A. A. U. APPROVES 200
NEW RECORDS AT MEETING

JOIE RAY REMAINS ON BOOKS

At the recent meeting of the Amateur Athletic Association, held in Philadelphia, new records were approved with sixty-six were turned down. Jackson W. Gilmore, of New York, A. C., is the new record holder for the hundred-yard dash. The time for the event run last May in Alexandria, N. C., is nine and twenty-six hundredths of a second above the record of nine and three-fifths seconds.

Charles Drew, University of Iowa, still harbors, is credited with the time of 22.5 seconds for the 220-yard low hurdles. Joe Hulbert remains in the record book being linked with Nortel in the possession of the mark of 4.12 for the mile. Nortel and Brian were deleted several records because the A. A. U. failed to recognize the events involved.

J. Myers, of the Olympic Club of Los Angeles, had only ten yards record of 224 feet 11 inches refused because of insufficient proof. His time of 322 feet 11 inches was accepted as correct. Wards, Rapo and Stimpson added several new records to their lists of championship marks.

Nancy Greer is now the possessor of all but four of the longest stride marks.

The question of allowing athletes in net as life guards and receive compensation was taken up but was deferred back to the committee. The only change in rules was the addition of a 220-yard dash to the schedule of women's events. The committee of the O. A. R. Board, women's athletics reported that it had awarded the senior sectional outdoor championship to Philadelphia to be run in connection with the Septa-Conv. Council.

Yesterday this column was, unconvincingly, pushed up on the roof of this page, and was perched there like the proverbial crow when we saw it. The Editorial writers always watch until we are out of sight before they even think of writing the column. Some day, however, we are going to get the last crack at it and plant Penn and Ink all over this page.

And now, let us get back to this fine business. The Freshman A Boost has vowed to make the Junior Orchestra win the name for the Junior Prom.

The Juniors' Privilege

Thoughts of third-year men are now being directed in the annual Junior Week activities which begin with the Corea March next Monday morning and continue for the entire week. Committees are hard at work, striving to make this year's events even more successful than those of former years. Their task is an easy one. If they are to be successful, they must have the support of every third-year man.

The program for the week includes Chapel exercises, Council Games, the Freshman A Boost, and the Promenade. All are traditional events and have been observed by generations of Pennsylvania men. The present Juniors inherit the responsibility for their successful continuance and it is to be hoped that the members of the class will work wholeheartedly into the spirit of the festivities.

Preparations for the various events have been placed on solid foundations and committees are canvassing fraternity houses and dormitories. When approached, Juniors must bear in mind that they are now being solicited by many charity workers and by a classmate who is extending him the privilege to join in the observance of what should be one of the happiest weeks of his University career. Twenty-seven, get behind your Week.

Wharton '27 Lays Part of Blame for Poor Cheering at Door of Athletic Council Because of Seating Arrangement

November 17, 1935.

Editor-in-Chief, The Pennsylvania.

Dean—I am sure that the apparent lack of spirit manifested in the cheering section recently has been attributed to several causes in your editorial column. In the discussion appearing in the Pennsylvania this week, paper-drawing was advanced as a reason for the lack of spirit. It was pointed out that these crude drawings detract the attention of the student from the game and this is undoubtedly true. However, there are several other factors tending toward a slump in cheerfulness which deserve consideration if the matter is to be treated from both angles.

Although criticisms has already been leveled upon the Council on Athletics for the manner in which it has been handling tickets, it seems only right that at least part of the blame for the poor cheering should also be laid at its door. The Council has gradually moved the cheering section from a place near the center of the field, where it was two years ago, to the extreme eastern end of the South stands. Students are given as little consideration as possible by the Council and it would be so much the better if they became so indignant as to stop cheering entirely. It is certainly a great and glorious feeling to come to the game about an hour early in order to find that the best seats available for you are in the section adjoining the East stands. This section is back of the goal posts. Students are only human and things such as these are bound to create dissatisfaction which will have to be sure to affect the cheering.

Now, with respect to the cheering section from near the center of the field, the Council has further magnified the situation by reseating a music band for 800 minutes away from the cheering section. Instead of giving in more seats to accommodate the increased student body, the Council on Athletics is showing an interest in the musical events that would be impossible for students who come late to games in the future. It may have to be feared that this is done because of lack of space.

It is up to everyone undergraduate wishes to cooperate and make the cheering what it should be and there is no reason, especially since the new lines have been bunched for this action on the part of the Council on Athletics.

(End) Wharton '27.
Paul K. Welch submits prize-winning scenario

"Not by a Jugful" is judged Best Musical Comedy Entered in Men About Towne Club Contest.

Winner receives prize of $25.

Paul K. Welch, Esq., '26, won the $25 prize offered by the Men About Towne Club, when his play "Not by a Jugful," or "Blue Moonshine," was adjudged the best entered in the jug-writing contest of the Towne Club. The committee of R. A. Bailey, J. H. Johnson, 22, P. E. Bunn, '24, and P. E. Dowdwell, '26, president of the club, think that they have picked a show that the "Towne" can do justice to.

The play is a three-act musical comedy, with a cast of ten people, and a chorus of eight. Some characters in the main cast will be female impersonators while the chorus will have four girls in it. Five songs and two specialty dances will be introduced for the first time by the chorus. The scene of the first act is laid in the drawing room of Home's palatial residence in Louisville, Kentucky, just before the annual Brown Derby. Act 2 finds the setting for the action, a steamship's cabin. High up in the mountains of Kentucky, and the last scene finds the players in a large field below the cabin. A brief synopsis of the play shows that it will appeal to students of all varieties.

Two college chums, Alex Holden and Nick O'Neil are attending a home party given by the Home in Louisville, prior to the running of the Kentucky Brown Derby. The Home's two horses entered in the race and Mr. Home advises all of his guests to bet on his horses. Before the race is run off, however, Alex and Nick receipt a tip that Home's horses do not have a chance to win, so the boys place their money on another horse and make quite a "killing." Their host on hearing this display of temerity and the two chums are forced to find new lodgings. O'Neil learns that the missing link in his family tree lives in the mountains not far from Louisville, and decides to investigate the matter and determine whether or not they are worth charging as relatives.

The boys find that the O'Neills are moonshiners who are engaged in a feud with rival liquor makers by the name of O'Poon, and therefore look upon Nick as a deadly enemy, however as long as he stays in their cabin the hospitality of the O'Neills is no burden that he would wish to lose. But the moment he leaves the rules will be broken. This leaves Alex and Nick in a terrible predicament, as the boys decide to stage a fake duel and write the O'Neills a true feud. This works out both escape. But as usual, O'Neills have a daughter and Nick resents her in the mountains and takes for the daughter, as his wife. The play only with the marriage of Sue and Nick, which ends the feud and leaves everybody happy.

The cost of the play will be picked this week from members of the Towne Club. The chorus which is open to all engineers is crashed by J. Hewlett, '22, a famous mask and wig dancer. Sixty men are trying out for it and display a fine array of talent.
