Writing another column for a change because to make a fact that we witnessed "The Maiden Voyage" at the Ceilidh on Monday evening, of course, you understand. We had the opportunity of liking other evening Saights in the city but elected to see this one. Just to relay every morning ideas were just in regard to Minn. Ned Wayburn. Certainly we could not say that this production is a success, for there are several friction parts which are somewhat only lacking, yet it was looked a good evening's entertainment which, for the present, satisfices entirely.

Wrigley's, if nothing else, has a trained and array of dancers, and one which does not tend to his mechanics, "Miss Ready, in particular, was pleasing to the eye; and her acrobatic dancing is to be highly commended.

Besides, this "Miss Nobility from Nowhere" is quite an addition to the cast. There are possibilities ideal for her, and if carefully fostered, she should prove quite a leader in making a name on the billboards.

A good word should therefore be written for the memory and scenic effects which naturally added to the pleasant background of the evening. In this respect, the vehicle is quite suitable. All that "The Maiden Voyage" is an enjoying entertainment completely, having several fine passages and possessing a clever group of dancers, their specialty being a Charleston number.

Minn. is enjoying her usual stve loses and Win. Dodge is making Merry in "The Judges Husband."

The housing horizon interests Earl Gordon's "White Cargo" at the Walnut for the evening. Outside of this, all's well. On Monday we hope to receive First Continental Challow ready to be prepared.
