Due to the large number of requests for information and the need to keep the committee informed, several members who have failed to return reports will be dropped and new men put in their places. This action is necessary if the committee hopes to obtain the best results in the short time that remains before the Easter Holidays, at which time the Vigilance work is usually conducted. Refractory committee men are not desired until after Easter.

Since Henry Ford seems to have contracted the habit of painting Waukesha black, and other ancient buildings, we sincerely hope he stays away from this campus. We'd like to see Logan Hall, College Hall, and the University Library with Henry's collection.

Dean Johnson was presented with a black and gold stole entirely from patches of Logan Hall. That isn't fine, but on any such momentous occasion we hope the presentation committee will present him with something along the line of a Trojan Horse, constructed entirely from fabric obtained from S22 Logan Hall.

The Automobile Show may interest some students, but if we have firmly resolved to continue our car until that other lecturer drops off.

Some of the cars that went to Yule last fall, certainly deserve to have a prominent position at any show which attempts to exhibit the latest developments in the way of automotive transportation.

Appropriate to nothing at all, allow us to state that the shrill war on Roosevelt St. is departing again.

An article in a recent issue of The Pennsylvania contained the information that Benjamin Franklin started a school known as the "Charity School of Philadelphia" which later became the University of Pennsylvania. However at the time that institution became the University of Pennsylvania, the charity part of the affair must have been lost, or excised.

That WASp man who is not going to study for any of the exams is either a D-man or a dummy.

The Freshman across the Hall says that, now that the Non-Migratory riding has been endorsed by the student body, he will have to postpone that trip to central he had been contemplating.

Since the removal of the Pennsylvania Library, from the University Library there has been a noticeable decrease in the number of persons falling down Library Steps.

And with the spirit of the beehive-headed cop, on the nearest Hall corner, is detracting the occupants of the new Pennsylvania Library. It just costs at least he is always present.

Our idea of a funny sight, would be to see Louis laughing at the above mentioned cop. . .

With the development of the "Hometown Publicity" pro-publicity campaign which, in our opinion it is possible in-due to the attention of the local newspaper. Although it is possible, however, because of the lack of cooperation, some students, but we have firmly resolved to continue our car until that other lecturer drops off.

JUDGE DE WEO PORTRAT

National Academy of Design Exhibit
Painting by John Weyg of Former Professor

VIEWED BY PROMINENT ARTISTS

Word was received at the University of Pennsylvania yesterday from the National Academy of Design in New York City that the Neagle portrait of Professor William Peter DeWoo loaned by the University for the Academy's Centennial Exhibition was adjudged by artists and critics who saw it as perhaps the finest portrait in the United States.

Professor DeWoo was a member of the National Academy for ten years, serving as Professor of Minstrels. His portrait is one of eight portraits painted by John Neagle, which are now highly prized possessions of the University.

Evidence of the high regard in which the Neagle portrait by Neagle was held by those who viewed it at the National Academy's exhibition in New York is given in a letter which Dr. Joseph H. Pennypacker, President and Provost of the University, received from John W. Wightman, Director of the National Academy of Design.

The letter in part follows:

"The Council of the National Academy of Design desire to express to you its heartfelt thanks for the generous loan of this splendid example of John Neagle's work. It will interest you to know that it was practically the unanimous view of the artists and critics who saw that exhibition that this painting by Neagle was perhaps the finest portrait in the United States, and all were delighted that this exhibition had been the means of so many of them seeing it."

"I feel that without this notable portrait, the Centennial Exhibition would have suffered a distinct loss, and I readily congratulate the University of Pennsylvania upon being its proud possessor."

performance of Ehrmann of the 196 pounds in throwing his opponent in 30 seconds proved to be the outstanding individual showing. Besides Ehrmann the winners included Content, Ellis and Melton in the 115 pound class, Harper and Ruppin in the 125 pound group, Lenz, Harding and Martin in the 135 pound class, Prince, Taylor, Koons and Staggs in 140 pounds, and Pratt in the 175 pound class this afternoon.

Although the novice meet is exciting work of the interest at Westphalia. Hall Coach Servios is seeing that the team does not slacken its preparations for the first home encounter of the season with Bears on Saturday. It is hoped that the squad will be able to present the full strength against the invaders from Providence. Judging from the condition of the men now, Coach Servios looks for the Red and Blue to break their winning streak at the expense of the Brownites.

ART WORK FOR CLASS
RECORD PROGRESSING

Although the material turned in for the business and editorial boards of The Pennsy has been rather small in quantity, the art work of the month has been producing rapidly, and Robert Soble, '26, Art Editor, has expressed his satisfaction with both the quality and quantity of the drawings. A large part of the material is in the hands of the engineers, and the remainder is in the process of completion.

The work is being done by members of the art board, together with those members of the junior class who are in the competition. The board this year includes many talented artists, among whom are Clarence A. Liffield, '26, Editor-in-Chief of the Punch bowl. The other members of the board in addition to Soble and Liffield are W. Smith, T. J. Call and J. R. Garrett, all members of the Class of '26.

According to Soble, the present competition among members of the Junior Class is the largest in the history of the Punch bowl. It includes in its numbers the leading artists of the Punch bowl and the Red and Blue, and their work, which is being patterned after the modern Italian style, is progressing very favorably.
