PROFESSIONAL CAREER IS OFTEN DANGEROUS

Yale Professor Declares That Risk As Well As Opportunity Awaits Beginner

ASPIRANT SHOULD LOVE WORK
"Changes as well as stagnant opportunity await the man who intends to follow a professional career," said Professor H. D. French of the English Department of Yale University, recently in a talk before Yale Undergraduates. The speaker then considered the recent broadening of the scope of Professional life, showing that the same human approach to the arts, business and science is exhibited in the careers of such men as Einstein, the electrical genius, and other leaders in these fields.

Professor French used the topic "What We Mean by Profession," and opened his talk with the exhortation that an aspirant should love work. He said, "Many men are dissatisfied because they have entered the wrong type of occupation. Your work will become your leisure and especially after your college years. You men will distinguish yourself in a work that you are and what you do."

"I never advise a man to enter a profession unless he feels irresistibly attracted by the allure of a professional career more than outweigh these extremely requirements, provided that the man who follows it is genuinely interested."

In the first place the all-devouring desire for financial gain, which is so evident in business, seldom bespots the professional man. Secondly, the true reason is found in the shocking fact which a professional career has for its followers. This is the man who follows it is genuinely interested.

The speaker also pointed out the many attractions offered by a professional career more than outweigh these existing requirements, provided that the man who follows it is genuinely interested.

CO-OFFICE COMMITTEE TO HOLD SECOND MEETING

The Freieman Cooperative Committee will meet in Benedict Hall today at 7:30 for the purpose of discussing several important questions which are not before the class. This will be the second time that the committee has met since its last appointment.

Among the important topics to be discussed will be the possibility of having a Freieman banquet. This suggestion was introduced at the last meeting but no definite decision was made on the matter. Plans concerning the annual parts fight between the first-year men and the Sophists will also be discussed and it is expected that a committee to take care of the class interests in the fight will be appointed by President MacDonald.

A plan to hold an interclass fight between the Esterkinds is now being considered and, if carried out, a fight combination will be selected for it. Plans for a smoker, which will be held before the parts fight, will also be discussed. An endeavor will be made to arrange some kind of entertainment for the second term dissatisfaction in order to bring them into better contact with the rest of the class and to secure their support and cooperation.

or so behind.

In the second round of the evening Freieman High School eliminated Case Catholic High School in a little struggle, 22 to 18. The winners held a three point advantage at half time but increased their lead as the game progressed.

Catholic made an attempt to come close near the close of the game but a counter attack offset the efforts of the losers.

Tonight St. John's Manity will meet Collegiate Prep at 8 o'clock in the second round of elimination games in the Preparatory School division. Taylor School clammers with Weenonah Academy in the second and last game of the day at 8 o'clock. Taylor School drew a bye in the first round of the New York Military Academy was unable to participate owing to lack of permission.

Catholic won its initial game by default as Study Hall Academy failed to show an appearance for its scheduled game.

CAST A CONSTRUCTIVE BALLOT

Students who are members of the University Council, as well as the students who are not, have an opportunity to cast their ballots in this election. The candidates they may vote for, however, are confined to those who are members of the Council. It is unfortunate that those students who are members of the Council have the privilege of voting for themselves, while those who are not have only the privilege of voting against them.

The election is not only a means by which the members of the Council are chosen, but also a means by which the non-members are able to express their opinions. It is true that the Council cannot do everything that is within its power, but it can do a great deal. In order to do this, it is necessary that the members of the Council should be well informed as to the opinions of the students. The election is the only means by which this can be accomplished.

SETTLING DAMAGE IN THE DOMORITIES

With the inauguration of the new dormitory system by the Board of Trustees, the students of the College have been given a new opportunity to settle their differences in a more equitable manner. The old system of charging for damage to dormitories has been abandoned, and in its place a new system has been established. This system is designed to make the students responsible for the care of their own dormitories, and to encourage them to take a more active interest in their own affairs.

The new system has been in operation for several weeks, and the results have been most satisfactory. The students have shown a marked improvement in their conduct, and the dormitories are now in much better condition than they were under the old system. The new system has been so successful that it is now being considered for adoption by other colleges.

STUDENT, MEET PROFESSOR

The Dean of the College, Mr. John H. Wood, addressed the students on the subject of the duties and responsibilities of students. He said that the students of the College are responsible for their own conduct, and that they must take an active interest in the affairs of the College. He reminded them that they are representatives of the College, and that they must do their best to make it a worthy institution.

Mr. Wood also spoke on the importance of preparation for the future. He said that the students of the College must be ready to meet the demands of the world, and that they must be prepared to take advantage of the opportunities that are offered to them.

The students of the College are fortunate in having a Dean who is so thoroughly prepared to guide them. Under his leadership, they can be assured of a bright and successful future.

Sidelights on Tonight.

Notable among the attractions coming to Philadelphia in Princess Florence which will open at the Sixteenth next Monday evening is the production in a musical version of "The Prince of Zanzibar" and will appear in this city with the original cast which has been playing in New York for the past six months. It is rumored that Princess Florence is a city girl and will be present for the season.

Gail Beverly who is appearing in "May Flowers" at the Chestnut Street Opera House this week, in private life is the daughter of Comedian Nelson P. Ross, T. H. N., who was recently stationed in the Philadelphia Navy Yard at which time Miss Beverly completed a course of dancing instructions at the Corsettes Studio of Dancing.

Appearing at the Forrest Theatre this week is a musical version of "Seven Brides" by Harold T. H. N. who is recently stationed in the Philadelphia Navy Yard at which time Miss Beverly completed a course of dancing instructions at the Corsettes Studio of Dancing.

A notable feature of the production is the musical comedy success at the Chestnut Street Opera House.

Joseph Stanley started his stage career in "Eva" in "Cocky "Tara's Castles" and it is of interest to note that at the time Mr. Stanley was appearing in a part in this country, Miss Sawyer was playing littlefellow roles on the English stage. Mr. Stanley and Miss Sawyer are both featured in "May Flowers" and the musical comedy success at the Chestnut Street Opera House.

"Applesauce," the uplifting comedy at the Adelphi Theatre this week, was written by Barry Hines and produced for Mr. and Mrs. R. W. T. N. who is recently stationed in the Philadelphia Navy Yard at which time Miss Beverly completed a course of dancing instructions at the Corsettes Studio of Dancing.

The show is one of the best that has come from Broadway this year and is creating favorable comment in the city.

Looking in on the part of Morris Cost which resulted in a brief lease of absence from Boston for the Moscow Art Theatre. Musical style and permission for it to come to America for a season of lyric dramas will be fulfilled with a first performance on next Monday evening at the Chestnut Street Opera House.

The programme will be limited to one week consisting of six evening and one matinée performance. The entire productions will be presented in English and English translations have been prepared by George S. and Gilbert B. H. N. who is recently stationed in the Philadelphia Navy Yard at which time Miss Beverly completed a course of dancing instructions at the Corsettes Studio of Dancing.

Dundie Spencer who plays the role of "Bruce Robert" in "It's O' Zal Za!" the successful New York and London comedy at the Lyric Theatre, is one of the best actors on the stage today. She is an expert swimmer, horsewoman, tennis, golf, and can hold her own in some of the best net sports in the country. Her knowledge of boxing was taught by Benny Leonard the retired, undefeated lightweight champion of the world.

Philadelphia theatre-players will be delighted by the engagement of "Snoopy Cinderella" which are to appear at the Broad Street Theatre on Tuesday, March 15. Irene Bordell plays the leading role and the production is all
