In promoting Peptic ulcer remedy, the salvation of millions, we would like to suggest that the subject of the cure of peptic ulcer is one of the most important and interesting subjects to the medical profession. There are many cases where the physician has been amazed at the results of the remedy, and the patient has been cured of the disease, which was deemed incurable by the medical men of the world. It is a well-known fact that the remedy has been used successfully in the treatment of many cases of peptic ulcer, and that it has been found to be highly beneficial. The remedy is safe and harmless, and can be administered to the patient in any case, without any risk or danger. We would like to suggest that the remedy be tried in all cases of peptic ulcer, and that it be given a fair trial before it is discarded as a useless remedy.

SENATOR PEPPER OPPOSED TO CHANGE OF SENATE CLOTURE RULE

Speaker's Office, House of Representatives

The Pennsylvania Daily

WASHINGTON, D.C., December 2nd

Current political forces have in many states and at the national level led to a change in the cloture rule that was in effect until now. This change is being discussed as a result of the Senate's inability to bring to a vote treaties that are important to the nation's foreign policy. Senator Pepper, who has previously opposed such a change, is now one of those who believes that the cloture rule must be modified to allow for a more efficient legislative process.

"As a constitutional scholar, I believe that the Senate has the right to regulate its own procedures. However, in this case, the Senate has been unable to take up and vote on treaties that are essential to our foreign policy. This is unacceptable," said Senator Pepper. "The cloture rule must be changed so that the Senate can fulfill its constitutional duty to consider treaties and other important legislation."

FRED B. SMITH—AN OPPORTUNITY

One of the interesting problems of modern education is how to make it comprehensive—how to give students the opportunity of working under different teachers and in different departments. Unfortunately, the plan of instruction at the University is such that the student is almost forced to choose his courses in advance and then to work in the departments which have the courses he desires. This results in a certain amount of specialization which makes the average student feel that he is not getting enough of the general education which he needs.

Another problem is the question of admission. The University is not large enough to give admission to all who desire to attend, and as a result many fine students are deprived of the opportunity to enter. This is especially true of students who are interested in subjects other than those which are taught at the University.

It is the purpose of this article to suggest a few possible solutions to these problems. The first suggestion is that the University should have a much larger number of instructors. This would enable students to choose their courses more freely and to work in a variety of departments. The second suggestion is that the University should have a larger number of scholarships. This would enable students who are financially unable to attend to enter the University.

The third suggestion is that the University should have a much larger number of courses in the arts and sciences. This would enable students to choose their courses more freely and to work in a variety of departments. The fourth suggestion is that the University should have a larger number of opportunities for students to engage in extracurricular activities. This would enable students to develop their interests and to become more interested in the University.

The last suggestion is that the University should have a larger number of opportunities for students to engage in athletics. This would enable students to develop their physical fitness and to become more interested in the University.

In conclusion, it is the hope of the writer that his suggestions will be given serious consideration by the University. He believes that these suggestions would greatly improve the University and would make it a better place for students to study.

Mumford '28 Suggests New Cheering Section Arrangement to the All University Committee last week, the Council on Athletics received a report from the All University Committee which Will Formulate Next Year's Frolics Program.

The report includes a number of suggestions for improving the cheering section, including the use of preferred applications, the reservation of seats for alumni, and the use of the Lincoln Memorial as a place to gather. In addition, the committee recommends that the Traditional Song Be played at the end of each game.

The Council on Athletics will consider these suggestions and make a decision on them at its next meeting.

Once There Was an Irishman and a Scotchman...

(born and reared on this side of the pond).

"If it was a man a woman the other I'd have to say another week, two weeks three weeks or more," said the Scotchman, "but if it was a woman a man the other I'd have to say another week, two weeks, three weeks or more, because if a man a woman the other it is the man who is the master and the woman who is the servant, but if a woman a man the other it is the woman who is the master and the man who is the servant."
