STUDENT ARCHITECTS WORK ON EXHIBITION

In pursuance of the regulations estab- lished by the Architectural Design Staff in the School of Fine Arts an exhibition of drawings submitted by students of the Freshman, Sophomore and Junior classes in Architectural Design will be held on January 19, January 25, in the exhibition room of the School of Fine Arts. The students will submit their drawings on January 28, and their predictions will be held open to general view for a period of ten days.

In addition to being interested in the general public, the drawings will be carefully inspected by the Architectural Design Staff on Tuesday, January 28, and the excellence of the respective drawings will be nominated by that time. According to Mr. W. Tho- bull, assistant to the dean, it is esti- mated that the number of drawings submit- ted will reach the sum of approxi- mately three hundred.

FOOTBALL THEME OF ANDY SMITH’S LAST WRITING

“Winning is not the thing in football—it’s the game in the west,” said Andy Smith in the last public message that he made before his untimely death. This statement was the theme of an article written for The All-Sports Magazine by the noted coach just before he was stricken with pneumonia in November.

“The loss to be gained from foot- ball is an important one to all who can profit by it,” wrote the famous Penn- sylvania alumnus. “Winning is not everything; it is far better to have played the game squarely and to have lost than to have won at the sacrifice of ideals.

“Be football it is not a question of winning or losing in a particular game or for that matter in any season. Winning means the gaining of the respect of one’s players, the confidence of the public and a victory over one’s self. I have found that often it is pos- sible to win when to do so would be to fail last. If the members of a team which goes down to defeat before im- portor football players allow themselves to be depressed by the thoughts of defeat, the chances are that they will actually lose.

“However, if they are able to profit by their own mistakes and gain by the experience, they may well gain by the defeat and thus turn it into a victory for themselves. I attribute much of the success that has come to men in the past five years in the West to the ex- periences that I gained through the de- feats suffered during my first years there.”

AN EDUCATION FROM THE ROSTRUM

During the past year, many notable lectures and critics have been brought to the campus by the University lecture bureau, as a means of stimulating discussion to address the students. This practice has steadily grown, with more and more additional opportunities for general education to the public as well as to the student body, are delivered during the course of the academic year. Reports from the Lecture Bureau indicate, despite the educational value of the lectures and the interesting topics discussed, by far the general opinion of the audience, which are nothing short of beautiful, is limited to but a few. In the current issue of the University yearbook, the importance of the lectures delivered, is composed of the general public, with only a few hundred of them present.

The subjects of the lectures are timely and cover a wide field, including music, art, literature, history, health, education, religion, and many other topics. In fact, they include such topics as the mutual interests of both the student and the general public, as well as to the student body, are delivered during the course of the academic year. The new year has already set a record pace for the presentation of extraordinary shows of opera vaudeville, but the bill to be presented at B. F. Keith's Theatre during the week of January 18 is one of the greatest aggregations of brilliant features ever assembled on one bill. Stars of international importance, as several of America's best-known vaudeville favorites are included in the list, and it would be a difficult matter to confer special honors among the several acts of headline distinction.

Chief among those special features, because they are Philadelphians, are El Brendel and Flo Birt, two musical comedians and vaudeville stars who began their stage careers in this city. They have only recently returned to the two-a-day and present a restaurant comedy called "Just Fun," based on Jack Ladd's "Gus the Bus" stories. El Brendel is one of the funniest of drill comedians on the American stage, and his new vehicle, in which he and Miss Birt are supported by Walter Rider, also a popular Philadelphian, and a company of capable players, the fun runs at a furious pace.

The musical comedy stage is also represented by Gisette Myrtil, the fascinating French revue star. Her newest number is one of the greatest hits of the season. Gisette Myrtil is a vivacious, amusing, and charming song and dance team of songs, dances and melody. Miss Myrtil is a vivacious, amusing, and charming song and dance team of songs, dances and melody.

A special added attraction will be James J. Corbett and Bobby Barry in a lovable comedy called "Taking the Air." On the stage Corbett has gained just as big a following as when he was the champion pugilist of the world. Cliff Nazareno won much enthusiasm when he offered his songs and comedy at Fay's yesterday, where he is the headline this week on a bill that has something to appeal to every possible shade of taste, with plenty of humor, dancing and melody. Nazareno has his own method of delivering his songs and comedy, and he gives all that he does an individual and zippy flavor which makes his offering a delight from start to finish. It is one of the brightest tricks and Nazareno has the able assistance of Bob Garrity at the piano.

There is universal interest in the picture feature, "The Keeper of the Bees," as adapted for the screen from the novel by Gene Stratton Porter. Spiritual work is done by Robert Fraser, Clara Bow and Allyn Mills, while Gene Stratton Moore, a grandchild of the late novelist, is also a member of the cast, and he attracts much interest. The picture, which teaches a wholesome lesson, and is optimistic in attitude, deals with a young war veteran who goes to California, believing that he has but a short time to live. By chance, he comes to find himself a keeper of bees, and this leads to health, happiness and adventures that he had little anticipated—which makes up a story of encouraging kind. Pretty girls, pleasing songs and bright dances make up "A Study in Youth," the Lane-Travers Revue, which is a pleasing act on the remainder of the vaudeville programme. Gene Lorenz and his "University Quakers" have a capital act of songs, dances and melody that delights all. The Morton Brothers, who are "papier-machiers" and harmonica experts, have a novel musical turn. The Blu Trio have an artistic and attractive playing act, which they call "A Study in White."

ATHLETES!

Do you sometimes put on pants?

Do you sometimes go out into civilized society? Are you included—even by mistake—at lunches, dinners, teas? Then, what do you know about the other fellow’s game? You can’t discuss the dinner throw with doayers. You can’t dock debutantes in the jaw. Intelligent men and women talk of art, the theatre, dancing, the latest world idea… and not even an arrowy dive into the green turtle soup can save you from the consequences of not knowing what it all’s about. Borens isn’t asked a second time! Don’t be muscle-bound above the ears!
