do not think that anyone should be forced to participate in any religious activities unless they want to participate.

I believe in religious freedom, but I do not believe in compulsory attendance. I believe in the right of conscience, but I do not believe in the right of force. I believe in the right of the individual to make up his own mind, but I do not believe in the right of anyone else to force him to make up his mind.

I believe in the right of the individual to worship as he sees fit, but I do not believe in the right of the state to force him to worship as it sees fit.

I believe in the right of the individual to participate in religious activities as he sees fit, but I do not believe in the right of the state to force him to participate in religious activities as it sees fit.

I believe in the right of the individual to believe as he sees fit, but I do not believe in the right of the state to force him to believe as it sees fit.

I believe in the right of the individual to interpret the Bible as he sees fit, but I do not believe in the right of the state to force him to interpret the Bible as it sees fit.

I believe in the right of the individual to practice his religion as he sees fit, but I do not believe in the right of the state to force him to practice his religion as it sees fit.

I believe in the right of the individual to worship as he sees fit, but I do not believe in the right of the state to force him to worship as it sees fit.

I believe in the right of the individual to participate in religious activities as he sees fit, but I do not believe in the right of the state to force him to participate in religious activities as it sees fit.

I believe in the right of the individual to believe as he sees fit, but I do not believe in the right of the state to force him to believe as it sees fit.

Today is a holiday for all departments of the University that is with the exception of the R.O.T.C. which is to celebrate the winning of this war by parading about the city.

* * *
If Germany had won this war we would probably have to go through our usual Wednesday program today by starting in the History Department and ending up in the P.E. Department.

* * *
Academic Day seems to be well named in it is a day of peace between professors and students.

* * *
One student wrote to ask us if the last syllable of this new term "Undergraduate" is to be emphasized.

* * *
We think that would depend upon which one is being talked about.

* * *
"Ancient Foes Will Clash on Armistice Day" public ledger. Apparently no one has scheduled a game between two homes for the year.

* * *
Something is wrong some place—a student got two good tickets for the P.I. game.

* * *
The quality of Westminster Hall tends to again deteriorate. The one we put yesterday looked like a little girl's handkerchief.

* * *
We are not trying to revive any interest in this slogan because we think the latter country may find out daily later that what they brought to Armistice Day for Engineering Building.

* * *
The slogan for the new Logan Hall seems to be Ripper and Beller than Buzz.

* * *
We aren’t really sure just what the purpose of the new syllabus is, but we are inclined to hope it is a cage in which a Westminster student can capture his Research professor and have him interviewed.

* * *
To answer a serious second thought serves to remind us that this Armistice Day serves to bring back to our minds the picture of the conflict which raged for four years and involved the greatest number of the world’s people.

* * *
It is well received as an opportunity to develop an understanding of the class and supercede his own section.

* * *
In the present system, one class or the college is examined from the master to the examining the college. With special exam.

* * *
We aren't really sure just what the purpose of the new syllabus is, but we are inclined to hope it is a cage in which a Westminster student can capture his Research professor and have him interviewed.

* * *
The Veterinary School has unanimously turned "Bolster" out, and refuses to take care of him any more. All this because, in a spirit of play, "Bolster" kicked their best prize bull.

* * *
The freshman who has been helping the storm shovels cops says he has high hopes of being elected Spade Man in his senior year.

* * *
The Editorial column urges us to "keep out of the rough" on our studies. The marks we are making in courses would look better on a golf score-card than on the roll books.

* * *
We need with great glee that small building, displaying a red cross, has been erected on the campus at Thirty-fourth Street and Woodland Avenue. At last a hospital has been placed near the scene of most of the campus accidents. Now wherever a student crosses in contact with a truck or street car's curb can be obtained at the curb.

* * *
Since Coach Young took the football team to see "The Freshman," Coach Sartorius wants to take the wrestling team to see "The Fall Guy." The weather, the wind, the snow, the rain.

Members of the football team will need to applaud on the campus next week will look for coats, made of particular.

Brother of Krues

Although "Al," Krues, Pennsylvania's lineplumping fullback, did not play Saturday in the game in which the Red and Blue overmatched the conquering Boston home gridiron warriors, nevertheless the notice of Krues was upheld by Albert's brother, Robert, who plays fullback for the Wisconsin eleven in the Western Conference. "Bob," as he is known to his team-mates, scored the touchdown which enabled the Badgers to defeat Ohio State and earlier in the season made the only score of the Purdue contest, where he plunged across the goal line for the only tangible score of the game.

Robert of Krues is younger than "Al," the older brother being seven years and the latter twenty-four. Both are members of the junior class at their respective institutions. An older brother, Les, played fullback for Wisconsin eleven years beginning with 1919 and was selected All-American fullback in 1927.

A cousin, Frank Krues, is not in line up and is making a bid for fame between Home at Moranty Emissary, Michigan Union, where he is a freshman. His brother, Frank, is a star quarterback at the Michigan University, High School. The Krues house is located at Monroeville, a town of about 15,000 inhabitants and has an 815,000 high school students. The Krues boys and many other players who developed into Western football stars learned the game under such able tutors as Walter Eilenberg, selected as All-American quarterback while at Chicago, and Under Hackett of West Point.
